WEED-KILLERS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Honestly, we have little faith in so-called non-poisonous weed-killers for our garden walks, paths or avenues, our scepticism being due to the trial of a "Sure-to-Kill" powder, some few years since resulting in a fiasco. While pinning our faith, nevertheless, to the arsenical weed-killers, carefully used according to directions, none is fool-proof, and while still regarding them as a boon and a blessing when applied during suitable conditions—that is, while gravel is sufficiently softened by recent rain, with the prospect of a fine spell following, this phase of the weed worry is done with for the season through. Again would we emphasise the need of every precaution in the use of these undoubtedly efficient weed-killers.

HATCHING OF DUCKLINGS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Hens are usually employed for hatching the eggs, as they are not so successful in an incubator, and ducks themselves are very troublesome, both as sitters and mothers. They are hatched in practically the same way as hen's eggs, only they require more moisture. This may be supplied by watering the ground around the nest two or three times a week. We gave hints a short time ago on incubator hatching, but may here repeat some of the chief points. The temperature may be a degree lower than for hen's eggs: with a hot air machine 102 degrees, and with a hot water tank 103 degrees. But the most important point is to supply sufficient moisture, and this is where the failure usually is with incubators. We have recently seen it advised by a poultry expert to damp the eggs with a wet cloth after their daily cooling during the first three weeks of incubation, and during the last week to dip the eggs completely into a basin of water of about 100 degrees temperature.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

CYCLIST'S INJURIES.

CLAIM AGAINST 'BUS OWNER DISMISSED.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

Dismissing a claim brought by George Glover, Mountpleasant square, Rathmines, against Richard N. Kennedy, Ulster Lodge, Stillorgan, a 'bus owner, Judge Shannon said that, while he felt for the plaintiff, who had suffered severe injuries, he had to come to the conclusion on the evidence that the accident was due to his own negligence.

The plaintiff was riding a motor cycle combination when the accident occurred on the road from Skerries to Dublin on May 3rd, 1930. The evidence showed that there was considerable traffic on the road, and that the plaintiff rode up close behind the 'bus, and tried to pass it. The 'bus slowed down to avoid cyclists in front, and a collision occurred.

Mr. Hector Hughes, K.C., and Mr. H. Hare (instructed by Mr. J. C. Erskine), appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Kevin Dixon (instructed by Messrs. Joyce and Joyce) for the defendant.

LADDER THAT SLIPPED.

SETTLEMENT OF SCAFFOLDER'S CLAIM.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

An application under the Workmen's Compensation Act was made by Thomas O'Callaghan, scaffolder, living near Tallaght, Co. Dublin, against Charles O'Byrne, decorator, 436 North Circular road, Dublin.

It was stated that the applicant, while in the employment of Mr. O'Byrne, was working at Clondalkin Church on the 29th July, 1930, when a ladder slipped, and he fell to the ground, receiving injuries to the shoulder, hand and foot.

Mr. O'Byrne denied responsibility, alleging that the applicant was not a workman to whom the Act applied; and, further, that the injury was attributable to his own disobedience of directions given to him.

The Judge, in giving judgment, referred to the payments made by the respondent to the applicant since the accident, and held that there was thus an admission of liability. He also held that the accident arose in the course of the man's employment, and that he was totally incapacitated until the 11th of April last. He awarded the applicant 35s. a week from the date of the accident until April 11th, giving credit for the payments made, and £1 per week from April 11th to the present time, payment to cease on the applicant's being taken back to work.

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) appeared for the applicant; and Mr. W. G. Fallon (instructed by Mr. J. Vincent Brady) for the respondent.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

ELECTION OF A BOARD.

INJUNCTION AGAINST MANAGING DIRECTOR.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

Reserved judgment was delivered in favour of the plaintiffs in the case in which the City of Dublin Assurance Company claimed an injunction to restrain Mr. Charles Walter Guest, managing director of the company, from excluding the chairman and directors from the offices of the company, or interfering with them in the management of the business of the company.

RETIRING DIRECTORS.

Mr. Justice Meredith, in the course of his judgment, said that the action arose out of matters that resulted from the proceedings of the sixth ordinary annual meeting of the City of Dublin Assurance Company, which was held on the 15th May, 1931, and which had been regularly convened for that date. Six of the seven directors were due to retire, and on retirement they were eligible for re-election, and next on the agenda after that business was a notice of motion that the number of directors should be reduced to five. Then there was a motion that Mr. Walter Guest be elected a director. The notice of motion that the number of directors should be reduced to five was one which could possibly be moved as an amendment to the resolution to re-elect all the retiring directors, but the chairman took exception to the motion on the ground that it was out of order because, under the Articles of Association, at that ordinary annual meeting it was obligatory on the meeting to elect as many directors as there were retiring directors. The chairman held that they were obliged to elect six, and rested his contention on the Articles of Association. The contention that the number of directors could be reduced or increased only at an extraordinary general meeting was one that did not commend itself to his lordship, as he considered that it would lead to many absurdities, and he had no hesitation in holding that an office was only properly said to be vacant when the office remained in existence after the person who had occupied it had left it.

MEANING OF RESOLUTION.

The meaning of a resolution proposed at a meeting such as that, that the number of directors be reduced, was not that a particular director was removed there and then from any office he held, and his lordship held that the motion was quite in order, and that, in point of fact, the ruling of the chairman was incorrect, although, he was quite satisfied, the ruling was perfectly honestly given.

The resolution for the re-election of the outgoing directors was duly proposed and seconded, and the chairman gave another very honest decision. The chairman held that the resolution was lost, whereupon a poll was demanded as of right. The chairman quite properly said that he would have to give a poll, and that they would have to appoint scrutineers, and then he said that Mr. Guest's proxies would have to be ruled out. This created more or less tumult, and his lordship must hold that a stage had been reached when Mr. McCarthy, who was the proper chairman, could no longer assert his authority as chairman and continue the proceedings in an orderly manner, and in these circumstances Mr. McCarthy adjourned the meeting to a subsequent date.

INHERENT POWER.

His Lordship held that Mr. McCarthy had inherent power to adjourn the meeting, which, he also considered, was intended as an adjournment of the poll until the date of the subsequent meeting. Mr. McCarthy and his five supporters left the meeting, and Mr. Guest was moved to the chair, and proceeded to carry on the meeting. The resolutions which had been ruled out of order all were passed, and a board of five directors was appointed. That was not done at the immediate continuation of the meeting, because Mr. Guest went to consult his solicitor, and the meeting was adjourned until five o'clock in the evening, and it was at the five o'clock meeting that this further business was done and a board appointed.

When the members of the old board attempted to get into the premises they found themselves shut out. Admission was refused to them, and, on account of that refusal and subsequent refusal to allow Mr. McCarthy and the members of the old board into the office, this action for an injunction arose.

PERFECTLY IRREGULAR.

His Lordship held that the adjournment of the meeting by Mr. McCarthy was a valid adjournment, and that the subsequent proceedings at the meeting at which Mr. Guest presided were perfectly irregular. Once a poll had been demanded, that prevented any of these inconsistent motions, and the motion reducing the number of directors and the motion electing Mr. Guest, being taken until a poll had been taken or until the whole proceedings in respect of the original resolution and the poll had been set aside in a regular manner. Until that had been done, the ruling of the chairman stood.

In these circumstances, his lordship held that Mr. Guest's board was not duly elected and that the retiring directors remained directors until a new board was regularly elected. The injunction would be allowed, and would continue in force so long as the directors who had been declared by his lordship to be the directors remained in office.

In regard to costs, his lordship said that he would not allow costs to either side.

Mr. Dickie, K.C.; Mr. Overend, K.C., and Mr. C. S. Campbell (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Sons) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. FitzGibbon, K.C.; Mr. Chadwick, K.C., and Mr. Tobias (instructed by Messrs. William Smyth and Son) for the defendant.

PURCHASE OF A HOUSE.

ACTION TO RESCIND CONTRACT.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

Reserved judgment was delivered, dismissing the action which was brought by Miss Mary Carbin, of Vernon Villa, 75 Vernon avenue, Clontarf, against Patrick Somerville, of Strand road, Dollymount, to have rescinded a contract for the purchase from the defendant of Vernon Villa for £1,130, and for the return of the purchase money.

The plaintiff alleged that the defendant misrepresented the character of the house to her, he having stated that it was in every way free from damp, while, in fact, it was damp and rain-soaked.

The defendant denied the alleged misrepresentation, and pleaded that the agreement to purchase the house was come to after the plaintiff and her mother had inspected the premises, not in company with him.

Mr. Justice Meredith said that Miss Carlin had made a most unfortunate bargain, and he would not regret if he could relieve her. She had entered into an agreement on a statement that was not, in fact, justified; but as the sale had been completed the relief which she claimed could not be given unless she could prove actual fraud on the part of the defendant, and she had failed to do that. The statement of the defendant that the house was dry and free from damp was not fraudulent, although it was not true. The defendant had taken steps to cope with the moisture which was in the walls, but in believing that he had put the house right and made it dry and free from damp the defendant, he thought, had been unduly optimistic, and it would have been more candid on the part of the defendant if he had referred to the troubles which he had had with the house in the past.

There was no evidence of warranty; but, having regard to the circumstances, he would give the defendant half costs.

Mr. FitzGibbon, K.C., who, with Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Maurice Walker (instructed by Messrs. Franks and Oulton) appeared for the defendant, submitted that the costs should follow the event, and that his client should be allowed his full costs.

Mr. Justice Meredith said that the defendant was very lucky to have won his case, and he would not alter his decision regarding costs.

Mr. FitzGerald, K.C.; Mr. Finlay, K.C., and Mr. William Black (instructed by Mr. James Fagan) appeared for the plaintiff.

THROWN FROM HIS SEAT.

'BUS PASSENGER AWARDED £1,550.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

The hearing of the action of John McCue, of 38 Manor place, Dublin, against the Gordon Motor Services (1928), Ltd., Aston's quay, Dublin, was concluded. The plaintiff claimed damages for personal injuries caused by the alleged negligence of a servant of the defendant company in the driving of an omnibus near Kilbeggan, on the way to Athlone, on the 28th of last February.

It was stated that the plaintiff was travelling as a passenger on the 'bus, and was thrown violently from his seat as the result of the jolting of the vehicle as it was going round a curve in the road at Newtown. He received injuries to the head and suffered paralysis of the left side of the body.

The defendants denied negligence, and also denied that the plaintiff received the injuries complained of.

Mr. FitzGerald, K.C., Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. William Black (instructed by Mr. James Fagan) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., Mr. Dockrell, K.C., and Mr. Charles Casey (instructed by Mr. John J. McDonald) for the defendants.

The jury found for the plaintiff, assessing damages at £1,550, and judgment was entered accordingly.

On the application of Mr. Dockrell, a stay of execution was granted.

OWNERSHIP OF £15,800.

JUDGMENT IN BALLYHAUNIS DISPUTE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

Reserved judgment was delivered in favour of the plaintiffs in the actions which were brought by Patrick Freeley, of Main street, Ballyhaunis, and the Rev. Michael J. Owens, of Bunnacurry, Achill, against John Green, of Cave, Ballyhaunis, personal representative of Austin Freeley, late of Carrowreagh, Ballyhaunis, deceased.

Patrick Freeley claimed a declaration that a sum of £5,000 on deposit receipt in the Ballyhaunis branch of the Ulster Bank in the joint names of Austin Freeley and himself belonged beneficially to him; and the Rev. Michael J. Owens claimed a declaration that a sum of £10,826 on deposit receipt in the same bank in the joint names of Austin Freeley and himself belonged beneficially to him.

The defendant denied that the moneys belonged beneficially to the plaintiffs, and counter-claimed a declaration that the plaintiffs held the deposit receipts for him as personal representative of the deceased Austin Freeley.

Mr. Justice Meredith directed that the plaintiffs should bear their own costs, and that the defendant should have his costs out of the estate of the late Austin Freeley.

Mr. Denning, K.C., Mr. Leonard, K.C., and Mr. T. J. Conolly (instructed by Messrs. T. Dillon-Leetch and Sons) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Micks (instructed by Mr. Austin Colan) for the defendant.

Mr. Conor Maguire (instructed by Messrs. A. W. Briscoe and Co.) held a watching brief on behalf of Thomas Cooney and Sarah Anne Cooney, of Ballyhaunis, who were stated to be entitled to a share of the estate.

RUN OVER BY A LORRY.

£1,000 FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE AND A JURY.)

The hearing of the action of Mrs. Elizabeth Kavanagh, of Ballinameesda, Kilbride, County Wicklow, against Guiseppe Vella, trading as the Central Produce Stores, and Robert Johnston, both of Capel street, Dublin, was concluded. The plaintiff on behalf of herself and her two children claimed damages for the loss of her husband, Thomas P. Kavanagh, a farmer, whose death, she alleged, was caused by the negligence of the defendants, their servants or agents, in the management of a motor lorry at Ballinacor, Kilbride, on the 17th of last December.

The plaintiff stated that her husband was driving a cow along the road, when a lorry driven by the defendant, Guiseppe Vella, knocked him down and ran over him, killing him instantly.

The defendants denied negligence and pleaded contributory negligence on the part of the deceased, Thomas P. Kavanagh.

The jury found that the defendant Guiseppe Vella, was negligent, and that the deceased Thomas P. Kavanagh was not negligent, and they assessed damages at £1,000, of which they apportioned £150 to the widow; £350 to the elder child; and £500 to the younger child.

Judgement was entered for the plaintiff accordingly.

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., Mr. Michael J. Ryan, K.C., and Mr. J. J. Mooney (instructed by Mr. Augustus Cullen), appeared for the plaintiff and the defendants appeared in person.

MAN'S HAND BLOWN OFF.

CARETAKER'S APPEAL DISMISSED.

The Supreme Court resumed the hearing of the appeal which was brought by Francis Dixon, caretaker of Tipperary Technical Schools, from an order of the High Court affirming an order of the Circuit Court Judge, who refused his application for arbitration in a claim by him against the Tipperary County Council (South Riding) and others for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act for personal injuries received on the 29th January, 1930.

It was stated that while the applicant was cleaning the premises he saw what he thought was a paper-crusher on the floor, and on picking it up and examining it his hand was blown off by the article, which was a Mills bomb. The High Court upheld the Circuit Court Judge in his decision that the accident did not arise out of, and in the course of, the applicant's employment.

The argument on behalf of the appellant having concluded,

The Court, without calling on counsel for the respondents, dismissed the appeal, with costs, being of the opinion that the accident did not arise out of, and in the course of, the appellant's employment.

Mr. Budd (instructed by Mr. St. James B. England) appeared for the appellant; Mr. Hubert Hamilton, K.C., and Mr. J. L. Esmonde (instructed by Mr. F. E. Tydd) for the Tipperary County Council; Mr. J. J. Walshe (instructed by Mr. N. F. Maher) for the Joint Committee; and Mr. J. J. Walshe (instructed by Messrs. W. Frewen and Son) for the Tipperary Urban Council.

ROYAL HOSPITAL FOR INCURABLES.

A meeting of the Board of Governors of the Royal Hospital for Incurables was held at the hospital on Tuesday morning, 16th inst., at 9.30 o'clock, Sir Walter H. Boyd, Bart., K.C. (Vice-Chairman), presiding. There were 340 Governors present at this meeting.

The proceedings of the last meeting of the Board were read, confirmed and signed. Apologies were received from several Governors unable to be present.

Miss Redington Roche, Miss French, J. R. Warner, Esq., and Patrick Lynch, Esq., K.C., having kindly consented to act, were appointed Visiting Governors for the month.

The Chairman made special reference to the hospital's bank debt of over £6,000, and he urgently appealed for funds to aid in reducing this liability, especially for contributions of £21, to qualify the kind donors as Life Governors, who, as such, have complete control of the management of the institution. The hospital (containing 249 beds) has claims on all classes of the community, as it admits poor and necessitous incurable patients, without religious distinction, and from all parts of Ireland, WITHOUT FEE OR REWARD FROM THE SUFFERER.

TO OWNERS OF GARDENS.

The Committee of Management will be thankful for any donations of surplus fruit or vegetables sent to the hospital during the summer months, and the Lady Superintendent will gratefully acknowledge any such gifts on behalf of the inmates.

Payments reported, and three Life Governors were unanimously elected as such:—"Anonymous," qualifying as Life Governor, Lady Maddock, £25; Charles E. Boyce, Esq., M.D., £21; Walter G. Harvey, Esq., M.D., £21.

The election of patients was then proceeded with. Fourteen names appeared on the printed list. It was proposed by Patrick Lynch, Esq., K.C., seconded by H. J. Monahan, Esq., B.L., and resolved:—"There being two cancer patients for the two vacant beds, they be elected without voting." The following two general cases, having received the highest number of votes, were declared duly elected patients, and will receive an allowance from the funds pending suitable vacancies:—Catherine Leary, cancer of the breast; Marion Wheelock, lupus and tubercular disease; Maud Hynes, heart disease; Delia Normoyle, chronic rheumatic arthritis.

The Board adjourned to Tuesday, 18th August, when an election for male candidates will take place.

The Board tender their grateful thanks for the following kind contributions received since last meeting: £3—Captain C. R. Barton, D.L.; £2—"J.E.B."; £1 1/- each—Ven. Archdeacon Atkinson, Mrs. E. M. Hone; £1 each—Mrs. Lowry Acton, Miss Lenox Conyngham, "A Friend" (per W. H. Fry, Esq.), Messrs. W. and P. Thompson, Ltd., E. Armstrong, Esq.; 10/- each—Mrs. Monahan, Miss Searight.

Further contributions are earnestly solicited to reduce the hospital's bank debt (£6,057 3/7), and will be gratefully received by William Perrin, Esq. (Chairman), 27 Palmerston Gardens, Dublin; Sir Walter H. Boyd, Bart., K.C. (Vice-Chairman), Balnagowan, Palmerston Park, Dublin; Alfred G. Hollinshead, Esq., J.P. (Hon. Treasurer), The Haven, Palmerston Gardens, Dublin; or by the Registrar at the hospital.

ACID causes Headaches
ACIDITY haunts its victim like a shadow. No appetite; what you do eat disagrees, causes flatulence and makes you sluggish. Work is an effort. Before night a headache.
Do you know what is wrong? An acid-soaked system! Too many acid foods. But you need not diet your way out of this difficulty! Take a tablespoonful or two of 'Milk of Magnesia.'
From the hour you relieve that acid condition you will feel like another person. Every spoonful of 'Milk of Magnesia' will neutralize many times as much acid. Take it when the stomach nerves are over-stimulated from worry, excitement; when everything ferments in your stomach, and waste matter is poisoning the bloodstream, or whenever the bowels are clogged. 'Milk of Magnesia' has a gentle, laxative action. It is ever so much better for one than the harsh purgatives that upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles.
An occasional dose of 'Milk of Magnesia' is usually all that is necessary to avoid those periodical attacks of sluggishness so apt to occur with any person who does not get a great deal of physical exercise.
Small size 1/3. Large size (treble quantity) 2/6. At all chemists.
'MILK OF MAGNESIA'
Be careful to ask for 'Milk of Magnesia' which is the registered trade mark of Phillips' preparation of magnesia.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

A Queer Trade.

I have often heard it stated that every person in the world has a double, but I was not aware until recently that Hollywood had taken this theory as a fact, and that the directors of the large film companies of Hollywood search America from end to end to find doubles for their stars.

A young woman who left Ireland some time ago for Los Angeles has written to me to say that she has secured a job as a double for a famous star. She tells me, however, that the job is not by any means as exciting as she had expected.

She is called "a stand-in girl," and got the place, not for her acting talents or her beautiful features, but because her measurements and her colouring nearly approached those of the star. She exists only to save the star needless fatigue. She stands to be fitted for the star's dresses and costumes, the idea being that anything that fits her will fit the star. The director uses her at rehearsals, but only as he would use a lay figure. She is never filmed, and, though she may be in Hollywood for many years, is not likely ever to get a part, unless through some extraordinary freak of fortune. However, she has a steady job, and is well paid, so that she is not complaining.

Short Sermons.

A correspondent, interested by my remarks about the length of sermons, has sent me a few specimens of exceptionally short discourses. The majority of them, as one would presume, hail from America; and I quote a selection.

A clergyman in New York once chose as his text: "Take no thought for the morrow." His following sermon consisted of the words: "Don't worry; it's wicked." Another American was asked to preach on behalf of some orphan children, who were stationed near the pulpit. He looked earnestly in their direction and said with all the pathos that he could muster: "Whence shall we get bread that these may eat?" That was the whole sermon, but I am told that the collection which followed was the largest ever taken in that church.

Another charity sermon, preached by Dean Swift in Dublin, had an equally good effect. It was on the text: "He that hath pity on the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given, will He pay him again"; and it consisted of this sentence: "This is God's word, and if you like the security, down with the dust."

Chewing Gum.

I met an American a few days ago who gave me the following interesting information about chewing-gum, which my dictionary defines, I see, as "the hardened secretion of the spruce tree, or other insoluble substance, chewed after the manner of tobacco by boys and girls." It was first introduced into America by one John Murphy, an Irishman, who met an old Mexican, and was given a piece of some rubbery substance to chew, the Mexican himself chewing it contentedly as he conversed. Murphy, it seems, did not care for the taste of the gum, but, being a man of inventive mind, he made some experiments, with a view to using it in the manufacture of false teeth. It proved useless for dental purposes, and he decided afterwards that it would be worth while to try it as a sweetmeat in a more palatable form.

This was about fifty years ago, and now forests are disappearing as a result of the growing appetite for this confection. The chewing habit, it seems, is stronger than ever, but I notice that the office girl—or it is stenographer?—who used to chew so vigorously in the American pictures is less in evidence nowadays.

Administering a Lesson.

I have just heard of an amusing incident that occurred on a golf course near Dublin during the week.

Four friends were accustomed to play a weekly foursome, and one of the players, who was given to teeing his ball ahead of the markers, resented the intimation that he was careless about the rules. Though mildly reproved, he continued to tee his ball farther and farther ahead of the legal line, until he had an advantage of almost two feet over the others at every tee.

It was then that his companions put their heads together and evolved a plan to teach the erring one a lesson, without boldly calling his attention to his infraction of the rules. They said nothing until he had again taken about two feet; but at the next green, with all four balls resting at varying distances from the hole, every one of the three moved his ball two feet nearer the hole.

"Hey there! What do you fellows think you are doing?" shouted the rule-breaker.

Then one of the trio quietly replied: "You took your two feet on the tee, and we decided to take ours on the green."

Dilemma.

While standing on the steps of Harcourt street Station one afternoon last week, I saw a man counting a handful of silver. He might have found a better place to do his personal accounting, as he discovered when a passer-by happened to jog his elbow. Naturally, some of the money fell from the man's hand. Three shillings fell on the flags, and what looked like a half-crown rolled into the middle of the street among the traffic.

For a moment the man hesitated. Ought he to leave the three shillings and recover the half-crown first, or vice versa? He decided that the right thing to do was to pick up the half-crown, which, after some manœuvring amidst the traffic, he recovered. His decision, however, proved wrong. When he went to look for his three shillings they had disappeared, leaving him at least sixpence more out of pocket than he would have been otherwise.

Another Great Storm.

Recently I mentioned the great storm that ravaged Athlone in the last year or two of the seventeenth century. A correspondent, Mr. F. J. Treanor, of Roscrea, has just sent me a copy of an extract from the old register of Killaloe, describing a similar storm in the succeeding year. It may prove of topical interest when all Irishmen's minds are on either storms or the Shannon. It runs as follows:

"The 30th of July, 1698, a great wind wch brake and burned trees and every sort of thing and wch all drive back and stopped ye River Shanan from running its naturall curse for ye space of 3 hours at Killalow, so yr there weare severall went and walked drye from Killaloe in ye water course of ye R Shanan to the county of tippary yr by means thereof there was a bundance of fish taken in ye island thereof."

There is a second entry, written over the former, and, as I am told by Canon MacLaurin, who made the extracts, in a different handwriting:

"And in the year 1726 on the same day of the same month and ye same day of ye week being Saturday hapened the same occurrance as above at Killaloe."

The Immortals' Uniform.

General Weygand and M. Pierre Benoit, who have just been elected to the French Academy, will find that the honour costs more than a trifle in the matter of fees and robes. The lowest figure, I hear, at which a new Academician can equip himself for his formal reception is about £40. It is imperative that he shall appear in a uniform with green palm leaves on the tunic and gold lace on the trousers, a white cashmere waistcoat, a cocked hat with ostrich feathers, and a sword.

The whole outfit generally costs more than the annual salary attaching to the office. It is not surprising, therefore, that some immortals, whose fame exceeds their sales, have found it convenient to defer the taking of their seats in the assembly until they have received their first honorarium.

A Magic Island.

I have seen (though I have never visited) a lonely island far out off the coast of Sligo, about which very little is heard. Antiquaries have found it to be well worth a visit; and in the fishing village on the mainland, to which some of the islanders come once a year to sell kelp, many stories are told of its peculiarities.

The mainlanders tell of a tiny island chapel that looks, they say, as if "three people would fill it;" yet, no matter how many people may crowd into the little building, there always is room for one more. They tell, too, of a group of stones that may be counted carefully a dozen times or more; yet the sum never is the same on two consecutive counts.

There are some quaint survivals among the customs of the islanders and the little community has long been ruled by a king of its own. Incidentally, the stranger hears—though this information is whispered—that the best poteen in the world is made out there.

"Pussy's Leap."

How the picturesque spot on the River Dodder near Templeogue was named "Pussy's Leap" I have never been able to ascertain. Here the waters run deep, and at this time of the year they are thickly inhabited, not by feline, but by human frolickers. "Pussy's Leap" is a favourite resort of tired schoolboys, whose dignity is above undressing upon the banks of the canal. It is not that the bathing pool is exclusively anti-democratic. On the contrary, I have seen a carrier bicycle and a motor-cycle of the most expensive cast stand side by side on the roadway, waiting for their respective owners. "Pussy's Leap" is a place that will well repay a visit; for, when the boys have finished swimming, they indulge in trials of athletic skill on the grassy banks. The contests are good; indeed, I have seen one or two Leinster schools' champions showing their paces there recently.

FROM OUR HARBOUR CORRESPONDENT.

SUMMER-TIME finds more landsmen wandering along the quays, which stretch down on each side of the Liffey, than at any other time of the year. They are drawn there, possibly, by the tang of the salt breeze which, sweeping triumphantly into the dusty atmosphere of the city, breathes a message of infinite space—a clean freshness belonging to the open sea alone.

How different, however, must the Liffey appear to a ship when, leaving her wide-world domain, she enters the narrow channel between the Bull Walls? The water, which, perhaps, a week ago, assumed the hue of a purple mantle shot with the gold of a tropical sunrise, is the colour of mud. The air, previously imbued with the purity of an immortal ocean, is soiled with the trails of smoky vapours. Ugly buildings loom up vaguely, and, when she enters the sombre, rectangular pool known as Alexandra Basin, soulless walls of brick and stone entrap her on every side. The land claims her, and she ceases to live.

A WIND FROM THE SOUTH.

Strange men, butchers in her eyes, swarm on board, and whip off the all-important tarpaulins and hatches, so essential to her existence when at sea. Relentless cranes force her to disgorge her cargo, the careful trimming of which has enabled her to accomplish her thousand league journey in safety. She assumes a chaotic appearance, unknown when away from port. Muddy footmarks stain the whiteness of her decks, and dust from the store sheds pervades her cabins and forecastles. Helpless to escape, she yields, dumbly, to the will of her captors, and becomes, as it were, part of the sordid earth.

The wind, jealous, perhaps, at the rain being allowed so much latitude at this time of year, decided last Wednesday that a moderate gale would not be out of place, and thereupon blew from the south. The Alexandra, jogging along contentedly from Queenstown with a consignment of oil for the Conningbeg Lightship, tried hard to maintain her dignity, but, failing to do so, fled ignominiously for Waterford river. The coaster Deansgate, of Dublin, in high dudgeon at having her passage to Cork so rudely interrupted in the month of June, was compelled to follow the Alexandra's lead. The Alexandra arrived in the river last Saturday, and went to George's Dock to undergo a boiler clean.

A MATTER OF APPEARANCE.

The Coelleda, of Philadelphia, 3,948 tons register, paid a visit to Dublin during the week's end, and brought a consignment of general cargo from Baltimore and New York. The up-to-date efficiency of American steamers cannot be questioned, but sailors on this side of the water criticise the lack of "line" or "sheer" which distinguishes vessels that have been built in the British Isles.

The Bengore Head, which now appears to regard Dublin as one of her regular ports of call, arrived on Monday from Riga, Danzig and Windau with a cargo of timber. She is under the command of Captain Milligan, and has a registered tonnage of 1,512. One would imagine that her officers would get rather tired of running continuously in the same trade, but none of them seems to have any particular desire to be transferred elsewhere. The novelty of visiting strange countries soon palls on the sailor. He prefers to call at a port which he has previously known, and where, perhaps, he has made friends, who will both welcome him on his arrival and God-speed his departure to sea.

THE ALARM OF UNCLE NED.

The prospect of a summer "sail" can have been the only reason why so much activity was noticeable among the Lady class of steamers last Wednesday. Lady Connaught, Lady Kildare and Lady Carlow hastened across to the Liffey from Liverpool, while Lady Cloe hurried round from London. Doubtless, fearful of missing a bargain, Lady Meath decided to leave Fishguard, and arrived on the same day as the others. Curiosity as to the cause of so much commotion among the "quality" probably induced the humble Mary Sybil to come up the river with her cargo of slates from Bangor, but the schooner, Uncle Ned, apparently not a lady's man, must have "got the wind up"; for he hastily put out to sea.

Bulky tonnage floated up the Liffey on Thursday with the arrivals of the Amaranoora and the Mariston. The Amaranoora, of Glasgow, commanded by Captain Reid, boasts a registered tonnage of 5,045, and her length amounts to 155 yards. She came from Rangoon with general cargo, and called at Liverpool before coming across to Dublin. The Mariston, 2,884 tons register, also belongs to Glasgow, and is under the care of Captain Davidson. She loaded her consignment of maize and linseed at Rosario, and is unloading at Alexandra Basin.

The discharging of a grain cargo is, necessarily, a slow process, inasmuch as it has to be shovelled into bags in the hold, and, further, as no bag can be put ashore until it has been weighed. The weighing machines are placed on the deck, and the weighers, provided with a little trowel for the purpose, add or take away the necessary amount with the accuracy of a grocer making up a pound of tea.

GERMANY TO-DAY.

THE NAZIS AND THE COMMUNISTS.

BY A CORRESPONDENT.

Very few Irishmen seem to realise the exact state of political tension in Germany to-day. The vast bulk of the people, who are vaguely grouped under the title of Social-Democrats, Centre, or Catholic Party and numerous other small parties, are wavering between the vital and more active extremes of the National-Social or Hitler Party, and their opponents, the Communists.

I think the real idea of the Hitler movement has been greatly misunderstood over here, since the word "Socialist" coupled with the "Nationalist" idea always sounds somewhat alarming. Hitler, whatever we may think of the man himself, definitely believes in a form of Christian Socialism. This "Socialism," however, is to be controlled by a higher authority or benevolent dictatorship, which would sway for the common good both worker and employer. Everything in Germany—in spite of various statements to the contrary in the Press—seems to point to an increased support of Hitler there. He has been described as a sort of hooligan; but it is essential to realise that he is almost the most important political figure in Germany. His house in Munich, built at enormous expense by his Party, and guarded day and night by uniformed Nazis, could almost be said to be a challenge to the Reichstag.

The Reichstag, unfortunately, have lost the people's moral support, owing to the overwhelming burden of taxes that they have been compelled to impose. Many rash statements have been made about the easiness of the Germans' life: it has even been asserted that the Germans were not paying as much income-tax as the English. The fact is, however, that now they will not only have to pay a normal income-tax, but a five per cent. supplement to this, as a result of the emergency levy. On the top of all comes the new crisis tax, the result, of course, of the general slump, which makes the burden upon the German people an intolerable one. Under these new conditions, it is the poorer classes who will lose the most. For example, in the case of a small state official, earning £2 10s. a week his loss will be 8 per cent., whereas, the man earning £10, will only lose 6 per cent. The reason for this is that, in order to continue the payment of reparations, the smaller incomes must be sacrificed as liquid capital must be maintained to keep industry alive, and to prevent the further increase of unemployment. It is hardly to be wondered at, that the political tension in Germany, and, above all, in Berlin, is very great indeed.

THE POOR MAN'S BURDEN.

Another important factor to be considered is the Communist Party: Whereas, most of the political parties have either lost heavily, like the German Nationals (or Monarchist Party), or have gained considerably, like the Nazis,—the Communists remain at about the same strength, and have done so for a considerable time.

The German People's Party, which is the mouthpiece of the big Ruhr industrial interests, likewise the coal magnates', add to the general confusion by deliberately coming into open conflict with Herr Bruening, in so far as they have declared in favour of the Reichstag being summoned to discuss the present economic crisis.

Added to this, comes the catastrophic announcement of the Budget figures, which show a deficit of 1,291,000,000 Reichsmark—or, about £64,550,000. It is small wonder that investors are panic-stricken, and that timely intervention by the State Bank will be essential to prevent chaos on the Stock Exchange.

It is not hard to believe, that in a country labouring under such stress, life for the small State official—and, for that matter, for all State employés—is going to be very difficult, since it is upon them that the full weight of the enormous coming taxes will fall. It will be remembered that there was a scheme carried out to reduce all official salaries and, at the same time, to lower prices correspondingly, in order to benefit the poor. What actually happened was that, while drastic cuts were made in all salaries, the prices, in fact, rose higher. Some curious means were employed to this end. For example, you can buy ten cigarettes for the same money as formerly; but when you open the box you find, to your surprise, that it contains only nine—an ingenious innovation of the Government. Another grim factor that Germany has to face is the seemingly irremediable state of unemployment, which is quoted as having risen from four to five millions.

Surely, it can hardly be said that the hard working German of to-day has a rosy future before him. The life to which he had been accustomed is a thing of the past. Even more the "gemuthlich" Stammtisch, where representatives of every class met after the day's work under the shady trees of the beer garden to talk—perhaps a little ponderously—of art, philosophy and music. No more the happy student days of the Rhine, with their parties on the moonlit waters, with the strumming guitars and lively or languishing German Lieder.

THE NEW SPIRIT.

Now everything is hustle, pep, and push. The spirit of America—much as it has influenced other countries—seems to have affected Germany to an alarming extent. Of course there is no doubt that the panic which was predominant during the nightmare of inflation, not only changed the country completely at that time, but has had a lasting influence. The conditions in Berlin to-day, with its vast number of unemployed, its insupportable taxation, its perpetual gang war between Communists and Nazis at anything, worse than during the dark days of the inflation. Both the semi-military organisations, Communist and Nazi respectively, are becoming daily more formidable and pugnacious. Small bands of young Nazis in their well-known brown uniforms can be seen frequently in the suburbs, in spite of the fact that the uniform is forbidden. Only a short while ago 150,000 members of the Stahlhelm organisation paraded at Berlin. Communist "storm-troops" have been formed in practically every district in counter-organisation. Restaurants frequented by members of either party are carefully watched by the opposition, and shooting affrays are daily events. Political shootings are occurring all over the Reich. A well-known Communist representative was fatally shot in a motor car by members of the Nazi organisation. It was actually not the man they sought, but was at any rate a Communist. The Communists promptly retaliated in various parts of the Reich.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

Perhaps an almost greater menace to public order is the steady increase of unemployment in Berlin. While riots in the more frequented spots of Berlin, such as the Potsdamer Platz and Kurfurstendamm, are less common, conflicts between starving unemployed and police in the suburbs, such as Neukölln, Spandau, and, indeed, practically all of the east and north of Berlin, are so frequent as to be positively alarming. I myself have witnessed particularly violent hunger demonstrations. What struck me most as a foreign eye-witness was the astonishing coolness and self-possession of the Germans. Lolling lazily in their comfortable arm chairs, the unperturbed diners watched calmly through the windows Berlin's genial mounted police riding the shouting crowds of hunger demonstrators in all directions, while splintered fragments of the vast café windows were flying about their heads, and smashing their plates and glasses on their tables.

It seems impossible to imagine that these conditions are to continue. There can be no doubt that Herr Bruening—considered one of the many important politicians to be the coming Iving statesman—has a gigantic problem to face. Can he tide over the present crisis, and thereby prevent the German people from committing itself irrevocably to either of the extremist policies? Everything seems to show that, if he is to succeed, and if the Young Plan is to be carried out effectively, some financial relief, in the shape of a special moratorium, must be afforded to Germany before long.

DONNELLAN LECTURES.

CONVERSIONS IN ANTIQUITY.

DR. NOCK'S OPENING ADDRESS.

THE first of the series of Donnellan lectures, which are given annually in Trinity College, Dublin, was delivered yesterday afternoon to an appreciative audience in the Graduates' Memorial Hall by Dr. A. D. Nock, Fortingham Professor of the History of Religion in the University of Harvard, who took as his subject, "Conversion to Religions in Antiquity."

The Provost occupied the chair. In introducing the lecturer, he said that this was not Dr. Nock's first visit to Dublin. When he came over here a few years ago he was a Fellow of Cambridge University, but since then America had taken him, and England was the poorer for that.

THE LECTURE.

Dr. Nock, who was cordially received, expressed his pleasure at finding himself once more in Ireland. He said that his aim in these lectures was to survey some of those historic factors which are relevant to our understanding of the spread of early Christianity. The subject of the first was the analogy offered by the other forms of belief and worship in antiquity; whether that dissemination involved only adhesion or actual conversion, which implied a drastic turning away from one's earlier life, and the surrender of one's soul. Ancient Greek religion neither was, nor could be, missionary, for it was a civic, or tribal, or national affair in which it was possible for foreigners to participate, but no one's special concern that they should. As we see it, it represents the end of a process in whose earlier stages there had been elements of cult rivalry and missionary zeal: the worship of Dionysus, though fully absorbed by the normalist process fostered by the Delphic oracle, retained a memory of its enthusiastic character. Orphism had a genuine theology, acceptance of which involved a life on new presuppositions, with special practices, and a desire to promote conversion; but it is the religion of a literature, rather than of a sect, though it could produce bodies of worshippers.

EFFECT OF CONQUEST.

The conquests of Alexander brought a new social order, in which many Greeks were detached from their old surroundings and settled in the East. Here they worshipped, in their own way, the native deities, often regarding them as their own deities under new names, but not coming in contact with any missionary zeal in the natives. Important religious development occurs only when a new cult, compounded of Greek and Eastern elements, arises. Such development is most commonly the result of the residence of groups of Orientals or of Greeks who have assimilated Oriental ideas in fresh milieux. Thus the detached groups of Magian priests who lived on in Asia Minor after the overthrow of the Persian Empire were a source of the religious evolution which issues in Mithraism. Such composite worships were introduced far and wide by devoted individuals, or by groups of foreign merchants settling in a port. So a deity came to Delos, and we have a record of opposition to the establishment of his first temple and of a miracle which overcame it. Again, groups of Jews scattered over Asia Minor won many adherents, some becoming full proselytes, and others monotheists living on the circumference of Judaism.

MODES OF ATTRACTION.

Adhesion to such a cult in a man's own city might involve a greater emotional reaction than adhesion to a cult found abroad, which need not be more than temporary self-accommodation to foreign customs. Large cities, such as Rome, Alexandria and Antioch, would contain centres of most of the known forms of worship, due to incoming merchants and slaves, or returning soldiers or men of commerce. Some of these cults attracted few of the surrounding population; others many. The stimulating of the interest of individuals took place in various ways, and, in particular, by the missionary zeal of particular devotees, by doctrine (in Judaism in particular), by direct appeal to the eye by stately procession and ceremony, or, again, by religious mendicants and by miracles, and to literary records of them written from motives of piety. The success of these methods was due to certain psychological factors. The new cults set certain attraction qua new, the new myths a convenience because they were not tied to a particular place. Further, the spread of a belief that man's fate was either written in the stars, or determined by them, brought the man in the street up against cosmic universals. His old deities were in a sense parochial. The new cults claimed that the gods were superior to Fate, and could reverse its decrees in the interests of their devotees. Again, there was a considerable interest in the securing of religious guarantees of immortality: this fear of an unconformist hereafter was far more widespread than the fear of demons, often postulated for a period. Then there was also a more inquisitiveness with regard to the supernatural, and a desire to secure special knowledge: gnosis by mysteries and esoteric rites, it being commonly assumed that religious ceremonies and sacraments enshrined a primitive wisdom under the veil of allegory.

NOT DEVOID OF THEOLOGY.

The new forms of worship, which were taking place in the world at large to these methods of propaganda and these deeper cults gained momentum under the Empire, reaching their apogee between the accession of Hadrian and the reign of Decius. It is difficult to determine the intensity of belief which they inspired. There is little to indicate that conflicts of religions before Christianity had acquired substantial proportions, and by so doing gained in pugnacity a selfconsciousness. Further the cults lacked hierarchic organisation, such as in the revivals of Maximinus Daia and Julian, although strong individual centres of worship naturally exercised influence at a distance. The cults were not entirely devoid of theology: they gave form to expression to the conviction that the object of most, or all, worships is the same. In general we may say that, whereas Judaism and Christianity said to men, You are labouring under evil; you must be rid of it, and must obtain blessedness," their main rivals said just, "We can give the blessedness which you need." They had a real value to give, and no negative value to remove, except that which lay in man's weakness in face of Fate here and the insecurity of the hereafter.

Sometimes they evoked a passionate enthusiasm of the type which we associate with conversion. The classic document for this is the eleventh book of the Metamorphoses of Apuleius. For when they have begun to serve the goddess, then they will the more enjoy the fruit of their liberty." A heightened religious emotion is later characteristic of the Severan period, and thereafter we find conversions both to Christianity to paganism. Apart from the ancient religions, other than Judaism and Christianity, did not require from man an absolute break with his past, and we hear in general to reckon with adhesion rather than conversion.

PRESENTATION TO THE REV. R. R. HARTFORD.

At the Parochial Hall, Booterstown, last Monday evening, the Rev. R. R. Hartford, B.A., was presented with an oak roll-top desk and a reversible chair, together with a substantial cheque, from the parishioners on the occasion of his leaving Booterstown to take up the curacy of Christ Church, Leeson Park, Dublin. The Rector (Canon T. A. Harvey, B.D.) presided.

THE REV. R. R. HARTFORD.

Mr. L. F. Orr, Treasurer, spoke of the many phases of Mr. Hartford's work in the parish among the various organisations, of his great powers of sympathy in sickness or in bereavement, and the acts of kindness by which he won the close friendship of everyone with whom he came in contact.

Mr. H. F. Foxall, on behalf of the Men's Club; Mr. A. D. Sarratt, on behalf of the youth; Mr. C. Gifford, Mr. A. A. MacDonogh, M.A.; Mr. F. C. J. Swanton, F.R.C.O., organist, and Mr. G. Booth, sexton, also spoke.

Canon Harvey, in calling on the churchwardens to make the presentation, said that it was the spontaneous act of the parishioners. He had heard expressions of regret at Mr. Hartford's departure from every class in the parish.

In reply, Mr. Hartford said that this date could be remembered by him as one of the proudest days in his life. He was thankful that he had commenced his work in Booterstown Parish, because he could not have received greater kindness elsewhere than he had received from the rector and the parishioners. He alluded to his work in connection with the different organisations, and to the help which he had received from all the parish officials. In thanking them for their handsome gift, he said that it would always remind him of the happy days he had spent among them.

A musical programme, arranged by Mrs. Ormsby Lindsay, followed, and a very pleasant function was concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

ANN PAVLOVA'S FORTUNE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Anna Pavlova, the great dancer, who died last year at The Hague, left estate in America of the total value of between 300,000 and 350,000 dollars (approximately £70,000), according to her husband's lawyer.

Pavlova made her husband, M. Victor Dandre, who was also her accompanist, her sole heir. M. Dandre lives in the picturesque house at Hampstead in whose quiet garden the famous dancer obtained much of her inspiration.

Letters of administration of the American estate have now been obtained. Pavlova also left 150,000 dollars (£30,000) in Europe.

FLOOD MENACE IN LEITRIM.

LARGE AREAS UNDER WATER.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Tuesday.

The floods which the people in the Stradbrina, Drumshambo and Dowra areas suffered from last year were small compared to the calamity that has befallen them as a result of the continuous rains for the past few weeks.

In the Drumshambo and Ballinglera areas the first of the flooding set in last week, the rivers of Derrintigro, Comongon and Crotty and Stramore overflowing to such an extent that the house of a man named Mulhair was flooded to a height of four feet.

The continuous rain is causing an upheaval in the mountain in the district, and with the floods from the mountain top of Slieveanarin the water has overflown the rivers below, and stones, gravel and other stuff has been carried on to the meadow and crop lands, with the result that these are destroyed.

EMBANKMENTS CARRIED AWAY.

The Drumoromaun and Carrickbawn districts have been visited by a special inspector of the Irish Land Commission, and Messrs. Rowlette and Hope, the Land Commission Inspectors, visited the scene of the damage which was caused under similar circumstances in August last.

I learn that the people affected have made up their minds not to pay annuities or rates until something is done to save their crops from the continuous danger of destruction by floods.

In the Ballinaglera district of Stradrina, Cornamuckla and Drumristin the lands and crops have also been inundated from the Sleve Nakilla Mountain. Some of the river embankments recently erected have been carried away on the Stoney River and Cornamuckla River. Luckily, the embankments broke in the day time, and the families threatened, with the assistance of neighbours, were able to divert the flooding from their houses, but almost all their crops are ruined.

MUD NINE FEET DEEP.

About two acres of the mountain top were carried down in the floods, with the result that the rivers became blocked. This helped to form a sort of dam, and, with the rain keeping on unabated, the whole mass of water and bog and mud suddenly burst with terrific force and spread itself over all the low-lying lands in its course.

A considerable area of meadow land which is held in partnership by the people in the surrounding hills is now covered by mud, in some places to a height of eight or nine feet.

The main road from Drumshambo to Dowra has been nearly three feet under water for a distance of several hundred yards, and nearly two miles of the road was a roaring torrent.

Conditions in the County Leitrim and the adjoining County of Roscommon, as a result of the floods and the great swell in the Shannon, are very serious, and at the moment, as intimated by a deputation who were before the Leitrim County Board of Health yesterday, there is every danger that the farmers living along the Shannon banks in these areas will be without potato, oat, or root crops this winter.

The Shannon in this area has never before been seen at such a high flood at this season of the year.

METHODIST CHURCH.

THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE IN BELFAST.

The annual conference of the Methodist Church in Ireland assembled in its ministerial session yesterday in the Hall of Carlisle Memorial Church, Belfast. The president of the British Conference, the Rev. H. B. Workman, M.A., D.Litt., D.D., presided, and the business was introduced by the secretary of the church, the Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D. Devotional exercises were conducted by the President, assisted by the Secretary and the Revs. J. E. Neill, B.A., and T. E. Gilson.

The Secretary very cordially welcomed the President and his companions from the British Conference, the Rev. W. F. Lofthouse, M.A., D.D., of Birmingham, the Rev. W. H. Lax, of Poplar, London, and the Rev. J. Henry Martin, of Scarborough, each of whom addressed the conference.

Letters of sympathy were directed to be sent to the relatives of the late Rev. J. C. Robertson, M.A., B.D.; the Rev. L. H. Cullen, and others who had died during the year.

The following missionaries at home on furlough were welcomed:—The Rev. J. Dwyer Kelly, the Rev. J. H. Munro, and the Rev. F. S. Hill, B.A., from India, and the Rev. Nelson Ludlow and the Rev. Harold Stacey, B.A., from West Africa.

PERMISSION TO RETIRE.

Three ministers received permission to retire from the full work of the ministry, viz.: the Rev. G. L. Webster, M.A., of Galway, who is a gifted Irish scholar, and who has travelled forty-four years; the Rev. Thomas Moore, of Fintona, who is completing his forty-second year of faithful service; and the Rev. Henry McConnell, of Holywood-Co. Down, a minister greatly beloved, who, for reasons of health, has to retire after thirty-eight years' service. The Rev. J. Wesley Carrothers, M.A., LL.D., of Sutton, is permitted to return to the full work of the ministry; and the Rev. R. H. Foster, B.A., D.C.M., was permitted to remain a supernumerary for another year for health reasons.

The following junior ministers, who have satisfactorily completed four years of probation, in addition to their college course, were received into full connexion and are to be ordained, viz.: Rev. Hugh Allen (Whitehead), Rev. J. B. Barton (Portadown), Rev. H. Cooke (Lisburn), Rev. S. R. Currie (Enniscorthy), Rev. W. Sydney Dale (Portstewart), Rev. A. W. Gamble (Dalkey), Rev. W. Jackson (Bushmills), Rev. J. B. Jameson (Ballintra), Rev. J. B. Jennings (Enniskillen), Rev. S. J. Johnston (Dungarvan), Rev. James Wisheart (Limavady). In addition, six junior ministers on the mission field, who have completed their probation satisfactorily, were received into full connexion with the Conference, viz.: The Revs. W. E. Cullen, B.A.; R. Nelson Ludlow, R. McVeigh, C. W. Ranson, H. Wilfrid Stafford, B.A., B.Comm.; and James Stewart. Twenty-two probationers for the ministry were advanced a stage in their probation, and five new candidates for the ministry were received.

A COVETED HONOUR.

One of the most coveted honours of the Conference is election into the Legal Hundred, the legal successor of Wesley's Conference. There are two vacancies in the Irish proportion of the "Hundred"—one caused by the death of the Rev. J. C. Robertson, M.A., B.D., and the other by the retirement of the Rev. Hugh McKeay, D.D. There were five nominations to fill the vacancies—viz.: The Revs. J. A. Duke, B.A.; R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D.; J. E. Neill B.A.; J. A. Walton, M.A.; and W. H. Massey. For the first vacancy the Rev. John A. Duke, B.A., was elected; and for the second the Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D. Each of them thanked the Conference for the honour conferred upon him.

A great anti-gambling demonstration was held at night in connection with the conference.

The Rev. H. B. Workman, D.D., who presided, criticised the Hospital Sweepstakes, and said it was not probable that they would be started in England, not because the English people were more virtuous, but because, in practice, it afforded so little to the hospitals. At present in England the annual voluntary contribution to the hospitals totalled five and a half million pounds a year, to obtain which by sweepstakes would mean a total disbursement of some thirty million pounds. So much money was not about.

Miss Maude Noakes, of Brockley Hall, Lewisham, S.E., who died on 11th April last, aged 81 years, daughter of the late John Tompson Noakes, left unsettled estate of the gross value of £111,931 11s., with net personalty £95,432 18s. 8d.

Dislocation of Northern Finances.

Government Uneasy at Position of Unemployment Fund.

Suggested Break With Socialist Policy at Westminster.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

THE decision of the British Government to take no steps to impliment the recommendations of the majority report of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, except in so far as they relate to certain "anomalies," has created considerable uneasiness in Ministerial circles in Northern Ireland.

The present drain of the Unemployment Fund is one of the main factors in dislocating Northern finances and necessitating the drastic economies which have been so strongly resented by the teachers and the police. The decision of the British Government to shelve the matter was not unexpected, in view of the determined stand taken by the General Council of the Trade Union Congress against any reduction or limitation of benefits, increase in contributions or tampering with the "transitional" benefits enjoyed by the uninsured. To avoid a split among their supporters, the British Government has decided to postpone consideration of the whole matter until the final report of the Commission is issued, notwithstanding the fact that the interim report was requested by the Government to adjust the financial working of the Unemployment Insurance scheme, and the reason for the urgency was the Chancellor of the Exchequer's "grave warning" of February last.

RE-INSURANCE AGREEMENT.

Northern Ireland is linked to the British Unemployment Fund by the step-by-step policy which provides equal contributions and equal benefits, and which led to the re-insurance agreement between both Exchequers. The amount of the loans advanced by the British Exchequer to their Unemployment Fund is rapidly approaching £100,000,000, and the loans from the Northern Exchequer to its Unemployment Fund is nearing the £2,000,000 mark, apart from the £3,000,000 debt in existence at the time the re-insurance agreement was negotiated, and which is in process of liquidation over a period of 30 years at £100,000 per annum.

The Insurance Commissioners' report on the basis of a "live register" in Great Britain of 2,500,000 unemployed, and with the proposed reduced benefits and increased contributions, calculated that the annual borrowings from the Exchequer would be reduced by about £32,000,000. Reduced borrowings would also be made from the Northern Ireland Exchequer. This is the prospect which is now fading out of existence through the inactivity of the British Government.

The question is being asked in the North, will the Exchequer be able to stand the continual drain of the loans to the Unemployment Fund at the present level, or must there be more drastic economies and a general lowering of the standard of services in Northern Ireland compared with Great Britain.

The prospects of these "loans" ever being repaid out of future surpluses of the Unemployment Fund has led the Commission to make the following caustic comment: "Neither the past record of the fund, which has incurred a deficit in eight years out of the past ten, nor the future prospects of employment, afford any justification for perpetuating this dangerous fiction."

The Commission makes no suggestion, except it does so in its final report for liquidating this huge loan deficit, although the recommendations for reduced benefits and increased contributions are calculated to make the Unemployment Fund more solvent in the future.

SUGGESTED BREAK.

The suggestion has been made in Northern Ireland that the Government should break away from the Socialist Government's policy at Westminster, and, by adopting the recommendations of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, endeavour to get a degree of solvency into the Northern Ireland Unemployment Insurance Fund.

It is difficult, however, to see how this can be done, in view of the existing re-insurance agreement. In addition, the promise was given from hundreds of platforms in Northern Ireland when the Northern Parliament was established that the standard of social services would not fall below the standard in Great Britain.

This has been the consistent policy of the Northern Government from the beginning, notwithstanding the charges made by Labour representatives in Northern Ireland, that in carrying out the regulations the Northern Courts of Referees have not kept step with decisions in Great Britain.

Many Unionists in Northern Ireland are now convinced that it was a great mistake to have divided the Unemployment Insurance Funds, and instead of setting up a separate fund Northern Ireland should have remained under the British Fund and allowed it to operate in Northern Ireland as a reserved service, like the Post Office, Customs and Excise, etc. Lord Carson, it is known, was inclined to favour this proposal at the time, and many now believe it would have been both wiser and safer.

LABOUR PROPOSAL.

This is particularly so in view of the Government's decision to keep in step with British standards of social services instead of following the example of the Irish Free State and cutting its coat according to its cloth. The suggestion has recently been made in the Northern Parliament that the Government should press for a re-amalgamation of the Unemployment Insurance Funds. This proposal was put forward by the only Labour member in the House, Mr. J. Beattie, who pointed out that he British Prime Minister, before he assumed office, was in favour of this solution, but instead the Unionist Government then in power agreed to the re-insurance agreement. Lord Craigavon, the Northern Premier, has admitted that this re-insurance agreement is not working out quite satisfactorily for Northern Ireland. It is a fair-weather agreement, but, with trade depression and increasing unemployment, it imposes an undue strain upon the Northern finances when the taxation imposed by the British Chancellor is not sufficient to produce a surplus revenue in Northern Ireland.

In the estimates for Northern Ireland for the financial year 1931-32 it is provided that £843,000 will be necessary for the equalisation payment to the Unemployment Fund by Great Britain and Northern Ireland. This is a reduction of £82,000 compared with last year. The high rate of unemployment now prevailing in Great Britain reduces the amount which it is necessary to pay into the Northern Ireland Fund in order to keep it in parity with the British Fund.

Last year the payment by Great Britain, according to the account of income and expenditure for the year ending 31st March last, was £517,000. This year it is estimated that approximately £209,000 will be paid to the Exchequer of Northern Ireland out of the Exchequer of Great Britain, while the net charge to the Northern Exchequer is £634,000, which, with the £209,000 payable by Great Britain, makes the total mentioned above.

LIMITED FINANCES.

Northern Ireland's limited finances has to assume a much larger share of the loans to the Unemployment Fund than last year. The estimates provide only for transitional benefit for the first half of the year—a sum of £427,000. If Great Britain decides to continue transitional benefit after that period, Northern Ireland under the agreement will probably have to follow suit by a new bill in the autumn session.

Last year transitional benefit only cost £534,000, and in 1929-30 £125,000. Under the Socialist régime in Great Britain this is a constantly increasing item, and Northern Ireland is tied to the same provision. The necessity for a re-amalgamation of the two Unemployment Insurance Funds, by a strange irony, becomes all the more necessary when a Socialist administration is in power in Great Britain, as Northern Ireland is hard-pressed to keep pace with its advanced social services.

Consequently it is becoming clearer every day that the Northern Government will have to tell the present British Government that the Unemployment Fund will have to be put on a more solvent basis, or the two funds will have to be re-amalgamated. By re-amalgamation the British Government would gain in an increased Imperial contribution from Northern Ireland what it looses under the Northern Ireland payment to the Equalisation Fund—so that it does not stand to lose much, whereas Northern Ireland would gain greater financial stability.

Position of Bacon Curing Industry.

Limerick Firm and a Tariff.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Tuesday.

The position of the bacon-curing industry in the Free State was considered at a meeting held in the Town Hall, Limerick, to-night, at which the Mayor (Alderman P. J. Donnellan), presided. The meeting was convened by the Limerick Trades' and Labour Council.

A letter was read from Messrs. W. J. Shaw and Sons stating that while world conditions were responsible for the depression in the bacon industry, there were other conditions too delicate to be discussed at a public meeting.

Messrs. O'Mara wrote that until Irish pigs were produced to compete in price, quality and quantity with the pig production of other countries no improvement could be looked for in the outlook of the Irish bacon-curing industry. In addition to the handicap of the price of pigs in Ireland compared with other countries, the industry in this country suffered from the disadvantage of lack of sufficient supplies.

QUESTION OF TARIFF.

It was the opinion of the firm that a tariff which would exclude all foreign bacon from Ireland for a time would give the breeders and feeders an impetus and start, from which they might possibly conquer the world market. While it was not suggested that this was an ideal solution, a preferable solution might be found by those who would use power over the imports of British goods into Ireland to secure that for preferential terms extended by this country to Britain the latter would reciprocate with a preference for the products of Ireland.

Concluding, Messrs. O'Mara stated that they took that opportunity of saying that their closing in Limerick was due to exceptional difficulties of a purely individual character.

The Mayor said the conditions of affairs in the bacon curing industry was at the moment very precarious. Limerick was badly hit, and that meeting was called for the purpose of trying to focus attention on the position.

Mr. McQuane said the Trades Council had hoped that some other body would take the initiative to call attention to the decay of the bacon industry. Limerick bacon was only taking second place in the Irish market, and in that city the foreign interests had supplanted it in the shop windows and in the homes of the people.

Mr Lyons, Secretary Pork Butchers' Society, said that during the past four months of this year the imports of foreign bacon had increased by 24 per cent., or an approximate value of £500,000. That was not only an alarming state of affairs, but constituted a serious menace to the industry here.

Alderman Bourke said the Government had been requested on numerous occasions to put a tariff on foreign bacon, and they had refused. It was time they were brought to their senses by the sending of a demand for such a tariff. Without that tariff the industry was ruined.

Alderman Reidy expressed surprise at Mr. Boule's remarks, and said that, so far as he knew, the bacon industry had not gone before the Tariff Commission with an application for a tariff.

A committee was appointed representative of the interests concerned to discuss with the merchants' methods of remedying the existing position.

Serious Effects of Derating.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
PORTADOWN, Tuesday.

The Northern Ministry of Home Affairs were severely criticised by the Portadown Chamber of Commerce at a meeting last night for sanctioning the expenditure of £40,000 on the conversion of Lurgan Workhouse into a hospital after informing the Chamber that no action would be taken until the institutional policy for the Six Counties was decided.

The Secretary (Mr. T. C. Roche) reported that a deputation from the Chamber had interviewed Sir Dawson Bates, the Minister, in reference to the matter, and had urged the claims of Portadown for hospital accommodation.

Sir Dawson, the report stated, explained that the reason the Ministry gave their decision before settling the institutional policy was because de-rating had placed them in such a position financially that they could not proceed with their institutional policy for the whole province at the present time. The Lurgan scheme being pressing, the Ministry decided to allow the Guardians to proceed with the alterations, but this, the Minister said, would not prejudice the claims of Portadown when the institutional policy was being considered.

THE FINANCIAL POSITION.

The President (Mr. Joseph Logan) said that the deputation were told that, owing to de-rating, the Ministry were in a much worse condition financially than they expected, and that there was no money for anything.

Mr. W. A. Mullen—We know there is no money for anything, and you are not going to get a hospital.

The President said the Government had to do the best they could with the money at their disposal.

Mr. Mullen—Have they done their best?

The President—I suppose they think they have.

It was eventually decided that the deputation which interviewed the Minister of Home Affairs should confer with the Portadown Town Council, Armagh County Council, and other interested bodies, with the view of pressing the Government for a copy of Dr. McCloy's report on the Lurgan inquiry.

Larne Shipping Company's Reduced Capital.

In the Chancery Court, Belfast, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Wilson, in the matter of the Shamrock Shipping Company, Ltd. (and reduced), and Companies Acts, 1908-1917, Mr. J. H. Monroe, K.C., with whom was Mr. J. D. Chambers (instructed by Messrs. L'Estrange and Brett), applied on behalf of the company, whose registered office is at Larne, and who as shipping owners carry on business at Larne and Cardiff, to have the original capital of the company reduced.

Counsel pointed out that the original capital of the company was £200,000, divided into 2,000 preference shares of £10, and 18,000 ordinary shares of £10 each. Owing to the depreciation of the ships, which were worth £200,000 in 1919, and are now worth £74,000, it had been necessary to reduce their value in the balance-sheet. The reduction applied for was that £7 should be written off each ordinary share, making a total of £126,000 written off, and leaving the capital £20,000 preferred and £54,000 ordinary shares.

Sequel To Drilling Charges.

At Clonmel Circuit Court yesterday, before Judge Sealy, K.C., seven witnesses who gave evidence in the Tipperary drilling charges at the last Clonmel Circuit Court—Michael Coffey, Solohead; Malachi Horan, Drummord; Tim Buckley, Clonbrick; J. Ryan, Seskin; Thomas Sullivan, Crossavle; M. Connors, Ballytineen, and John Allen, Carhue, all young men—pleaded not guilty to charges of making false statements in evidence.

Four men, it will be remembered, were acquitted at the previous court on charges of illegal drilling, and subsequently the seven witnesses were arrested by Guards and detectives.

Mr. F. O'Connor, State Solicitor, applied to have the cases sent to the Central Criminal Court, and the defendants were allowed out on continuing bail.

Mr. J. G. Skinner, solicitor, was for the defendants.

Pork was only 56s. per cwt. in Cavan market yesterday and 57s. in Enniskillen market—the same price as it was twenty-five years ago.

BELFAST WILL SUIT.

FURTHER EVIDENCE IN £30,000 CASE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

FURTHER evidence was given to-day in the King's Bench Division, Belfast, in the £30,000 will suit, which is at hearing before the Lord Chief Justice and a special jury.

The action has been brought by Mrs. Sarah Jane Gallaher, of 282 Antrim road, Belfast, who seeks to establish a will of her aunt, Mary McGarry, formerly of 282 Antrim road, Belfast, made on the 16th November, 1929, by which she is made the sole legatee. The defendant is Mr. Louis A. Kennedy, of 7 Donegall street, Belfast, solicitor, who, as sole surviving executor under a former will, opposes the latter will, on the statutory grounds, and also alleges forgery, and sets up the earlier will, under which the deceased left her estate, subject to small legacies, to various Roman Catholic charities.

"STUPIDLY DRUNK."

Miss Kate McManus, Glandore avenue, Belfast, said she knew Miss McGarry since 1901. She received a terrible shock when she found Miss McGarry at 7 o'clock one morning in April, 1927, stupidly drunk. She saw her several times on subsequent occasions under the influence of drink. One morning she persisted on going out. The maid said she would not go out with her, so witness went. Miss McGarry wished to go down town, but witness took her on the tram to Bellevue.

Mr. Louis A. Kennedy, solicitor, said his brother, a partner in the firm, died in September, 1929. They were both appointed executors to Miss McGarry's will in September, 1925. His firm had made the previous wills for the lady, and did her general business, buying property for her and collecting rents. His brother took the instructions for the 1925 will. He was very friendly with her, and it was her habit to call at the office. In September it was reported to him by Miss McManus and a number of other ladies, who constantly called at the office, about Miss McGarry's condition. Dr. Wilson also came to him on three occasions and spoke to him about her. The doctor said Miss McGarry was drinking.

Daniel J. Clancey, a senior assistant in the National Bank, said that the hand that wrote "Mary McGarry" to the will of 1925 was not the same as the hand that wrote the lady's name to the disputed will of 1929.

The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

Mr. A. Wilson, Lisnaskea, has been co-opted a member of the Fermanagh County Council in place of the late Mr. C. H. Graham.

Ulster Constables Charged.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
STRABANE, Tuesday.

Captain Miller, District Inspector, Dungannon, and Captain Wright, District Inspector, Clogher, conducted a Court of Inquiry in the Royal Ulster Constabulary Barracks, Strabane, to-day into charges preferred against Constable G. Jameson and Constable Mc McCarroll, R.U.C., Strabane, that they were guilty of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline in that in a written report to Head Constable McGovern, R.U.C., Strabane, they made the following statements in connection with a licensing prosecution heard at Strabane Petty Sessions:—"I then informed Mrs. Boyle who we were, and asked her if there was anyone on the premises. None of the three men made a reply when asked as to their presence on the premises"—which statements differed from those sworn at the Licensing Court on the 11th May last—viz., "I did not inform the publican that we were police. I thought she knew that we were; and I did not ask them (the men) to explain their presence."

Mr. W. E. Orr, solicitor, Omagh, appeared for both constables.

Head Constable McGovern's statement was that he was present at Strabane Petty Sessions during the hearing of the licensing prosecution, and heard both constables being examined. District Inspector Walshe asked both constables if Mrs. Boyle was informed that they were police on plain clothes duty. Constable Jameson replied to the effect that they did not inform the publican who they were, and Constable McCarroll replied to the question to the same effect. He also heard the District Inspector ask both constables in direct examination if they asked the persons who were found on the premises to each account for their presence on the premises. To this question Constable Jameson replied that he did not ask the men to account for their presence on the licensed premises.

Answering Mr. Orr, the Head Constable said that he believed Mrs. Boyle knew the constables, and if they stated to her, "I expect you know who we are," and she replied that she did, it would be sufficient proof that she knew that they were police on duty, and it would be tantamount to a positive statement, as set out in Constable Jameson's report, that he had informed Mrs. Boyle who they were. The report of the constables and the evidence in Court did not vary in any material respect, and the salient fact in the case was, as relied on by the defence, that the men on the premises were invited guests of the publican, and that the Court so held in dismissing the charge.

Sergeant McWhirter, R.U.C., Strabane, corroborated.

Mr. James Devlin, C.P.S., Strabane, for the defence, stated that the constables, in evidence, gave all the material and salient facts, and that the resident magistrates seemed to be quite satisfied with the police evidence.

The Court announced that their finding would be promulgated.

Backache
All banished by Kruschen

"I have been taking your Kruschen Salts for years. Why? Because of having pains in the back, head and joints; pains all over me. I felt tired going to bed, tired getting up. I was in a very bad way. I was laid up for over a month, and the doctor who attended me said I was suffering from acute rheumatism and advised me to take Kruschen Salts. In less than 3 months I felt ever so well. When the weather is very bad it comes back, but I get Kruschen Salts and I soon feel all right. I feel it worse sometimes in the summer, when the hot weather is on. I can't thank you enough for your Kruschen Salts."
2nd May, 1931. G. O., Chester.

The principle is this: Kruschen Salts rid your blood and drive from your body the cause of your rheumatic torment—uric acid, with its deposits of needle-point crystals. Kruschen swiftly dulls the sharp edges of these flint-hard crystals, then flushes them out of the system. Your pains ease; knotted joints become loose. Afterwards the "little daily dose" so stimulates the liver and kidneys that regular and complete elimination is ensured. Your inside is kept clean. Mischievous uric acid does not get a chance to accumulate again.

Tasteless in Tea.

Every chemist sells Kruschen in 6d., 1/-, and 1/9 bottles. A 1/9 bottle lasts three months—a farthing a day for health and happiness. Get a bottle to-day.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

Latest emigration figures show a decrease from 5,824 to 512 for the first four months of this year compared with last year.—(Page 9.)

Mrs. Bridget Walsh, who is accused of murdering her husband at Meelin, County Cork, in May last, by administering strychnine to him, gave evidence in her own defence at the Central Criminal Court, Dublin, yesterday.—(Page 8.)

While potato blight has already made its appearance in fifteen counties in the Irish Free State, it has not been reported in any of the potato growing centres in Northern Ireland.—(Page 7.)

The text of the bill for the humane slaughter of animals which has been introduced in the Dail, was issued yesterday.—(Page 8.)

The teaching of Irish and Irish history, the value of continuation classes, the Vocational Education Act, and the question of home industries were dealt with at the twenty-seventh Congress of the Irish Technical Education Association, which opened at Enniskillen yesterday.—(Page 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN

With the object of making Free State products better known in Great Britain a plan of personal canvass has been established in conjunction with the Empire Marketing Board.—(Page 7.)

In a letter to Mr. S. L. Elborne, the Conservative candidate in the Ardwick by-election, Mr. Baldwin says that the country must have tariffs to secure for it a fair chance in the markets of the world.—(Page 8.)

The Deputy Chairman of Committees in the House of Commons last night ruled out of order the Liberal Party's proposed amendment to the Finance Bill to prevent double taxation under the Land Tax Clauses. The amendment, however, will be reintroduced as a new clause.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

The German political crisis is over, having ended in a notable victory for the Chancellor, Dr. Bruening.—(Page 7.)

Threats of war in the coal-mining industry were uttered by Mr. Cook, the British workers' delegate, at Geneva yesterday. The overseas delegates protested very strongly against their treatment.—(Page 7.)

Following the resignation yesterday of Herr Winkler, Minister of the Interior, the Austrian Cabinet tendered its resignation to the President of the Republic.—(Page 7.)

Nearly a hundred bodies, mostly those of women, have been recovered from the wreck of the French excursion steamer Saint Philibert, and the total number of lives lost is now estimated as at least 465.—(Page 8.)

SPORTING.

At Ascot, Noble Star won the Ascot Stakes.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were irregular, and business was small. Brazilian Bonds improved.—(Page 12.)

In Lombard street, rates were again easy. Switzerland was compelled to pay 85s. 0½d. per oz. fine for £650,000 of the Cape gold in the market. The Bank bought £727,800 in bar gold, sold £83,814 in bar gold, released £300,000 in sovs., exported £39,000 in sovs., and set aside £20,834 in sovs.—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market was quiet, with small price changes.—(Page 12.)

Degraded Politics.

When Mr. Snowden introduced his new land tax Mr. Lloyd George really seemed to put down his foot. He declared that Liberals had endured much for the sake of compromise, but would defend private rights in landed property to their last gasp. The clearly-cut crisis arose on Clause 20 of the Finance Bill, which proposes to tax land that already pays income tax under Schedule A. Mr. Snowden's declared purpose in this double taxation is the penalisation of private ownership in land. A Liberal amendment, which proposed that landowners should deduct their payment in income tax from their liability under the new land value duty, would have scotched this method of double taxation; but Mr. Snowden refused to accept it, and threatened a general election. The event showed that Mr. Snowden knew his Liberals; for Mr. Lloyd George, after much dramatic by-play, produced a revised amendment. This proposes that, in the case of land subject to the new tax, the owner shall be allowed to deduct from the land value of the unit four times the amount of the annual value of the whole hereditament, as assessed for Schedule A; and that the tax of one penny in the pound shall be levied only upon the excess, if any, of the land value of the unit over the sum represented by four times the annual value of the whole hereditament. It was expected that the amendment would be discussed in the House of Commons yesterday, and all three parties had massed their forces for a momentous trial of strength.

The whole futile business was made still more ridiculous by last night's anti-climax; for the Deputy Chairman declared that the Liberal Party's revised amendment was out of order. Thus the battle has been postponed until a later stage of the bill. It was assumed that the Government would accept the revised amendment, but last night Mr. Snowden used words which suggest that the Liberal concessions are still inadequate, and that further humiliation awaits Mr. Lloyd George's unhappy followers. Mr. Snowden, at least, deserves the credit of fidelity to his principles. His land duty taxes land merely because it is private property, and so is a deliberate step towards the nationalisation of land. Double taxation is the essence of the principle which this tax proclaims. The Liberals, on the other hand, have made already a full retreat from the old Liberal position. Hitherto they have stood upon the rights of private property—though not upon its misuse—and have insisted that fully developed property shall not suffer double taxation. Now they are exposed as mere camp-followers of the Socialist army. The revised amendment involves a vital sacrifice of principle; for it accepts double taxation on private property in land. The only change is that, if Mr. Snowden accepts this amendment, the tax will be lightened. Here is a matter, not of compromise, but of abject surrender.

The truth is that Mr. Lloyd George prefers the living dog to the dead lion. Any humiliation, as he argues, is better than the almost certainly fatal risks of a general election. He will continue humbly to endure the slights and rebuffs which Mr. Snowden, for his part, will not hesitate to inflict. Cynicism is no new feature of British politics. Walpole, with his "Every man has his price," and Melbourne, with his "It does not matter what we say, so long as we all say the same thing," were typical statesmen of their time. We must remember, however, that the public opinion of that time was not in advance of such statesmanship. To-day British politics present a curious and disquieting spectacle; for the only people who refuse to take politics seriously are the politicians. The community—except that part of it which the politicians feed with bribes—has been educated and, of late years, frightened into a lucid appreciation of public affairs. It realises very acutely the country's urgent needs, which are a revival of patriotism, co-operation in economic progress, public and private sacrifices, and a courageous facing of hard facts. It asks for leadership, but, looking to the country's rulers, it finds them quite careless of the larger concerns of State and wholly intent upon their mimic battles and petty compromises in the House of Commons. England's situation would seem to be desperate but for her fortunate knack of quick recovery. In this political and moral crisis the emergence of a real leader would change the whole face of things, and the hope of such leadership lies in a single quarter. The Conservative Party's greatest test, and its greatest opportunity, are at hand.

Irish Goods and Empire Markets.

In a report which Mr. P. J. McGilligan the Minister for External Affairs, has presented to the Oireachtas much interesting information is given about the Free State High Commissioner's work in London and throughout Britain. Attention is drawn to the severe competition which Irish farmers must meet from other countries where the organised delivery of agricultural produce has attained a standard scarcely approached in our island. Yet, in spite of such handicaps, Irish produce ranks with the best quality, even if its abundance and its marketing leave something to be desired. In these circumstances, the High Commissioner appears to have acted with great wisdom. Mr. Dulanty has been content to introduce Irish produce to English grocers in the hope that more orders will inspire a capacity to fulfil them at home. Exhibitions have been held in important cities in England with the happiest of results; and now, according to the report, a further "publicity" campaign has been launched. Personal canvassing, in conjunction with the Empire Marketing Board, will bring the Free State, as an agricultural producer, into greater prominence in imperial markets, and, during this month and until September, five canvassers will make an intensive raid upon British purchasers. Much is expected from these efforts. The campaign must not be judged by immediate results, but must be sustained until a sufficient time has elapsed in which it may be judged with fairness. These activities will cost about a thousand pounds a year—a moderate figure when it is remembered that Canada, the bulk of whose output is agricultural, spends at least a hundred times as much every year upon advertisement. Already certain large and regular orders have been traced to the various exhibitions where Free State goods have been on view in England; and since, in some of these instances, it has been found that the purchasers had no previous acquaintance with the excellence of Irish produce, it is thought that much virgin soil remains to be tilled in this direction. The theory probably is sound. In many parts of England housewives are prone to regard Irish produce as "foreign," and demand "Danish," if "English" is not available at a convenient price. Such prejudices can be combated only by consistent propaganda, and the High Commissioner is doing a great service. Our only regret is that the advertisement of Irish goods in England and in the Dominions cannot be conducted on an ampler scale. Nevertheless, Mr. Dulanty's campaign is likely, if it has any reasonable measure of success, to tax the Free State's power to maintain supply with quality; and here Mr. Hogan must ensure that the admirable spadework of the last few years, which has given Irish produce its present high reputation, is not thrown away by any carelessness in the moment of growing trade.

Wild Plants.

In the matter of her natural amenities England seems to have developed a conscience of late. A number of nature-lovers, disturbed by the gradual disappearance of wild flora from her fields, are forming a Wild Plant Conservation Board. This is but the first step in a great scheme whose object is the study, preservation and protection of British wild plants and their restoration to districts from which they have disappeared. It is a scheme worthy of the highest praise; for, lamentably enough, the revival of a love for the English countryside has been accompanied too frequently by a carelessness about the wild life that makes the countryside beautiful and interesting. "Hikers," as one presumes, are anxious to regain touch with nature; yet regular complaints are heard of the damage that they are alleged to have done. The question has its scientific, as well as its æsthetic, side. A multitude of plants and flowers—many of them peculiar to certain parts of the country—virtually has become extinct, and their disappearance is a grave loss to the study of botany. In some cases, indeed, amateur botanists are themselves the chief offenders; thanks to their misguided enthusiasm, the herb known as Paris has been lost entirely to one district. Already the removal of wild flowers and plants is controlled in various places by local by-laws, but, as happens with by-laws, the power to enforce them is not always present. The new Conservation Board, which will include representatives of the many societies concerned with British wild plants, will be able, it is hoped, to speak with a national voice, and thereby to wield a comprehensive authority.

The Cheated Clock.

The French Civil Service has just unearthed a swindle, as ingenious and successful as the wit of man could have devised. Periodically examinations are held for superior positions in the postal and telegraphic department. A certain official, according to the Paris Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, has been charged with the divulging of examination questions to candidates on the eve of their examination. He denies the charge, but points out that for years past it has been possible that certain candidates may know the papers beforehand. The means employed are simple in the extreme. It so happens that the examination must take place at a given hour in all the principal cities not only of France, but of her possessions—Algiers, Morocco and Indo-China. Originally, as it appears, some genius was blessed with an inspiration. He recalled that Saigon lies some hundred degrees to the east of the meridian of Paris, and that its clock must be seven hours ahead of Paris time. When, therefore, an examination has ended in Saigon, it has not begun in Paris—indeed, it will not have begun for three hours. The corollary is evident. Eager hands obtain the papers in Saigon as soon as the candidates have left the examination hall, translate the questions into code, and cable them to Paris, where the recipients have sufficient time to decode them and to "make them up." One is inclined to wonder how many high officials of the Posts and Telegraphs can trace their status to this miracle of ingenuity—and precisely what decline will be manifest henceforth in the average level of Parisian marks.

"IOLANTHE" AT THE GAIETY.

The popular appeal of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" was again demonstrated at the Gaiety Theatre last night, when a very full house followed with liveliest interest a splendid performance by the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. The cast was much the same as on the previous occasion, but for the night the part of Phyllis, the Shepherdess, was taken by Miss Rita Mackay, who sang and acted with delightful charm. The present company is very happy in its possession of a trio of very accomplished and pleasing singers for the leading soprano parts in Miss Mackay, Miss Winifred Lawson and Miss Muriel Dickson. The last-named gave as clever a performance of the difficult part of Elsie Maynard in "The Yeomen of the Guard" on the previous night as one could wish to witness. A winning personality, natural acting and a fine warm voice won for her a goodly share of the chief honours of the night.

The work of the chorus in "Iolanthe" was outstanding, especially the chorus of peers. The work was beautifully staged, and the back scene in the opening act, with its skilful lighting effects, was as pretty a picture as one might expect to find even in "Arcady."

To-night the company will present "Princess Ida," with Sir Henry Lytton in the part of King Gama.

AN INCOME TAX ANOMALY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—By some recent regulation, of which many are unaware, the Free State tax on income derived from British industrials is assessed, not on the current year's amount, but on that of a previous year. The effect of this seems to tell very unfairly on those whose income is declining owing to the generally depressed state of business in England.

Take, for instance, a man whose income from British industrials for the year ended April, 1930, was £280. This income for the year ended April, 1931, has fallen to £250, but the tax-collector demands payment on £280, thereby imposing a fine of £4 10s., which seems wholly unjust. If he remonstrates, he is told that, if his income had risen £30, instead of falling to that extent, he would have been rewarded by a bonus of £4 10s., as he would only have to pay tax on the lesser amount, and that others, more fortunate than he, are profiting in this way. This is no consolation to the man who is victimised, and, as he contemplates the likelihood of continued reduction of income, he has the unpleasant prospect of an annual penalty—the tax on a sum in excess of income.

There seems to be no justification for this imposition, inasmuch as dividends from British industrials all bear a tax of 4s. 6d., which can only be reclaimed by a full and detailed statement, verified by vouchers. The tax-collector is inexorable. No matter how devoid of justice and common-sense the demand may be, it is the law, and pay you must.—Yours, etc.,

T. JEFFREY.

Howth, County Dublin, June 16th, 1931.

A house agent named James Moynett, aged about sixty, was found in Railway street, Dublin, shortly after 4.30 p.m. yesterday suffering from severe throat injuries. He was conveyed to Jervis street Hospital, where he was detained.

LONDON LETTER.

THE POLITICAL "CRISIS."

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,

TUESDAY NIGHT.

The Labour-Liberal negotiations began quite early this morning. The Cabinet held a meeting to consider the text of the revised amendment submitted by Mr. Lloyd George. At the moment it was not acceptable. Mr. Snowden still showed resistance, but, as the morning wore on, other counsels prevailed and the negotiations became easier. A meeting of the Parliamentary Labour Party was held to hear what Ministers had to say, and the Labour men are believed to have shown that they did not want a general election in any circumstances. Possibly, this feeling, and the recognition by the Government that it existed, had something to do with the change of heart on the part of Mr. Snowden and his supporters in the Government: for it was the beginning of the end of the so-called crisis.

Just after midday it was rumoured that the Ministers at Geneva had been advised that they need not return to vote in a critical division, and this fact encouraged the idea that the end was in sight. Political circles were still awaiting the result of the discussions when, just after 2.30, a rumour ran round that the game of parliamentary poker had been ended and the bluff called. Mr. Snowden had not "stiffened," and Mr. Lloyd George had "declared his hand," with the result that Labour and Liberals had agreed upon a new formula acceptable to both parties. The crisis, which had never seemed real, had come to an inglorious end. There was considerable cross-talk in the Lobby when the news became definite; for the Conservatives were inclined to scoff at Liberals and Labour men alike.

The Land Tax.

The exemptions from the land tax, promised yesterday by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, are substantial, and have been received with satisfaction in several quarters to-day. The University of London under the Act as drafted, stood to pay land tax on £2,000,000 worth of lands—freehold sites of buildings and other holdings. Their freeholds alone are valued at approximately £700,000, and the sites of buildings—medical schools, hospitals and other edifices—are of an approximate value of £500,000.

Lord Salisbury's Resignation.

It is now stated officially that Lord Salisbury has ceased to act as leader of the Opposition in the Lords, and that Lord Hailsham, who has been acting as his deputy, has taken over the post for the present Parliament, at Mr. Baldwin's request. Lord Salisbury is grateful for the consideration which both Mr. Baldwin and the Conservative Peers have shown him during his prolonged absence from the House. His health has now been largely restored, but he still would be unable for some little time to carry out the active duties of leader, and he feels that, despite a kind suggestion to that effect, there is no sufficient reason why he should continue to hold the titular position of leader without fulfilling its functions and undertaking its responsibilities.

The Status of Shanghai.

The second volume of Mr. Justice Feetham's report on Shanghai was published to-day. It completes the inquiry into the problems of the international settlement which the judge began eighteen months ago at the invitation of the Shanghai Municipal Council. The two volumes, taken together, present an account of Shanghai, more comprehensive and authoritative than anything yet available; and, whether the judge's proposals are accepted, rejected or amended, the material which he now provides has a permanent value. Public attention will turn at once to Part V. of the new volume, in which Mr. Justice Feetham discusses "main questions affecting the future of the settlement." After examining the demand for immediate rendition, the judge pronounces against it, and considers that there are four reasons why rendition, pure and simple, or rendition, followed by a special charter from the Chinese Government, is premature. In present conditions, he declares, there would be no guarantee of, first, physical security for the international settlement; second, the continuance of the rule of law; third, conditions favourable to the further promotion of local self-government; and, fourth, the permanence of the charter itself.

He prescribes a period of transition, measured not by years, but by decades, in which certain conditions must be satisfied before Shanghai will be ideally ready to pass under pure Chinese control. In his opinion, China must proceed much further along the road of political stability, and must show a more widespread and effective rule of law in the country generally, before Shanghai safely can relinquish the special safeguards of its present status.

Ascot.

That the memory of the heavy rain which spoilt smart frocks on Hunt Cup day at Ascot last year has not been effaced was evident from the precautions taken by many of to-day's racegoers to guard against a similar event. Few people were without mackintoshes, umbrellas, or both, and it was noticed that some waterproof garments were fully as charming as those which they were intended to protect. Men were as cautious as women in regard to waterproofs, but in their case the garments were confined mainly to various shades of fawn, intended for service rather than elegance.

Many of the special trains leaving Waterloo this morning were packed with passengers, and I noticed that nearly every woman was wearing a long dress and a hat much larger than has been the rule of late. Some of the hats had very wide brims, and were adorned freely with artificial flowers, while gowns with a floral pattern seemed to be almost the rule.

Motor Cycles Sales.

New motor cycles, licensed in Great Britain for the first time this year, show a falling off of several thousand, but the firms engaged in the industry in many cases are kept going at full time. Makers of machines of the lighter type are placing new models in production for delivery early next year, when the reduced tax of fifteen shillings per machine becomes operative. It is anticipated that the demand will be stimulated greatly by the tax reduction. Markers of medium powered machines are benefiting by the War Office's decision to mechanise the Regular and Territorial Armies. One contract for military machines, placed a few days ago, was for fifty motor cycles, while orders also have been placed by various police authorities forming mobile squads.

British Warships at Kiel.

Seventeen years have passed since a British Fleet paid an official visit to Kiel—in June, 1914—and it is understood that there will be another, but less formal, visit by His Majesty's ships Dorsetshire and Norfolk to the great German port early next month. Much interest is being taken in Germany in the forthcoming event; and, while it is announced definitely as unofficial, the Germans intend to make it as "official" as possible. A long and interesting programme of entertainment has been arranged, and it is not improbable that President Hindenburg will pay an unofficial visit to Kiel in honour of the occasion.

Yehia Pasha Ibrahim, the ex-Premier and Leader of the Ittehad Party, has been appointed President of the Egyptian Senate, according to a Cairo Reuter telegram.

LIBERAL LAND TAX FIASCO.

AMENDMENT OUT OF ORDER.

LUDICROUS POSITION IN COMMONS.

NEW CLAUSE COMPROMISE.

THE Liberal Party's proposed amendment to Clause 20 of the Finance Bill last night was ruled out of order by Mr. Dunnico, Deputy Chairman of Committees, in the House of Commons.

Clause 20 deals with relief from the land tax, and the Liberal amendment had been designed to mitigate double taxation—namely, under the land tax and under Schedule "A" of income tax.

Mr. Dunnico's ruling was that the amendment concerns assessment, and would have been in order on the assessment clause (14), but is irrelevant to Clause 20, which deals with relief from subsequent taxation.

Sir Donald Maclean and other Liberals protested, but the Deputy Chairman told them that their amendment would be in order if moved as a new clause hereafter.

The House laughed at the Liberal discomfiture, and Mr. Lloyd George, from the Liberal benches, shared its merriment.

On the motion for the adjournment, Mr. Snowden told Sir Donald Maclean that if the Liberal amendment is put on the Order Paper, the Government will give it sympathetic consideration, and if it cannot be reached in "the exigencies of parliamentary time," the Government will give an opportunity for discussion of an analogous amendment.

PARTY TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

THE great debate anticipated for this evening, and the possible defeat of the Government on the official Liberal amendment to Clause 20 of the Finance Bill, ended in a farce (says our Parliamentary Correspondent). In accordance with the understanding arrived at yesterday Clause 20, which deals with exemptions under the Land Tax clauses of the bill, was postponed to a further stage.

A crowded House awaited the launching of the Liberal amendment to Clause 20, which was to decide the fate of the Government. It was Sir Donald Maclean's intention to open the case for the amendment which, as it appeared on the paper, was the result of prolonged and anxious negotiations between the Liberal and Labour leaders. Designed to prevent double taxation, the amendment, in effect, proposed that land already assessed to income tax under Schedule "A" should not again be taxed under the provisions of the bill.

Sir Donald Maclean was in his place, eager and waiting, and there was a full array of Ministers on the Government bench (including the Prime Minister and Mr. Snowden) ready to hear what he had got to say.

A BOMBSHELL.

Both sides, apparently, had reckoned without Mr. Dunnico (the Deputy Chairman of Committees) who, at the very outset, threw a bombshell by declaring that the amendment was out of order on Clause 20, though it might be admissible in its appropriate place. He pointed out that, whilst Clause 20 dealt only with relief from the land tax "in certain cases," the purpose of the amendment was to alter the conditions of assessment, the clause dealing with which (Clause 24) had already been passed.

The House listened to the ruling in astonished silence, and the Liberals seemed stupified at this sudden check to the prospects of an eventful debate in which they were to have played so prominent a part. Sir Donald Maclean ventured on a mild protest against the ruling of the Chairman, but refrained from arguing the point, because, as he said, past experience had taught him that it would be futile.

After the Deputy-Chairman's ruling, the Liberals trooped out of the House to discuss the matter, and it is understood that their amendment will subsequently be brought forward as a new clause on Tuesday next or on a subsequent date.

The Conservatives and not a few of the Labour members laughed at the farcical termination to a "political crisis," and Mr. Lloyd George, from the Liberal benches, joined in the general laughter.

OTHER AMENDMENTS.

The Committee then proceeded to discuss other minor amendments to Clause 20.

Sir W. Mitchell-Thomson moved that "Every person assessed to the tax in any year shall be entitled to relief from the tax for that year to the extent of the first ten shillings of the aggregate of the tax in respect of all land units on which he is assessed."

The Solicitor-General, opposing the amendment, said that the object of the Government was to exempt from the payment of tax people who owned only a small plot of land, and to avoid the inconvenience of having to collect small sums of money. It was a fallacy to suppose that the same result would be achieved by making the exemption uniform for all persons.

On a division the amendment was rejected by 267 votes to 244.

Mr. Cadogan next moved an amendment to provide that the tax should not be chargeable in respect of any land used solely for agricultural purposes or for allotments under the Small Holdings and Allotments Acts.

Mr. Jack Jones at this point rose to ask if it would be possible for him to put down a motion for another crisis to-morrow. (Loud laughter.)

The Solicitor-General, addressing himself to the amendment, said the difficulty in regard to allotments in districts around towns was that, if all such land was exempted, everybody would immediately have his land used for allotments and there would be no development.

The amendment was rejected by 280 votes to 199.

The clause finally was agreed to, and progress was reported.

AMENDMENT AS NEW CLAUSE.

CHANCELLOR'S STATEMENT

Sir Donald Maclean, on the motion for the adjournment, asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he could inform the House as to the attitude of the Government towards the Liberal amendment to Clause 20, which had been ruled out of order, but was now to be proposed as a new clause.

Mr. Snowden replied that this was a rather unusual question. He was unable to state the attitude of the Government in relation to the amendment on the paper, because that amendment was now dead. (Laughter.) He understood that a fresh amendment would appear on the Paper to-morrow, and all he could say at the moment was that, if the amendment which had been ruled out of order to-day had been debated in the House, the Government would have expressed its sympathy with it. If an opportunity arose [illegible] Government would give it very sympathetic consideration. He might go further and say that if, in the exigencies of parliamentary time it was not possible for the amendment to be reached, the Government would provide an opportunity for an amendment of an analogous kind.

Sir Herbert Samuel said that the new clause which would be put down was, to all intents and purposes, identical with the amendment on the paper to-day.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain congratulated the Chancellor on the bargain he had made, because he seemed to have got away with the principle.

"A COMPROMISE."

Mr. Lloyd George said that he was only concerned with the substance, and when the substance came to be discussed he would be prepared to defend the position that the Liberal Party had taken up. He agreed that there had been a compromise, but in substance he was satisfied. The whole of British politics was based on compromise, and when the time came he would be perfectly ready to defend his action. He was delighted with the arrangement that had been effected, and did not wish to make concealment of the fact that he was anxious for such an arrangement.

The House rose at 8.15.

REPRESENTATION OF THE PEOPLE BILL.

SECOND READING IN THE LORDS.

The House of Lords, by a majority of 50 votes to 14, gave a second reading to the Representation of the People Bill, which applies the principle of the alternative vote to parliamentary elections. The second reading was moved by Lord Passfield, who showed no great enthusiasm for a measure which, in his opinion, would have only a very slight effect upon party representation. When asked why the Government brought in a bill which was not expected greatly to benefit them, he replied that it must not be supposed that they introduced only measures which were likely to be of advantage to their own party.

Lord Banbury moved the rejection of the bill on the ground that it was not wanted, and that there was no mandate for it, but the House was not with him.

MESSRS. HARLAND AND WOLFF.

COMPANY TO BE REORGANISED.

The report for the year ended 31st December, 1930, states that, after writing off £250,000 for depreciation, the profit for the year is £105,745. Adding £132,307, brought forward from last year, the directors propose to carry forward to next account £238,053. Although this amount stands at the credit of the profit and loss account, it is not represented by liquid resources available for distribution, and the directors therefore regret they are unable to recommend the payment of any dividends.

The directors are acting in co-operation with the voting trustees appointed by the Treasury and the banks to control the Royal Mail group of shipping companies, with which this company is closely associated and from which a large proportion of the amounts outstanding is due, in cash or under bills, and in respect of which there are contingent liabilities on bills discounted and guarantees.

Although the output during 1930 was the highest of recent years, the rate of profit earned was not satisfactory, especially during the latter half of the year, when the amount of work in hand fell away rapidly. The directors recognise that the fixed assets must be reduced very substantially from amounts shown in the balance sheet in order to bring them into accord with present day values, and that the amount at which the investments in subsidiary companies are shown must also be reduced.

Furthermore, the company is so affected by the position of their associated shipping companies that any action in regard to the value of the assets shown in the balance sheet must necessarily await the completion of the arrangements now being considered in connection with those companies. When these arrangements have been completed the directors will put before the shareholders a scheme for writing down the company's assets and re-organising its capital.

For the year ended December 31st, 1929, after payment of dividend of 6 per cent. on £4,000,000 First Preference shares and writing £300,000 off for depreciation and £115,615 off investments, the balance at credit of profit and loss account was £132,307, which was carried forward.

The dividend on the First Preferences was paid to December 31, 1929, and nothing has been paid on the A. and B. Preferences since December, 1924.

Sir Walter Layton, C.H., editor of the Economist, has accepted the invitation of the British Government conveyed to him by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to act as British member on the committee of economic experts set up by the Committee of Inquiry for European Union, which is to meet [illegible] at Geneva on June 29th.

Free State Trade in Britain.

PROPAGANDA WORK NEEDED.

A REPORT which has just been presented to both Houses of the Oireachtas by Mr. P. McGilligan, Minister for External Affairs, gives an account of the valuable work carried on by the High Commissioner's Office in London in regard to the advancement of Irish trade in Great Britain.

While the quality of Free State goods has been notably improved in recent times, as well as the methods of presentation, it has to be borne in mind that the leading agricultural countries of Europe continually pour into the British markets highly-organised supplies. To meet this competition the Free State representatives have to be continually alert.

With the object of making Free State products better known exhibitions on an extensive scale have been held in the chief cities of Great Britain, and in each case steps were taken to put Free State exporters in touch with British wholesale and retail establishments. The contacts thus established have, in many cases, led to substantial business dealings.

CANVASSERS EMPLOYED.

Following these exhibitions a plan of personal canvass has been established in conjunction with the Empire Marketing Board, and during the present month and till September next five canvassers will be busily employed in all the more important industrial areas for the purpose of urging grocers to stock Free State products.

The necessity of keeping up the propaganda continuously is stressed, even though it is difficult to measure the immediate results. That there are good results is shown by the following extract from the report:—

"One of the largest and most highly organised firms in London saw a certain product at one of the Saorstat Exhibitions. The firm's means of knowing what was on the market were exceptionally good, but they had failed to obtain their requirements until their representative visited the Exhibition. The Trade Branch of this office followed up the inquiry, and as a result there is to-day a live trading account running to five figures a year between the London firm and a firm in An Saorstat. A certain multiple-shop firm in the North of England have within the past two years increased their total purchases of Saorstat goods by nearly one hundred per cent.; their account now running to more than a quarter of a million sterling. The buyer attributes this mainly to to the improved quality of which he was first made aware by the continual displays and the personal representations of the London Office."

The net cost of these activities to the Free State Government amount annually to about £1,000, and the suggestion is made that this amount might be materially increased, especially when it is remembered that a Dominion like Canada competing to some extent in the same field, is expending annually more than a hundred times that amount.

VICTORY FOR DR. BRUENING.

POLITICAL CRISIS ENDED.

SOCIALISTS WITHDRAW THEIR DEMAND.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

THE Brüening Government is not resigning, and the political crisis which has kept Germany on tenterhooks for the past week is over.

The House Committee of the Reichstag this evening rejected by a large majority the motion submitted by the Communists' representation that the Budget Committee should be convoked to discuss, and, if necessary, amend, the emergency decree.

Immediately after this morning's rejection by the House Committee of the Nationalist demand for the immediate Convocation of the Reichstag (thanks to the Socialists voting against it) the Socialist Party assembled to discuss their attitude towards the Government's refusal to agree—even that the Budget Committee should meet—to discuss the emergency decree.

After a lengthy meeting the Socialists decided to withdraw their demand in view of the fact that the Chancellor had promised them that the emergency decree would, in due course, be examined and various hardships, if possible, removed.

The Chancellor, by his firmness and unwavering attitude, has thus scored a great victory, and will now be left in peace by the Reichstag and political parties to carry through his programme of financial reforms, so that, in due course, he can submit to the Powers his proposals as to how Germany's reparation burdens can be alleviated.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury at an inquest at Cambridge yesterday on Mr. Kenneth George Murray (22), of Grosvenor Crescent, Edinburgh, who was killed while piloting an aeroplane at the pageant at Cambridge last Saturday.

MAYO LIBRARIES DIFFICULTY.

COMING DEBATE IN THE DAIL.

WESTERN DEPUTY'S MOTION.

A CLOSE DIVISION EXPECTED.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

A PIQUANT situation has arisen in connection with the Local Government Bill, 1931, which is on the agenda for second reading in the Dail to-day; and it seems as if it may be made the occasion of a full-dress debate on the circumstances connected with the County Mayo Library question, and the subsequent dissolution of the Mayo County Council.

The bill, it will be recalled, is intended to give the Minister additional powers in connection with local authorities dissolved by him, and also in relation to subsidiary bodies wholly or partly appointed by such local authorities.

DEPUTY'S MOTION.

On to-day's agenda notice is given by Mr. Michael Davis, Cumann na nGaedheal deputy for North Mayo, that he will move on the second reading of the Local Government Bill:—

"That the Dail declines to give a second reading to a bill which includes as one of its provisions a proposal to extend the powers of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health in relation to local government authorities dissolved by him until the Minister has taken the appropriate steps to restore the Mayo County Council."

In this connection it is important to note that Mr. Davis is not alone a loyal member of the Government Party, but is chairman of the party in the Dail as well. He was also the chairman of the dissolved Mayo County Council, but he did not take a very prominent part in the proceedings which led to the ultimate dissolution of that body. Deputies of all parties were greatly intrigued at the situation which has arisen. The probable explanation is that the Government deputies from County Mayo have found it necessary, owing to local pressure, to have the whole question debated in the Dail, and the opportunity presented by the second reading of this bill seemed to be altogether appropriate.

It is likely that deputies of all parties will wish to speak on the debate, and that every aspect of the libraries question will be discussed.

THE LIBRARY SERVICES.

It seems at the moment that the library services throughout the County Mayo are all, or nearly all, in a state of suspense, and that the books from the 135 library centres are now stored in Castlebar. The librarian, Miss Dunbar-Harrison, whose appointment was the immediate cause of all the subsequent developments, is consequently much handicapped in the discharge of her duties.

If, as seems certain, the motion is moved, a vote will be inevitable, and obviously the division will be a close one.

Two Fianna Fail members for the County Mayo, Messrs. P. J. Ruttledge and Richard Walsh, have had a motion on the order paper for some time, but have not found an opportunity to move it. It reads:—

"That the Dail disapproves of the action of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health in dissolving the Mayo County Council, and demands its immediate restoration."

The following questions appear on the Dail agenda for to-day:—

Mr. Denis Allen (Fianna Fail, Wexford) will ask President Cosgrave if the Executive Council have referred, or intend to refer, to the Tariff Commission the question of the imposition of a Customs duty on bacon and other meat products.

Mr. Timothy Sheehy (Government Party, West Cork) will ask the Minister for Finance if, in view of the nature of their duties, he will consider the advisability of exempting clergymen and dispensary doctors from the payment of the road tax on their motor vehicles.

THE SENATE.

The Senate agenda for to-day includes the following bills:—Veterinary Surgeons Bill, second reading; Charitable Hospitals Bill, second reading; Jurors Bill, second reading; Betting Bill, report stage, and Local Elections (Postponement) Bill, report stage.

MOTORISTS HELD UP BY LIONS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PIETERSBURG, TRANSVAAL, Tuesday.

A party of motorists in the Northern Transvaal, while driving near Leydsdorp, were suddenly confronted at a turning in the road by a lion and two lionesses and were forced to pull up to avoid a collision. After a tense moment, the lion, followed by one lioness, retired into the bush, but, to the horror of the unarmed motorists, the other lioness began to advance stealthily towards the car. Just when matters seemed critical, however, a warning growl from the lion was heard and the lioness obediently slunk off into the bush to join her companions.

Ascot Scenes and Dresses.

ROYAL PARTY DRIVE IN STATE.

ASCOT, Tuesday.

THE King and Queen arrived at Ascot to-day in a blaze of sunshine. Dark clouds had rolled across the sky, but when the Royal procession began the picturesque journey along the New Mile acclaimed by tens of thousands of their subjects, the sun was shining brilliantly.

There were seven carriages in the Royal procession, each drawn by four horses with postillions, in their scarlet and gold jackets and white buckskin breeches. It was a memorable picture as they drove over the velvet turf. In the first carriage were the King and Queen, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York.

The Queen was in silver grey, and the King, the Prince and the Duke wore dark morning clothes and black silk hats. The grey topper seems to be disappearing as rapidly as light morning clothes, and only a very few could be seen in the Royal enclosure and the paddock. Their Majesties, after entering the Royal enclosure, went to the Royal box to watch the races. The King could be seen following the horses through his field glasses.

THE TOTALISATOR.

The totalisator was working for the first time at Ascot. It is said to be the finest totalisator in the world, and its introduction on such a scale had created a certain amount of apprehension among the bookmakers. It was rumoured that there might be some obstruction of the smooth working of the totalisator, but a special force of five hundred police kept constant watch upon the pay wicket. There was, however, no interference, and it was officially stated that everything had worked satisfactorily.

It was very evident that the totalisator appealed to a very large portion of the race-going public. Crowds besieged it, and it was remarkable that the people appeared to patronise very largely the two shilling unit. In Tattersall's the usually large crowd was absent.

On the first five races the "tote" took £32,618, and for the day the total was £42,803, with an additional £2,000 on the double. The largest take was on the Ascot Stakes race, and amounted to £9,160. On the last race it was interesting to observe that half the sum invested, £4,200, was placed on the winning horse, Cameronian—the Derby winner.

THE FASHION SIDE.

From the dress point of view, the meeting was not nearly so attractive as it has been in past years. But for that the weather must be blamed. Filmy frocks were blown out of all semblance of line, and a great many women wore heavy coats, which entirely covered the dainty dresses they had hoped to display with so much pride.

Most of the débutantes appeared wearing simple crêpe-de-chine dresses, with coloured coats to match their hats. Members of the Royal Family wore lace frocks under the protective coats.

The Queen was not so colourful a figure as usual. Her brocade coat was in beige tones, shot with pastel green and blues, instead of the brighter shades she so often affects for Ascot.

The Duchess of York looked particularly attractive in blue, and Princess Mary wore a warm shade of sand beige.

A slender, pretty girl in the paddock looked as though she might have slipped out of an old picture frame. Her flounced black skirt was inlet with insertions of beige lace and reached the ground all round. The bodice was finished with a fichu, and she wore a wide-brimmed hat, trimmed with black velvet ribbon.

Some women wore lace and embroidery hats which were so wide that they touched their shoulders. Others had tiny caps of fine crocheted silk, which looked as though they were slipping off the backs of their heads. Everywhere there were attractive little capes and coatees, worn with dresses of an entirely different colour.

Sunshades—at any rate, of the Ascot type—were conspicuous by their absence. A few women carried coloured umbrellas, but for the most part they needed both hands with which to hold on their wide-brimmed hats in the wind.

Pale green appeared to be the most popular shade, and it was certainly the most prominent among the dresses seen in the paddock. One woman, whose silk lace frock was of this shade, wore crêpe-de-chine shoes which exactly toned.

The younger girls sported frocks of the kind of embroidered muslins worn by their grandmothers, with coloured sashes, tied bustle-fashion with huge bows.

The high wind played many a trick with the wide-brimmed hats, and it sometimes happened that a hat was skimming away across the paddock before the wearer realised her loss.

NEW SPANISH CONSUL FOR DUBLIN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

THREAT TO THE POTATO CROP.

RAPID SPREAD OF DISEASE.

FIFTEEN COUNTIES NOW AFFECTED.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

FIVE centres in the counties of Carlow and Wexford have now to be added to the twenty-five centres in thirteen other counties in the Irish Free State where potato blight has appeared. Thus fifteen of the twenty-six counties in the Free State are affected with this serious crop disease, and, as long as existing weather conditions prevail, there is danger that it may become more general.

Without being alarmist, I feel justified in declaring that the position is one which calls for prompt measures of prevention on the part of potato-growers in every part of the country. More especially is this the case where the disease has made its appearance—Cork, Clare, Carlow, Dublin, Galway, Kerry, Limerick, Mayo, Offaly, Roscommon, Sligo, Tipperary (North Riding), Waterford, Wexford and Westmeath. Even though the seed was planted late, the warm, moist conditions prevailing for some weeks past have given a great stimulus to growth in many parts, especially in the South and West.

POSITION IN THE MIDLANDS.

In the Midlands climatic conditions have been less favourable, and growth of potatoes is consequently backward. It might be thought, indeed, that the tops were too small to become liable to attack; but even in this case the fungus has appeared, and, although the weather may become bright and sunny, every trace of disease that remains on the crop is capable of spreading. For that reason I cannot too strongly urge the necessity for immediate spraying with a properly made mixture of copper sulphate and washing soda.

I was surprised to notice the absence of knowledge regarding the preparation of this spraying mixture displayed by one member of a certain County Committee of Agriculture. He was not aware of the importance of dissolving copper sulphate and washing soda in separate vessels before mixing them to ensure a properly blended spray. If this is not done, the grower may fail in his effort to prevent the crop from becoming diseased, and the yield will certainly suffer.

In some places the delay in planting was largely due to the sodden condition of the land, following unusually heavy rains. Last year the general complaint was want of sufficient moisture to promote growth of any kind, including grass. Late planting also took place in the beet-growing districts, where former beet-growers placed a considerable area under potatoes rather than accept the "cut" of 8s. per ton in the price of sugar beet offered by the Irish Sugar Manufacturing Company, Ltd. The growers, like those more accustomed to large crops of potatoes, should spray without delay.

The Department of Agriculture has seen to it that there are adequate supplies of copper sulphate suitable for the purpose, if thoroughly dissolved, and they advise farmers to buy it in whatever form they can get it—coarse or fine powder or crystals—in view of the abnormal demand from the Continent.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Tuesday.

In view of the report that potato blight has appeared in several Southern counties, I made inquiries to-day at the Northern Ministry of Agriculture, and was informed that they had received no reports of any general appearance of blight in any of the potato-growing districts.

A leading wholesale merchant whom I interviewed declared that no blight had appeared in the North yet, "but," he added, "we have had so much rain recently that planting has been held up in many districts. I was round the best potato-growing districts in County Antrim on Saturday, and in districts with good, red, well-drained soil the potato crop was looking promising, but on the heavy, low-lying land farmers cannot get on the land to plant the potatoes, particularly around Lough Neagh.

"Hundreds of acres have not yet been planted, and it is difficult to say if they will be planted this year. I anticipate that there will be a smaller crop of potatoes this year owing to the fact that many acres will not be planted."

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE POLITICAL CRISIS.

In a leading article to-day The Times observes:—The political crisis ended yesterday with a finale well worthy of a contest between Tweedledum and Tweedledee. Each side has surrendered something for the sake of peace, the Liberals their principles, and the Government their cash. Finally, to crown the burlesque, the Deputy Chairman of Committees has ruled that the Liberal amendment, which has caused the peacemakers so much trouble, is irrelevant to the clause to which it had been put down, and will have to wait to be proposed as a new clause next week.

So Tweedledum and Tweedledee might safely have continued their sparring, even if the shadow of that monstrous crow—a general election—had not previously made them decide that the Liberal Tweedledum was innocent in intention and in fact of spoiling the Government Tweedledee's nice new rattle. But, as a matter of fact, that decision had already been reached. The Government had agreed in principle to accept the Liberal amendment, providing that any landowner can deduct four times the amount of the value of his property under Schedule A from the total of the value of his property under the new Land Values Tax, and pay the new tax at the full rate only on the difference, if any.

THE SETTLEMENT.

A settlement was finally secured by the addition to this complicated rule of a proviso that, if no value remained to be taxed, a tax should, nevertheless, be imposed upon the site value at the reduced rate of one-eighth of a penny in the £. This proviso put the whole proposal beyond the reach of the House of Lords by making it a purely financial matter, and, at the same time, preserved the Socialist principle of putting some double taxation on all privately-owned land. Mr. Snowden has, therefore, surrendered to Liberal pressure part of the revenue from his tax, and the tax payable upon fully developed property will, in the first instance, be very small; but he has kept intact the principle of his tax and his right to assess all land to tax upon his new, and so far unimpaired, basis of valuation. Nothing prevents him or some Socialist successor from increasing the rate of tax, or from varying its incidence after the year 1933, because he will have the universal valuation which will make such changes a simple matter.

All that the Liberals have won from him in exchange for a surrender of principle is a serious reduction in the possible yield of the tax for its first year. That is a very trivial concession legitimately made on his part as a matter of expediency.

HOT WORDS AT GENEVA.

WRANGLE ABOUT COAL MINES.

THREAT OF WAR BY MR. COOK.

U.S. "WISE" TO IGNORE THE LEAGUE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Tuesday.

THERE was some very plain speaking here to-day about conditions in overseas mines during the discussion of the application of the hours of work convention in coal mines to overseas, as well as European, mines.

Mr. Fulay, the Indian workers' technical adviser, led with an attack on conditions in South African mines. He declared that it was the coal from South Africa which was proving the ruin of the export trade in India, and that the miners in the South African coal mines had to work ten hours a day. It was desirable, he declared, that the convention should first of all be applied to India and South Africa, where, he said, conditions were "horrible and inhuman."

WAR THE ALTERNATIVE.

Mr. Cook, the British workers' representative, addressing the employer representatives, said: "Refuse reform to-day and revolution is inevitable to-morrow. That is what you must face. You from overseas countries have come here, not with the object of helping us, but with the object of destroying the possibility of the convention. If the Governments lose their reason, then we have only one method to resort to, and that is force, and you will be devoured by that force."

In conclusion Mr. Cook addressed a fervent appeal to the employers to modify their attitude, and help to solve the world problem by conciliation.

"Do not destroy the medium of peace," he exclaimed. "If you do, the only alternative is war."

CONVENTION ADOPTED.

Later.

The International Labour Conference this afternoon adopted on a first reading by sixty-seven votes to sixteen the proposed draft convention on the hours of work in coal mines. Most of the Government and employers' delegates of overseas countries abstained from voting, while several overseas workers' delegates voted in favour of it.

The result was received with general applause. The second reading of the convention, which applies to all coal mines, will be taken on Thursday.

"If the United States had been a member of the League, you would have thought twice before treating overseas members in this cavalier fashion," said Mr. Gemmill, South African representative, addressing Mr. Shinwell, the British Under-Secretary for Mines. "Until the United States is a member of this organisation the overseas countries had better be out of it. If America is wise she will never join it."

Mr. Shinwell was ranged against the Dominion delegates in the debate on the amendment of Mr. Gemmill "That the provisions (regarding hours) do not apply to countries outside Europe." He even moved its rejection, remarking that, if the overseas Governments were not represented on the committee on hours of work in coal mines, the fault was theirs, not the committee's.

Mr. Gemmill's amendment was seconded by the Australian Government representative and supported by the Canadian Government representative. It was finally rejected by eighty-nine votes to fourteen.

AUSTRIAN CABINET RESIGNS.

ACUTE FINANCIAL CRISIS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VIENNA, Tuesday.

The Austrian Cabinet has decided to tender its resignation to the President of the Republic.

This decision follows the resignation earlier in the day of Herr Franz Winkler, Minister of the Interior, and the resignation, a fortnight ago, of Dr. Schurff, Minister of Justice, both of which testified to the uneasiness of the political situation. As a matter of fact, the resignation of the whole Ministry, which is based on the parties of the Right and is led by Dr. Otto Ender (Christian Socialist) as Chancellor and Dr. Schober as Vice-Chancellor and Minister of Foreign Affairs, was only narrowly averted a month ago.

As in Germany and so many other parts of the world at the moment, finance has been the great stumbling block and source of disputes, and in Austria the financial question has been rendered more acute by the recent difficulties of the Kredit Anstalt, which have entailed the obtaining of big foreign credits under a proposed Government guarantee for the reconstruction of this important banking institution.

RETRENCHMENT BILL.

The retrenchment bill introduced by the Government a week or two ago provided for a five per cent. reduction in civil servants' salaries, to which measure the Pan-Germans in particular were opposed. Dr. Schurff's resignation was caused by the Government insisting on its "cuts" in order to meet the Budget deficit.

The main Government party is the Christian Socialist Party, which secured 66 of the 165 seats in the Chamber at the general election in November last, and with it is allied Dr. Schober's economic bloc, which went to the country independently and secured nineteen seats. The Social Democrats, who constitute the Opposition, are the strongest party, having secured seventy-two seats at the general election.

It was later officially announced that the President of the Republic had accepted the Chancellor's resignation and had charged him and the other members of the Cabinet with the conduct of the Administration in the interim.

IRISH TECHNICAL CONGRESS OPENS.

IMPORTANCE OF CONTINUATION CLASSES STRESSED.

PRESIDENT AND LANGUAGE PREJUDICE.

A CLOSER study of the history of Ireland as a means of improving the standard of national education was advocated at the Congress of the Irish Technical Education Association, at Enniskillen yesterday, by the President, Mr. B. P. Bowen.

Mr. Bowen, in the course of his address, criticised the Free State Department of Education for having ignored the question of history in its suggested programme under the Vocational Education Act, and said that such a condition of affairs should not be tolerated.

A WIDE range of subjects connected with technical education in Ireland was dealt with at the 27th annual Congress of the Irish Technical Education Association, which opened yesterday in the Town Hall, Enniskillen. Mr. B. P. Bowen, B.L., A.R.C.Sc.I., presided.

The delegates were welcomed by Mr R. Proctor, Chairman of the Enniskillen Urban Council; Mr. G. Whaley, President of the Enniskillen Chamber of Commerce; Sir Basil Brooke, M.P., Chairman of the Fermanagh County Council, and Mr. D. Riley, of the County Fermanagh Technical Education Committee.

In his address the President said that education was a continuing responsibility which could not be shirked, unless they were content to allow their people to stagnate. The love of learning had always been a characteristic of the Irish, and the same characteristic was still apparent by the ever-increasing attendance at their schools.

The effect of the Vocational Education Act in the South, he said, had been to increase the scope of the local education committees, and to improve the position of efficient education of students leaving primary schools who desired to continue their education. While development in the North had not been on the same lines, it was not unlikely that a scheme of continuation education might be developed there, so that what might be said of the South might apply to the whole country in due course. It would, in his opinion, be regrettable if the continuation school evolved into a junior technical school, particularly in its cultural aspect.

PRACTICAL SUBJECTS.

Referring to a memorandum issued by the Free State Department of Education on time allocations for practical subjects, in which approximately half the time at the schools' disposal was given to handwork and practical subjects, he said that this was too big a percentage, and ought not to be made a rule. Local needs should be the deciding factor. If subjects like mathematics, book-keeping, and accountancy were considered practical subjects this criticism might lose its force, but that such was the case was not apparent. The importance of developing an appreciation of literature, art, music and philosophy should not be lost sight of.

The President, dealing with the teaching of history, said that it should stimulate that innate pride which they all felt for their native land. In Ireland in the past the tendency was to ignore or distort history, to leave neglected the natural sources of patriotic inspiration, to leave ungarnered the prolific crop of folk-lore to be found throughout the land. The neglect of the national language and its persecution almost brought about its extinction. The language was gradually regaining its proper place in the country, and prejudices against it were breaking down by degrees.

Mr. Bowen went on to criticise the Free State Department of Education for ignoring history, both local and national, in its suggested programmes for continuation schools under the Vocational Education Act, declaring that such a condition of affairs should not be tolerated and that committees should take steps to have it remedied.

DEMAND FOR TEACHERS.

Turning to the question of the provision of teachers, he said that it would be some time before the supply met the demand. Good teachers could not be secured without good remuneration, and salaries should be given commensurate with the importance of the work undertaken. "The cutting off of the cost of living bonus by some committees when the refund of it was refused by the Department was misplaced economy," he asserted, "and will not encourage teachers to give of their best."

There was also a lack of premises for continuation schools, and immediate steps should be taken to borrow money for this purpose. In conclusion, he urged the support of home industries and the development of the social side of life in continuation and technical schools.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.

A discussion on "Vocational Education" was opened by Mr. D. J. Coakley, Principal of the Cork Municipal School of Commerce, who declared that the prejudice which still lingered against vocational subjects as a basis for a liberal education was due largely to ideas and conditions which had long ceased to exist—to the prejudice against business itself; to the old idea that business was a purely materialistic calling; to the fact that in the past vocational education was not necessary as a preparation for business, and that the control of business was confined to a small section of the community; to our narrow conception of education in the past as compared with the deeper and more extensive knowledge which we now possessed. To-day the business man had arrived, his opinions counted, and his standing in the community was high. The views and outlook of the dominant section of the community influenced, if not determined, the general educational outlook at any particular period. As the attitude towards business had thus undergone a complete change, the prejudice against business subjects as a basis of a broad education was fast disappearing.

The objection to business as being too materialistic in its outlook, however true in the past, was not true at the present time. The change from small-scale to large-scale industry, world trade, keen competition, and a continuous increase in the standard of living, gave scope for the employment in business of men of outstanding ability and a high standard of education. The classes from which leaders in business were obtained were rapidly widening. These factors, in the course of time, stimulated the demand for education, and especially for vocational education. Large-scale industry provided for a larger population at a higher standard of living, and surely the study of subjects which helped to bring about that result could not be regarded as purely materialistic.

PSYCHOLOGY QUESTION.

But, perhaps, the most powerful factor which allowed business subjects their proper place in the scheme of education was the study of psychology and of education itself. Formerly they confined education to book education. They now realised that the hand helped the brain as much as the brain helped the hand; that during the pre-school age a child by doing things for itself obtained a development of the faculties of which formerly they had no adequate conception; that in the after-school period the practice and experience of business and of the world generally was more deeply concerned with education than was generally realised. Now all education was practical, as every type of education could be used to promote one's material interests.

"I think the great success in this country of what was called technical and commercial instruction was due to the fundamental desire of the students for education rather than mere training," said Mr. Coakley. "It was the appeal to the mind through vocational subjects that made this voluntary scheme of education the success that it is. We could never hold students on a voluntary basis at night classes, often for a course extending up to five or six years, were we giving them mere training. We hold them because their interest in the work is aroused and maintained; there is a continuous study of problems and overcoming of difficulties, there is a continuous development of the faculties—in a word, they are receiving education."

PRACTICAL TRAINING.

Mr. J. Earls, Principal of the Municipal College of Technology, Belfast, said that they often spoke of a boy as taking no interest in school work, and put him down as a dunce. Yet the same boy might develop intellectually when put into a drawing-office or a workshop. In properly conducted handwork classes, it was the exception to find pupils who were not interested and industrious. There were many boys and girls who found little to interest them in the ordinary school-work, who if they could have their intellects developed by practical instruction would acquire the confidence in themselves that came from achievement.

In his opinion, the schools had much to learn from the Boy Scout movement. The fundamental principle of that movement was that it appealed to the boys' natural instincts. It had exactly the same principle as that underlying the kindergarten system. It was just that linking of education with matters that appealed to the interest of the young person, which gave to vocational and technical education a really educational and cultural value.

Technical education, instead of being, as some people were inclined to think, an intruder into the field of education, was really exercising a vitalising influence throughout the whole range of educational activities. It was a natural development to meet the requirements of changing economic and industrial conditions. Experience made it more and more evident that technical education, which prepared an individual to earn a living and to contribute to the prosperity of the State by means of productive and constructive labour could also be the means of culture for his mind and development of his spirit.

SOCIAL CONSCIOUSNESS.

Northern Ireland's lack of social consciousness was criticised by Mr. Cecil Webb, Principal of the Lisburn Technical School, who, in a paper on "Social and Corporate Life in Technical Schools," urged the importance of education in that direction.

In explaining the need for the construction of a social consciousness, Mr. Webb expressed the opinion that the age of almost unrestricted individual enterprise had come to an end. While individual effort would be just necessary, individual success would be of a different order to that of the nineteenth century, and would be measured not in terms of the wealth which a man had acquired for himself, but by the contribution which he made to the well-being of the community. They ought to consider how far they could use their schools to develop in the general mass of the people a disposition to co-operate for the general welfare of the community. He believed the first steps must take the form of acquiring an abhorrence of the conduct of those who wantonly injure what was common property.

In Northern Ireland streets were littered with paper, banana skins, and other rubbish. People spat in public places, and thousands of pounds worth of wanton damage was done to railway carriages. Even in regard to the provision of facilities for games, he found that, in his own school, this want of care in the treatment of what was provided for common use was the greatest difficulty with which he had to deal. Nothing was so exasperating as to find that something which had been provided for all to use had been wantonly injured by some individual who was too stupid to realise the significance of the offence of which he was guilty.

Mr. Webb said that he thought the reason for this condition of affairs must be that Ireland never had a Communal System. The Irishman owed and gave faithful allegiance to his chief, but considered it right to destroy the property of any other.

THE SLAUGHTER OF ANIMALS.

PROVISIONS OF NEW BILL.

THE text of the bill for the humane slaughtering of animals, introduced in the Dail by Deputies Fahy, Barry, M. Egan and P. Hogan, provides that the slaughtering of animals shall be carried out only by persons duly licensed by a local authority, and by a mechanically-operated instrument, insuring instantaneous insensibility. Contravention of the law will render an individual liable to a fine of £10 for first conviction, and on second conviction £20 or three months' imprisonment.

Exemption is made in the case of persons licensed by the Jewish or Mohammedan communities for the slaughtering of animals for the food of Jews or Mohammedans, according to their individual methods, that no unnecessary suffering is inflicted.

Persons licensed must be over eighteen years of age, and must be certified as fit and proper persons to hold such licence.

THE RIGHT OF INSPECTION.

The Civic Guards, or officers of societies for the protection of animals authorised by the Local Government Department, may enter premises of slaughter-houses for the purpose of ascertaining whether the provisions of the Act are being complied with.

A schedule to the bill makes the following provisions:—

Every person engaged in driving or bringing any animals to the place of slaughter shall (a) avoid, so far as practicable, driving or bringing the animal over any ground which is likely to cause the animal to slip or fall; and (b) otherwise adopt such methods and precautions as will prevent the infliction upon the animal of unnecessary suffering and pain.

Every occupier of a slaughter-house or knacker's yard shall cause every animal brought to such slaughter-house or knacker's yard for the purpose of being slaughtered to be provided with a sufficient quantity of wholesome water, and when it is necessary to confine any such animal for a period exceeding 12 hours with a sufficient quantity of wholesome food.

THE INFLICTION OF PAIN.

The head of the animal shall be securely fastened, so as to enable it to be felled with as little pain as practicable.

A person shall not slaughter, or cause or suffer to be slaughtered, any animal, or cause or suffer its carcase to be dressed in the view of another animal.

A person shall not use any instrument for slaughtering or stunning any animal unless his ability and physical condition qualify him to use it without inflicting unnecessary pain on the animal; nor shall he use a mechanically operated instrument in such manner or in such circumstances or in such a state of want of repair as to incur the risk of causing unnecessary suffering to an animal.

An occupier of a slaughterhouse or knacker's yard shall not cause or allow any blood or other refuse to flow from such slaughterhouse or knacker's yard so as to be within the sight or (so far as it is practicable to avoid it) within the smell of any animal in the slaughterhouse or knacker's yard, and he shall not cause or allow any such blood or other refuse to be deposited in the waiting pens or lairs.

THE SEA GIVES UP ITS DEAD.

NEARLY 100 FROM THE ST. PHILIBERT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NANTES, Monday.

A MASS funeral, or series of funerals, will follow the sinking of the French excursion steamer Saint Philibert, which, according to the actual lists of names now published here, has claimed at least 465 victims.

The joint funeral ceremony is to be held in Nantes Cathedral, and will take place with the individual burials on Thursday, provided a sufficient number of bodies has by then been identified.

Meanwhile the sea is day by day giving up its dead, the recovered bodies now approaching the hundred mark. Most of them have been taken from the water by boats of all kinds, which have now been reinforced by seaplane searchers. They lie in the great harness-room of the tenth century Château of Nantes, which, overlooking the town where a day or two ago these people went about their daily business, has been converted into a Chapelle Ardente.

IN THE CHAPELLE ARDENTE.

Throughout this morning great crowds waited outside the castle gates as Army lorries deposited their pitiful burden, and the coffins were reverently borne into the castle. This afternoon relatives were permitted to enter the castle to identify the dead.

Inside the chapel, to the right on entering, was a row of closed coffins of plain white wood containing the identified dead. On the left, behind the barrier through which relatives were allowed to pass, a few at a time, was a much larger number of similar coffins with the lids turned back to reveal sixty other poor creatures.

On each coffin lid was a number and a few pieces of cloth snipped off the garments found on the corpse. It is, in fact, mainly by the clothing and ornaments that identification is possible. Women form the majority of those whose bodies have been found up to the present.

The local branch of a Paris firm alone had 110 employés among the steamer passengers, of whom thirty-five were Austrians. When the offices of the Nantes Co-operative Society opened yesterday only two out of the thirty-five employés were at their posts, the rest having gone down with the St. Philibert.

There are no British dead in the list of victims' names issued to-day.

'PLANES SIGHT 100 BODIES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ST. NAZAIRE, Tuesday.

The body of Captain Olive, the commander of the St. Philibert, was, with that of another victim, this afternoon washed up on the beach at Pornichet.

Seaplane observers report having sighted over a hundred bodies beneath the water, scattered over a large area.

After spending all the morning and most of the afternoon cruising off the spot where the steamer is believed to have sunk, the Government fishing vessel Pol Leferme has returned to port, and reports that attempts to locate the wreck have failed.

COST OF LIVING INDEX FIGURE.

EFFECT ON CIVIL SERVICE.

AS announced in the Irish Times yesterday, the cost of living index figure at mid-May in the Irish Free State showed a drop of eight points since mid-February. The cost of living index figure for bonus purposes for civil servants will be 60 (over the basic figure 100) from the 1st July next as against the present figure of 70.

In practice this will mean, said Mr. Archie Herron, Secretary of the Civil Service Clerical Association, yesterday, a reduction of two-twenty-sixths of the bonus paid to civil servants. In terms of actual money it will mean a loss of £10 per annum to civil servants on a basic salary of £100 per annum.

There is considerable disappointment, he added, in Civil Service circles in consequence of the vote on the resolution tabled in the Dail for a Civil Service inquiry, more particularly as it is known that quite a number of members of the Government Party who voted against the resolution were in favour of an inquiry taking place, and some of them actually spoke in favour of the resolution.

On more than one occasion, said Mr. Herron, the Minister for Finance has deprecated the entry of the Civil Service into party politics, and it is very difficult to understand his action in making a party issue of a resolution which called for an inquiry into a matter that was purely of Civil Service interest.

METHOD OF COMPUTATION.

There are two aspects of the bonus question. The first is that it is claimed that the present method of computation does not result in the scientifically accurate measurement of the cost of living as affecting civil servants' cost of living. It has been pointed out that in the matter of rent the figure is definitely faulty. Very large numbers of civil servants are now living in new houses for which they are paying a purchasing rent in repayment of long term loans. The official figure has no relation to matters of this kind, as it only takes into account the rents of houses which are subject to the provisions of the Rent Restriction Acts.

In the case of unmarried civil servants in "lodgings" the same faultiness in the index figure is evident. Dublin landladies do not fix their charges in accordance with the rise and fall in the index figure.

When it is taken into account that these two items are probably the largest single items of expenditure in the case of married and single civil servants it will be seen that the cost of living figure operates unjustly.

Then, so far as the application of the bonus is concerned, it only operates in full on the first £91 5s. per annum of Civil Service salaries. Above that figure only partial compensation is paid under the original computation of the bonus, so that civil servants were never compensated in full for the increased cost of living, and in consequence the bonus constitutes a greater proportion of income in the case of the lower paid people, who are now hit hardest by the periodic reductions which have become a feature of the bonus system as at present applied.

Having regard to the fact that in the recent debate in the Dail not a single member of any party, with the exception of the Minister himself, expressed approval of the system, it is an extraordinary thing that the demand of the Civil Service for an inquiry has not been conceded.

So far as the Civil Service Organisations are concerned, the matter will not be permitted to rest where it is, concluded Mr. Herron. Steps are being taken to press the Minister to agree to staying his hand on the matter pending further consideration. A public meeting of protest is being organised and all Civil Service Organisations are being invited to co-operate.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

COMING WEEK'S FUNCTIONS.

THE BANK OF IRELAND'S GIFT.

AT a special meeting of the Council of the Royal Dublin Society on Monday last, at which the President, Professor John Joly, F.R.S., F.T.C.D., presided, it was announced that the Society's bankers (the Bank of Ireland) had presented a most interesting model of the bank's headquarters, the old Parliament House in College Green, for permanent display at Ballsbridge. The Council accepted this gift with particular pleasure, as the old Parliament House was associated with many of the Society's earliest activities, including the first exhibition known, which was arranged by the Society within the vaults of the Parliament House.

The best thanks of the Council were heartily accorded to the Bank of Ireland for their gift.

Dr. T. J. Nolan was unanimously appointed a member of the Science Section of the Council to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Professor Hugh Ryan, D.Sc.

Mr. Morris Harding, St. Brigid's Studio, Belfast, was appointed as a judge on behalf of the Society of works to be submitted for next year's Taylor Art Scholarships and Prizes.

THE LATE DR. STEVENSON.

A very beautiful painting of the late Dr. Walter G. Stevenson, who, since the inception of the Society's Radium Institute eighteen years ago, played a most important part, and is acknowledged to be the pioneer of radium therapy, was on view in the Council Chamber. The painting is the last work of the late Walter Osborne, and was much admired by the members of the Council present.

Dr. Joly asked the Council to accept this work of art from him in token of the high esteem in which he held Dr. Stevenson, his most loyal colleague in the work of the Society's Radium Institute.

Viscount Powerscourt thereupon moved that the best thanks of the Council be tendered for a much appreciated gift. This was seconded by Sir Edward Coey Bigger, and unanimously adopted.

Mr. Henry H. Balch, the American Consul-General, and Commandatore Piero Toni, Royal Italian Consul-General, were appointed honorary members of the Society during their term of office in Dublin. It was also unanimously agreed that the distinguished guests of the Society who are participating in its Bi-Centenary Celebrations should be invited to accept honorary membership during the period of its functions.

NEXT WEEK'S CELEBRATIONS.

The President announced that, after very careful consideration of the onorous and exacting duties on his part associated with next week's celebrations, he had asked both Viscount and Viscountess Powerscourt to favour him by their assistance in the reception of the Society's guests and the Presidential duties connected therewith, and he had great pleasure in announcing that both Lord and Lady Powerscourt had most graciously agreed to comply with his request.

The Council meeting was followed by a combined meeting of the Council, Recorders and Stewards, at which there was an attendance of over fifty members. At the desire of the President the Director outlined in detail the various functions of the bi-centenary week.

It was announced that the Governor-General and Mrs. McNeill had graciously intimated their desire to participate in all the functions, including those arranged for the public generally. This announcement was received with great pleasure. The meeting then dealt fully with the many details of the various events.

The Director announced that the attendance at the Period Ball would exceed 1,500, and it was anticipated that both the conversazione and the Society's Garden Party would each have an attendance of over 4,500 members and guests. The public garden fête on Saturday is receiving particular attention at the hands of a special committee to ensure that the many who support the Society's events throughout the year may have an opportunity of participating in this memorable week.

The museum of specimens embracing the work of the Society over two centuries of time is now nearing completion and will prove of extraordinary interest to visitors. In like manner the railway companies have intimated their intention to send forward rolling stock to the Society's siding this coming week-end to ensure that all will be in order for the opening of the festivities on Tuesday. Several specimens of the oldest type of rolling stock will be brought over the railway system on Sunday, great care being necessary in the transport of these very old locomotives and vehicles, which can only move at a very moderate speed.

THE POPULAR BALL.

The series of functions will conclude on Monday evening, June 29th, by the Popular Ball, which is being introduced to enable those who cannot participate in the Period Ball to enjoy, in a popular manner, the amenities of the occasion, and the special groups at the Period Ball are being invited to participate in their period costumes at this ball, and as the Governor-General and Mrs. McNeill especially desire to be present, the ceremonials of the Period Ball will be carried through in a fitting manner on this evening to bring to a conclusion a memorable series of events.

The official handbook of the week is now in course of preparation, and will be on sale on Monday next. It will contain the full six days' programme, the names of the distinguished guests, the list of contributors to the various collections (scientific, art, and industries) which have been gathered together, and also a complete catalogue of the museum. The handbook will consist of over 150 printed pages.

THE LORD MAYOR AND THE CHILDREN.

A children's party and entertainment was provided yesterday afternoon at the Mansion House, Dublin, by the Lord Mayor (Senator Alfred Byrne) and the Lady Mayoress. Over two thousand children, pupils of St. Laurence O'Toole's Schools, Seville place, and St. Joseph's Schools, East Wall, were entertained. The little guests were brought from the schools to the Mansion House in special Tramways Company omnibuses, and were welcomed by the Lord Mayor and a willing band of helpers.

In the Round Room there were dancing displays, and gramaphone and radio recitals were provided by Messrs. O'Hanrahan. The St. James's Band played a selection, and the children indulged in conducted community singing.

On the lawn the Artane band gave a recital, and there was a gymnastic display.

The organising committee included Mrs. Cosgrave, wife of President Cosgrave; Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Mrs. G. P. Cussen, Mrs. Blythe, Mrs. McGilligan, and the wives of other Ministers.

President Cosgrave and his two sons called during the afternoon, whereupon the children assembled and sang the "Soldier's Song," accompanied by the Artane Band.

The children afterwards were taken into the Mansion House to tea, and at six o'clock special buses arrived to take them back to the schools. Each child on leaving the Mansion House was presented with a box of chocolate and a bag of sweets and fruit.

THE KINSTOWN STATUE.

Mr. J. M. Devitt (Chairman of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Council) presided last night in the Town Hall at a meeting of the committee appointed to promote the erection of the statue to Christ, the King, on the Kingstown Wharf.

It was decided to launch a general appeal for funds for the project, and that negotiations should be opened for the acquisition of the site on the foreshore.

The question of the design of the monument was also under consideration.

COUNTY CORK MURDER CHARGE.

ACCUSED WOMAN GIVES EVIDENCE.

WHY THE POISON WAS BOUGHT.

BEFORE Mr. Justice Hanna and a jury at the Central Criminal Court, Dublin, yesterday, the hearing was resumed of the trial of Mrs. Bridget Walsh (33), of Meelin, Newmarket, County Cork, on a charge of having murdered her husband, Michael Walsh (56) by administering strychnine to him on May 6th last.

Mr. T. A. Finlay, K.C., T.D., and Mr. Joseph Healy (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted for the State. Mr. R. A. Harrison (instructed by Mr. P. D. O'Grady, solicitor) defended.

THE CAUSE OF DEATH.

At the sitting of the Court, Dr. Collins, Kanturk, who made a post-mortem examination of the body of Michael Walsh, said that death was due to strychnine poisoning.

Replying to Mr. Justice Hanna, the witness said that there was no cirrhosis of the liver, or any indication that Walsh was a hard drinker.

Answering Mr. Harrison, Dr. Collins said that if a man took a large dose of strychnine, and his stomach was not washed out for about three hours, as happened in the case of Walsh, he would expect that death would have taken place sooner than it did in his case.

Detective-Officer McKenna stated that on the 9th of May he followed the prisoner from the hotel in which she was staying in Kanturk to the mortuary attached to the hospital where her husband's remains lay. There were several persons there, and the accused woman said: "I am innocent, thanks be to God." When the funeral started, all the people in the mortuary left with it, except the accused, who said to witness: "I am not going to the funeral, sir. I am going down the town." She then went to her lodgings. The witness searched the house of William Frawley, and found there letters addressed to him, and signed "Bridget Connell."

William Frawley was recalled, and said that he only remembered getting two letters. He was no scholar, and could not read. A friend of his, named O'Brien, read the letters for him.

Answering Mr. Justice Hanna, he said that he was thirty-five years of age. He was handed a Christmas card with the inscription "From Bridget to Bill, with love," but said that he had no recollection of receiving it, but if it was found in the house he must have got it some time.

HANDWRITING EXPERT.

Captain Quirke, handwriting expert, said that he had examined the letter written by the prisoner to her sister, and the letter purporting to be signed by David Walsh, Rathanny, asking the chemist for the poison, and the signature in the poison book, and, in his opinion, they were written by the same person. The letters found in Frawley's house were also written by the same person.

Sergeant Reynolds gave evidence of conveying a number of articles from Kanturk to the State Chemist in Dublin. These included wearing apparel belonging to the prisoner; the pipe of Michael Walsh, his organs, a drinking glass, and a bottle containing a teaspoonful of lemonade.

Mr. O'Toole, M.Sc., analyst in the State Laboratory, College of Science, said that he received the articles enumerated from Sergeant Reynolds, as well as two full bottles of lemonade. He analysed some crystals which were found in the glass, and found them to be strychnine. In the left pocket of the prisoner's coat he found one-third of a grain of strychnine, visible to the naked eye. On examining the organs of the deceased man he found a total of 43-54ths of a grain of strychnine. The sort of lemonade which he found in the bottle would favour the dissolution of strychnine. Half a grain of strychnine would be a fatal dose.

STATEMENT TO THE POLICE.

Superintendent O'Sullivan, Kanturk, produced a statement which he took from the prisoner.

Mr. Finlay, K.C., read this lengthy statement, in which the prisoner referred to her unhappy married life, and explained her movements on the 6th of May. The statement described how she had been arguing with her husband in Brown's laneway, and went on to say that her husband and herself then went to the village of Meelin, where she bought a bottle of lemonade from Mrs. Conway. She drank most of the lemonade, and gave some of it to her husband. He handed back the glass with the remark, "Drink it yourself." She threw the stuff out of the glass and handed it back to Mrs. Conway. They then parted, and she went to the house of Jerh. Walsh, where she stayed the night, and her husband went back to Brown's house. Next morning Jerh. Walsh said that her husband was dead, adding that he had heard he had been poisoned. She did not say anything, as "I was too sorry that he had been done away with."

The case for the prosecution closed.

The prisoner then entered the witness-box and gave evidence. She said that her married life was unhappy, and her husband left her, and she had to go to work to earn her living. Her husband was away from her for seven years, and she had to support her child. In December last she advertised for her husband, and in January she got a message telling her that her husband wished to meet her. She went to Kanturk and met her husband, who, she thought, was glad to meet her.

Mr. Harrison—Were you pleased to meet him?—I was, sure.

Continuing, the prisoner said that they stayed at Jones's Hotel from January 4th to the 7th. They then went to a place called Clash, where her husband got a job as workman. They remained there until the end of March. On the 4th of April her husband and herself went to O'Callaghan's, where they remained until the end of April. The witness went to her sister, Mary Brosnan, and her husband went to Brown's to work.

On the last Tuesday in April her husband told her to get some poison for rats. She told him that she would not, that he could get it himself, and he told her to be sure and get it and send it to him. She stayed with her sister until 2nd May, when she went to Kilmallock, looking for a place. She failed to get work. On the 6th of May she went in to Horgan's for poison to poison dogs. She wrote the note and handed it to the chemist, because her husband had asked her to get poison for the rats, and that was the only way that she could get it. The chemist did not ask her what kind of poison she wanted. He put it in a small parcel and wrapped it in white paper, and she signed the poison book. She signed the latter: "David Walsh, per Bridget Murphy." The reason she did that was that she did not like David Walsh to know that she had used his name.

JUDGE'S QUESTIONS.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Why did you forge the name of David Walsh to the document?

The witness did not reply.

She put the bottle which she received from the chemist in her right-hand coat pocket.

Mr. Justice Hanna—What time of the day did you buy the poison?—About four o'clock.

Is it incorrect for Mr. Horgan to say that you bought it between 11.30 and 12?—I was hardly out of bed at that time.

Continuing, the prisoner said that on the evening of 6th May she went to Jeremiah Brown's house, where her husband was working, and called him out. They went towards Meelin, and she asked her husband why he did not stay at Callaghan's, and he replied that he would rather hang himself than stay there. She asked him about his previous week's wages, and he said that he had drank them. They were on bad terms and quarrelled on the way to Meelin.

Mr. Harrison—Did you give your husband the message you had for him?—Yes; I gave it to him in Brown's yard.

Mr. Justice Hanna—At what stage did you give your husband the bottle?—Before we left the yard.

A BOTTLE OF LEMONADE.

The witness went on to say that when they came to Quinlan's public-house she bought a bottle of lemonade. Her husband was standing quite close to her and to Mrs. Conway while the latter was pouring the lemonade into the glass. From the time that she moved towards her husband with the glass until she gave it to him she had nothing in her hand but the glass. She did not interfere with the drink in any way. Her husband might have had the glass in his hand for five minutes. When he handed it back to her there was a little drop in it. He then lit his pipe and they walked up the road together. They parted about fifteen minutes later, and she never saw her husband alive again. Next morning she went to Newmarket with Mrs. Walsh, her sister-in-law. A man said: "Your husband is dead," and she said: "I can't understand it, because I saw him last night." They went down the street to a public-house, where they met her husband's brother. Mrs. Walsh asked him did he hear that his brother was dead, and he said: "Yes; Jeremiah Brown said that his wife poisoned him last night in lemonade." The witness said: "I did no such thing."

In reply to Mr. Harrison, the witness said that on three or four occasions her husband told her that he would sooner do away with himself than live with her.

Mr. Harrison—Had you any hand, act, or part in your husband's death?

Witness (emphatically)—Nothing whatsoever.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION.

In cross-examination by Mr. Finlay, Mrs. Walsh admitted that, while she was employed at Brown's, she posed as a single woman. While her relations with Frawley were friendly, they were not lovers. She sometimes went for a walk with Frawley in the evenings. There was no love in it at all. It was a sort of pastime for her.

Mr. Finlay then read two letters from Mrs. Walsh to Frawley, in one of which there were crosses, which she described as "Kisses for Christmas," but she replied that there was no love between them at all.

Mr. Finlay—Do you suggest that your husband asked you to get poison for him to lay for rats when you were on such strained terms?—He certainly did. He said that he was pestered with rats, and that they haunted him everywhere that he went.

Did he give you the money for the poison?—Yes.

Answering further questions, the prisoner said that the superintendent told her in the barrack that she put poison in the glass, and she said that it was not true. She never bought poison before.

Mr. Finlay—And how did you know that a chemist would not give you poison unless you gave him the authority of some responsible person?—My husband told me to get it in somebody's name.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Are you quite sure it was your husband who told you?—Yes, sir. Quite sure?—Yes.

Replying to further questions by Mr. Finlay, the prisoner said that when she got the poison from the chemist she put it in the right-hand pocket of her overcoat. She could not explain how strychnine was found in the left-hand pocket of her coat. Often when she could not finish a bottle of lemonade she threw it into her husband's porter, and he drank it.

Mr. Finlay—Did you ever say to anybody until you sat in that chair, that you had been asked by your husband to get poison for him to destroy rats?—I did not.

THE HUSBAND'S FUNERAL.

Why did you not go to your husband's funeral?—Because the detectives were after me.

You went to the mortuary to see the remains?—Yes.

And you did not go to the funeral?—I did not want the detectives after me on the road.

Mr. Harrison—Why did you pose as a single woman?—Because if it was known I was a married woman I would get no situation.

Mr. Justice Hanna—What made you think that you would require a letter to get poison?—My husband told me to get it in somebody's name.

What did your husband do when your gave him the poison?

Witness—He put it into his waistcoat pocket.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

NOTICE TO JURORS.

Jurors will not be required to attend at the Central Criminal Court, Green street, until to-morrow morning.

"WE MUST HAVE TARIFFS."

ENGLAND LOSING ITS MARKETS.

MR. BALDWIN'S MESSAGE TO ARDWICK.

MR. BALDWIN, in a letter to Mr. Sydney L. Elborne, Conservative candidate in the Ardwick by-election, states:—

"It is enough to make the people of our country despair to watch the Socialist Government wasting the time of Parliament with useless measures, such as that dealing with electoral reform, or vicious proposals such as land taxation, which must inevitably retard our industrial recovery, at a time when our industries, and the workers dependent upon them for a livelihood, are crying for a policy which will mean more work and wages for our own people.

GUARDING THE HOME MARKETS.

"It is futile to talk of the blessings of free trade when our country is sinking deeper and deeper into an industrial depression without parallel in its history, and when we are losing markets not only overseas, but also at home. The time has come when this state of affairs must be ended. This country has fought for the principle of universal free trade, but it has failed. Foreign countries, instead of following our example, have continued to build up heavy tariffs against us, and are now profiting by our defenceless position to dump whatever they like into our home market.

"We cannot afford to remain defenceless any longer. We must have tariffs to guard our home markets and give us bargaining power, so that we may be able to induce foreign countries to lower their tariffs against us, and to secure for ourselves a fair chance in the markets of the world."

All the keys and documents which were taken recently from the sequestered Catholic associations were to-day handed over by the police throughout Italy to the bishops of the respective districts. This measure, which is in strict accordance with the Pope's declaration that the Catholic Action Party would in future be dependent upon the bishops, follows immediately upon the Papal reply to the Italian Government, delivered yesterday, and is taken as an indication that further and more precise undertakings regarding the strictly religious scope of the party and the associations depending on it were given in the Pope's reply.

How I Got Rid Of 7 Painful Corns

"It was worth pounds to me to be rid of the pain."

These joyful, exhilarating footbaths will dissolve away the most obstinate corns, free you from hard skin on heels and toes, too. And your face and carriage will reflect your freedom. Read how Radox rid this lady of seven painful corns:—

"I have just finished my first 1/6 packet of Radox, having used it for five footbaths, which have quite cured seven bad corns (two very bad ones under my feet, then two in between two toes which were most painful, and three on small toes), so I must say, to get quite free of all that pain is worth pounds to me. Again, having been busy in the garden for two days, I was so very stiff and I felt tired out, but after a hot bath with Radox in I felt as fresh as ever and quite lost all that horrid stiffness, so am quite sure in saying I shall always be a user of Radox."
29th April, 1931. (Miss) A. K., Godalming.

Knives and burning acids only touch the top of a corn. They leave the root. To get at the root you have to get through the pores. It is the oxygen released by Radox which penetrates the pores. And it is this oxygen which carries the softening salts of Radox right to the root of the corn, so loosening it that after a few footbaths it comes right out with the assistance of your forefinger and thumb. Soreness, burning and itching go, too—your feet feel as healthy and buoyant as a ballet dancer's.

Get a Packet of Radox Bath Salts from your Chemist to-day, 1/6 per ½lb., pink packet, 2/6 double quantity.

BIG FALL IN EMIGRATION.

FROM 5,000 TO 500.

THE latest figures available, as published in the June number of the Irish Trade Journal, show that there was a considerable falling off in emigration for the first four months of this year compared with last year.

From January to April, 1931, there were 512 emigrants, compared with 5,824 for the corresponding period in 1930.

Of these 512 the United States took 284, Canada 61 and Australia 60, the remaining 107 going to other countries out of Europe.

The total number of emigrants to countries out of Europe in the year 1930 was 15,966, compared with 20,802 in 1929, 24,691 in 1928, 27,148 in 1927, and 30,180 in 1926.

There were 7,033 male emigrants last year and 8,933 female emigrants. Of the male emigrants, 4,600 were agricultural labourers, or labourers not in transport or communications. There were 471 emigrants in the skilled trades. Of the female emigrants, 5,826 were domestic, hotel, etc., servants, and 704 wives or housewives.

MORE IMMIGRANTS.

During the year 1930 there were 2,603 immigrants to the Free State from countries out of Europe, compared with 2,120 in 1929 and 2,154 in 1928.

WHAT IS A HANDICRAFT TAILORED SUIT?

The thinking man who values appearance wears a suit cut to his own individual measurements. In a Merchant Tailor's workroom this is moulded to shape by expert craftsmen who have served a long apprenticeship, and sewn by hand—not by machine.

This is the only system that can produce that set of neck and shoulders essential to a stylish garment—that perfect collar which gives a distinctive appearance—and those lines of body that impart the graceful contour so much desired by the well-dressed man.

Comfort, perfection of finish and fit, durability of shape and individuality, are the characteristics of the Handicraft Tailored suit—qualities which cannot be achieved by mass-production methods.—(Advt.)

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

FAVOURITES WIN AT ASCOT.

NOBLE STAR WINS BIG RACE.

HUNT CUP TO-DAY.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

PREDICTIONS that this would be a brilliant Ascot were well justified this afternoon. If the sky was a little cloudy it was fine and delightfully cool. This is something to be thankful for; for a sweltering Ascot is trying to the temper. But there was a cool breeze to-day—a little too cool, perhaps, for those attired in scanty chiffon.

If the volume of betting was light—it was the lightest ever known at Ascot, in the experience of one of the oldest and biggest bookmakers—the Royal enclosure made as brave a show as ever, and the scene when the Royal procession moved up the course was never more brilliant.

From a racing point of view the going could not have been improved on. Then there was the great attraction of the new totalisator—by far the largest ever installed in England, and the equal of that at Longchamp or any other racecourse in the world. It may be said to have worked with a smoothness that reflects the greatest credit on those responsible for its construction and organisation. Everything went like clockwork, and the only complaint I heard about it was that in some cases the prices were not so good as those returned by the bookmakers.

FAVOURITES OBLIGING.

Favourites were fairly obliging, and the selections for the day given here especially so, only Son of Mint in the Ascot Stakes creating a deficit. The Ascot Stakes was won by Noble Star, a four-year-old son of Hapsburg, whom Mr. Frank Cundell, the Swindon veterinary surgeon, bought privately last back-end from Mr. H. P. Nickalls, who had fancied him for the Derby.

Noble Star, ridden by Fox, won by three parts of a length and half-a-length from Blue Vision, a stable companion of Brown Jack and Bonny Boy II. The last-named may have been a very unlucky horse; for, coming into the straight, he was in a seemingly hopeless position, yet he worked his way through, and was flying through them at the finish.

The Bastard was the first to show in front, but he soon gave place to Covenden, who led the field into the straight, soon to give place to Blue Vision. Inside the distance Mr. Montague Evans's filly was challenged by Noble Star, who stayed on the better. Old Castlederg was fourth, and Little Blackbird was fifth.

Son of Mint, who started favourite, was pulled back last, and came into the straight on a wide outside. He was well beaten a quarter of a mile from home. Brown Jack could never extricate himself from the middle of the field and never could get in his long run.

LORD GLANELY'S SUCCESS.

Lord Glanely won the first race of the day, the Queen Anne Stakes, with Coldstream, who only beat Osiris by a short head, with Knoloma, a 20 to 1 chance, who made a slow beginning, third. This is the race which we all expected the Irish colt, Ballyferris, to win last year, when he met a Tartar in The Recorder, to whom he was giving 17lb.

Ballyferris has been turned out of training, and Mr. Tuthill tells me that he has just gone back to Ireland to go to the stud, where he has been put in at a fee of 49 guineas. It was unfortunate that this really good horse, of whom his English trainer, Sam Darling, thought so highly, never, on account of training troubles, came into his own in England.

The Gold Vase was easily won by the Aga Khan's three-year-old, Pomme d'Api, a son of the Irish Derby winner, Zionist, who easily beat the French four-year-old, Amfortas. The latter destroyed his chance by swerving all the way up the straight, but Pomme d'Api always had the foot of him. There were only the two in the race; all the others were outclassed. The winner is a good stayer, who may trouble the French horses when he runs for the Grand Prix.

The Derby form worked out well during the day, for the American-bred Sir Andrew, by Sir Galahad, whom Captain Boyd-Rochfort trains for Mr. Woodward, President of the New York Jockey Club, won the Prince of Wales's Stakes by three-parts of a length from Creme Brulee, whom he challenged in the straight, and Armagnac. This colt is a good stayer.

Then there was the Derby winner himself, Cameronian, who won the St. James's Palace Stakes in smashing style. Portlaw was in the field, and his presence caused Cameronian to be easy in the market. Truculent set a real good pace from Cameronian, and Portlaw ranged up to the Derby winner in the straight; but Mr. Dewar's brilliant colt left them standing still, drawing away with the greatest ease to win in literally a canter.

The two-year-old races were very interesting. The first was the Coventry Stakes, which brought out an unusually small field—only eight runners—and Lord Woolavington's Cockpen, trained by F. Darling, won it by a length and a half and three-parts from Hardy and Tohunga; the failure of the well-backed Dastur being most marked. I wrote at length about Cockpen, a son of Buchan and Margaritta, when he won at Newbury last week, and he entirely confirmed the very good impression he made there. Hardy, who was bred by Mr. Peter Fitzgerald, stuck well to him, and ran a good race, but Cockpen is probably the best two-year-old we have seen so far.

There was a field of twenty-seven for the Queen Mary Stakes, and Pyrene was drawn on the extreme outside, as was Tarte Maison, who was so much fancied. Winalone got a flyer, and was followed by Orta, who looked like a winner when Wragg on Diamalt came swooping down to beat her by three-parts of a length, with Major McCalmont's Nebular a head away, third.

This winner, who started at 100 to 9, is a rare, good-looking filly by Diomedes, out of Zarade by The Tetrarch, and was bred by Captain R. B. Brassey in Ireland, and sold as a yearling for 900 guineas to Holland, who trains her for Mrs. V. D. Sainsbury.

SELECTIONS.

I confess to being a little puzzled by to-morrow's race for the Royal Hunt Cup, which looks very open. I do not care a great deal for the chance of Artist's Proof, who did not finish too generously when he beat Alcester, who now has an advantage of a stone for the head that separated them. Alcester will run well, but may find the course too short and too sharp for him. Grand Salute has been backed to win a big stake, and his chance must be respected. I like a good deal the chance of Fleeting Memory, who keeps on doing it, though on the running in this race last year Lion Hearted has the beating of him, if he would only do it. I believe that Caballero, unlucky horse that he has been, will go very near winning this time; but the best selection I can offer is FLEETING MEMORY, who should be backed each way, and may be followed by Grand Salute and Caballero.

Although FOUR COURSE has to give weight away, I take her to be the best in the Coronation Stakes.

The King Edward VII. Stakes may be won by SANDWICH, although he had a hard race in the Derby.

TRUNCHEON will have stronger jockeyship in the Bessborough Stakes than he had in the Newbury Cup, and may win, though Buoyant Bachelor is well fancied.

In the Churchill Stakes I choose the Coronation Cup winner, PARENTHESIS, who misses the Gold Cup for this.

With Portlaw likely to be absent from the Fern Hill Stakes the race looks to me a good thing for LEMNARCHUS.

GALTEE MORE.

AT ASCOT TO-DAY.

ARTIST'S PROOF FOR THE HUNT CUP.

ROYAL Hunt Cup Day is always the most popular day of the Ascot meeting, and is equivalent to the Derby Day at Epsom. As in the Derby, the favourite will come from Beckhampton, and F. Darling hopes to add this very valuable prize to his already large total with Artist's Proof, who runs for him instead of The Macnab and The Recorder. He was successful last year in this event with The Macnab, and his prospects of completing the double are far from remote.

Artist's Proof has been a very difficult colt to train, and it is possible that, although he is a five-year-old, we have not yet seen him at his best. Certainly he looked better than usual when he beat Alcester at Newmarket, and I learn that the Beckhampton trainer has worked wonders with him since. In a trial gallop last week he beat The Macnab with consummate ease, and it is obvious that whatever wins this race will have Mr. H. E. Morris's colt to beat.

Alcester, strictly on Newmarket running, should beat Artist's Proof; for he receives 1st. for a head beating. This liberal allowance, however, will probably be offset by the fact that not only was the winner far from his best, but also he was meeting Alcester over his favourite distance. Alcester has never yet run in a race shorter than a mile. As a two-year-old he had one race which was over a mile, while in his second season it was thought that staying would be his forte. Thus he was run in mile and a half races, and in West Wicklow's Cesarewitch Alcester figured among the "alsos."

Last year he ran over a mile or a mile and a quarter, and so this race will be really his first attempt to win among sprinters. Nevertheless, Newmarket opinion is emphatically in his favour, and some good judges regard him as a good thing. In face of this it is impossible to overlook him, and I expect him to show up well.

Racedale's preparation was interfered with last week, and he may be short of a gallop, while I hear reports of coughing in Hogg's stable, which is detrimental to the prospects of Grand Salute. I have been told not to ignore Moyresque's chance, and though I cannot recollect seeing Lawson's representative run over seven furlongs, I am quite prepared to believe that he will be smart over the distance.

There appears to be some doubt whether Diolite will run, but if Templeman decides to give this son of Needle Rock a chance he will not be easily beaten. It is my opinion that Diolite will make a first-class performer in seven-furlong company, and his performance in the Victoria Cup, where he was beaten two lengths by Fleeting Memory, to some extent justifies that opinion. He meets Fleeting Memory on better terms this time, and if he escapes the bad luck that interfered with his chance at Hurst Park he will be had to beat.

Tel-Asur and Gay Lord are worthy of a favourable note, especially the latter, who should win a good middle-distance race. Caballero, an unlucky customer, has been placed on a handy mark by the handicapper, and should not be overlooked, but I have no fancy for O'Curry, who is an unreliable animal.

Pommame has accepted for the race in preference to the Ascot Stakes, and he beat The Masher in last year's Free Handicap. The Masher is a much-improved horse, but I shall make

LONDON BETTING.

GRAND SALUTE WELL BACKED.

There was a fair amount of wagering at the Victoria Club call-over on the Royal Hunt Cup, for which Grand Salute closed a strong favourite at 95 to 20, having been backed to win £4,000 at rates varying from small sixes to 5 to 1. Artist's Proof eased to 100 to 12, and bets of £1,750 to £100, and £1,775 to £100 (three times) were noted. Fleeting Memory was supported at £950 to £100 (three times), leaving 9 to 1 the best offer. Alcester was quiet but firm at 10 to 1. Of the remainder, O'Curry, Tel Asur and Caballero were in most request at their quoted rates.

95 to 20 Grand Salute (o., 5 to 1 t.).
100 to 12 Artist's Proof (t. and o.).
9 to 1 Fleeting Memory (o., 19 to 2 t.).
10 to 1 Alcester (t. and o.).
18 to 1 Diolite (o., 20 to 1 t.).
18 to 1 Lion Hearted (o., 20 to 1 t.).

IRISH SWEEP WINNER BUYS A FILLY.

CAPETOWN, Tuesday.

Nine high-class English thoroughbreds, including the 1928 Lincolnshire winner, Dark Warrior, the property of the late Mr. Solly Joel, fetched 1,145 guineas at an auction here this morning.

The surprise of the sale came at the end, when there was fast and furious competition for an unnamed two-year-old chestnut filly by Haine out of Belinda, which was finally knocked down to George Dyamond, the Irish Grand National Sweep winner, for 410 guineas. Though Dyamond has always been keenly interested in racing this represents his first venture into ownership.

HEAVY GOING AT ROSCOMMON.

BACKERS OUT OF LUCK.

After the heavy rainfalls in the district on Monday it was very gratifying to find the weather turn out bright and fine for the annual meeting at Roscommon, and there was a very fair attendance. While the weather remained fine, the going, in consequence of the deluge of the night before, rode very deep, and on parts of the course the horses galloped through pools of water, which doubtless accounted for the many surprising results.

Although only three runners turned out for the Traders' Hurdle race it was an open affair, all three being supported in the wagering. Fears were entertained that Bem would not act on the soft ground, but the daughter of Silvern was always travelling best, and when she tackled The Tavern Knight at the last hurdle she quickly settled the pretensions of Mr. Fitzgerald's horse.

Culnagor, the favourite for the Athlone Steeplechase, gave a disappointing display, and was one of the first beaten. The finish was fought out between two outsiders, Garryshane and Banagher, the former winning by a length. On returning to scale Mr. P. J. Leonard, the rider of Banagher, lodged an objection on the grounds of boring at the last turn, but this was overruled.

Kilcash Hill being reserved for the Roscommon Plate, the only opponent of Ho Fang in the Castlerea Steeplechase was Cala, and the odds laid on Mr. J. G. Fitzgerald's horse were never in doubt.

Mr. Fred Clarke met with some compensation for the failure of Sweet as Honey at the recent Sligo meeting when the son of Werwolf came home the easiest of winners of the Harrison Plate, defeating the odds-on favourite, Golden Patriot, in hollow style.

Mr. Clarke, riding Elsworth in the next race, effected an even bigger upset by beating Kilcash Hill, the mount of Joe Canty. The win was looked upon as a certainty for Lady Helen McCalmont's horse, but Elsworth was in front all the way, and when joined in the straight resolutely refused to give way. Mr. Clarke, riding a particularly good finish, got him home a length and a half in front.

The luck of backers was out right up to the end, when, in a field of seven runners for the Irish National Hunt Plate, the outsider of the party, Ballygortha, scored.

Paddington Not Coughing.

There is no truth in the rumour that Paddington has been coughing. The colt, who is reported to be very smart, will meet his engagement in the New Stakes on Thursday.

NOTES FROM NEWMARKET.

ROI DES AULNES FANCIED FOR HARDWICKE STAKES.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.
NEWMARKET, Tuesday.

It was none too pleasant in the early hours this morning, as it was dull and cold, and with most of the trainers away at Ascot, training operations were not very brisk. Darling's Ascot Gold Cup charge, Brumeux (Ward), in company with Ramon and Dick Bush (Southey), had a fast six furlongs' spin. Brumeux is regarded as a better horse on a racecourse than at home, and condition, at least, will not be responsible if he fails in Thursday's big race.

Day was at home, and gave Roi des Aulnes, with Buckshot (Archibald), a good stripped two miles' gallop. I am afraid, however, that Roi des Aulnes has taken a dislike to racing. D. Waugh stripped Rose en Soleil and subjected him to a good stripped mile and a half spin. Cassius brought him along the first six furlongs, and Moly the last six. Rose en Soleil is due to run for the Hardwicke Stakes on Friday, run over the distance of this morning's spin. Lord Howard de Walden's colt is considered to hold a winning chance.

Fred Butters gave his Northumberland Plate charge, Timber, a good mile and a quarter spin with Prince Velour, and, all going well with him, he is not at all unlikely to secure place honours. Hogg's Wokingham Stakes candidate, Lansdowne, went well in a good six furlongs' spin with Thermopylae before leaving for Ascot.

RACEDALE'S FORM.

Racedale, who bruised his foot last Friday, galloped sharply five furlongs. He moved quite freely, and he will have many followers in the Royal Hunt Cup. His idleness, following his mishap, will do him more good than harm, as he does well on a light preparation, but I cannot see my way clear to fancy him to beat Fleeting Memory at 2lb. In last year's race Earl's charge struck off slowly, and then ran a creditable fourth. His spin on Saturday over a mile was an exemplary performance, as he put paid to those useful sprinters Mellin and Polveraja in the first five furlongs, and his trainer joined in on his hunter and assisted him the remainder of the distance. He won the Victoria Cup very comfortably, with the Lincolnshire winner, Knight Error, who carried a 14lb. penalty, fifth. If Captain Stanley Wilson's horse had had a clear course he should at least have finished in the first three, and I shall expect to see him run well on this occasion. Indeed, I expect him to beat Ghost Train, Blandearna and Peace Pact. The last-named, incidentally, is working herself into form and will win a nice race shortly.

The weight of money for Grand Salute suggests he has come along by leaps and bounds since he ran at York. The only race he has won was on the Ascot track last year, when he beat Rear Admiral for the Waterford Stakes, but might not have won that race if Rear Admiral had not been left at the post. I shall look for a good race between Fleeting Memory and

and in taking sides with the latter I recommend Earl's charge as a saver. In the Coronation Stakes we have Kinswoman and running, and as the latter ran well in the Oaks Stakes she should win. Our best for the Chesham Stakes are Wellington, Wyvern and

and I shall again follow the last-named, but Wyvern, a son of Coronach and Salamandra, who has done well since he ran here, will give him a hard race.

SANDWICH,

regarded as unlucky in the Derby, is better than Apperley for the King Edward VII. Stakes, and should win. Sol de Terre disappointed in the Manchester Cup, and in the Bessborough Stakes I prefer the chance of Buoyant Bachelor, who has done well in recent gallops. Servus, British Sailor, Rinmaher and Gashmu should run well, but I shall rely upon FLANGE.

River King has to give weight to our other runners for the Churchill Stakes. Buller has done well in his gallops and ran well here for the Burwell Stakes. Collingham is fancied, but I am inclined to the chance of

BULLER

Homer has been put to sprinting and will be seen out for the Fern Hill Stakes, and should beat Twelfth Knight. Garter Queen did not run up to expectations at Beverley, and my vote goes to who ran fast for about six furlongs in the One Thousand Guineas.

The start was an excellent one, the line breaking even. The Bastard, on the far rails, raced away from Blue Vision, Little Blackbird, Castlederg, Boldero, Noble Star, Covenden, Summer Princess and Insurance, Son of Mint being the whipper-in. Covenden went to the front at the turn out of the straight, followed by The Bastard, this pair being clear of a group comprised of Little Blackbird, Castlederg, Boldero, Earn Hill, Blue Vision, Arctic Star, Noble Star, Brown Jack, and Delate. In Swinley Bottom, about a mile and a quarter from the post, Covenden was clear of Earn Hill, and then came The Bastard, Boldero, Blue Vision, Castlederg and Delate. Arctic Star moved up about six furlongs on, but dropped away again, and Covenden entered the straight, pursued by Little Blackbird, Blue Vision, Noble Star, Duke of Wellington II., Castlederg and Son of Mint. Covenden weakened half-way up the hill, where Blue Vision took the lead, pressed by Noble Star, Bonny Boy II., Covenden, Little Blackbird and Castlederg. In a rousing finish, Noble Star gained the mastery over Blue Vision close home and won by three-quarters of a length; half a length separated second and third. Castlederg was fourth, Little Blackbird fifth, Covenden sixth, Boldero seventh, Joyous Greeting eighth, Duke of Wellington II. ninth, Son of Mint tenth, Brown Jack eleventh and Summer Princess last. SPORTING GOSSIP.

Tarte Maison's Fractiousness.

Tarte Maison, one of the competitors for the Queen Mary Stakes at Ascot yesterday, was very unruly at the starting post and kicked both Safe Return and Orta, the first and second favourites. She was then held behind, but at the start she refused to move and took no part in the race. Pyrene also behaved badly and lost a lot of ground at the start.

Closing of Entries.

Owners and trainers should note that entries close to-day for all races at Galway (including the Galway Plate), Naas, Limerick and Longford meetings, and for the Marathon Plate at Baldoyle.

Ascot's Super-Totalisator.

The Ascot totalisator, the largest electric tote in the world, which has cost between £200,000 and £250,000, and which employs a staff of six hundred people, survived its very searching test yesterday afternoon, and easily broke the record turnover for totalisator betting in England. The total turnover of the machine was £44,803 18s., which beats the previous record turnover of £40,027 2s. at Newmarket on Cambridgeshire day last year by £3,776 16s.

HAROLD'S CROSS RESULTS.

WEXFORD DOG TAKES CHIEF EVENT.

The first heat of the Open Sweepstake was the chief event on the card last night at Harold's Cross Park, and provided a very interesting contest. The Wexford Dog, West Light, proved to be the winner, beating the favourite, On the Record, by a length, after a great race up the straight.

The recent Shelbourne Park winner, Gaulsmill Again, put up a splendid performance in the Munster Plate. Though getting none too well away, the son of Gaulsmill quickly came to the front, and passed the line a clear six lengths to the good.

RYLAND R. BEATS MICK THE MILLER.

Mick the Miller, erstwhile favourite for the Greyhound Derby, suffered defeat again last night in the second round heats, though in running second to Ryland R. he still goes on to the semi-finals, as does Brunswick Bill, the favourite for the heat. In defeating him, Ryland R. gave, by far, the best performance of his career, and, moreover, in clocking 29.69 secs. set up a time record for the track, which easily beats the previous one of 29.90 secs., held by Deemster. Brunswick Bill was first away, as usual, but Ryland R. suddenly put on a wonderful spurt on the first bend that took him into a six lengths lead. At half-way he held it so easily that there was hardly any doubt about his victory. Mick the Miller, who had not been in the first three out of the trap, became second at half-way, but could not cut down, except for a length or two, Ryland R.'s big lead. The winner was warmly cheered, and the applause became doubled when the time was shown. This time, though really excellent, and the world's record under Ray timing, does not beat that of Mick the Miller over the distance at Cardiff of 29.55 secs.

LIGHT-WEIGHT "T.T." RACE IN ISLE OF MAN.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.
DOUGLAS, I.O.M., Tuesday.

With the promise of a "field" of over forty, to-morrow's race for the Light-Weight Tourist Trophy should be one of the most interesting of the Isle of Man Week. It will be as international in character as the bigger races, as four of the entrants are foreigners, and two will be mounted on machines made in their own countries. Fondu will ride a Belgian-made La Mondiale, but his chances are not rated so highly as those of Ghersi on the Italian-made Guzzi. Ghersi is one of the most experienced Continental riders, and the Guzzi demonstrated its quality on the Isle of Man course more than once. Other foreign riders are Franconi (Switzerland) and Ghersi's brother, but both will ride British machines. There will be a quartette of Colonials—Williams (Australia), Sarkis (South Africa), Duncan (Federated Malay States), and Boudin (Channel Islands). While Pietro Ghersi is regarded as the most formidable of the visiting riders, there is a quiet feeling amongst the home manufacturers that the foreign challenge will again be defeated.

CRICKET.

FINE VICTORY FOR TRINITY.

There was quite an exciting finish to the match between Dublin University and Manchester University yesterday in the College Park, the home side winning just five minutes from time by six wickets.

Trinity had left off in a strong position as the result of Monday's play, holding a lead of 75 runs for the first innings. Yesterday, however, the visitors made a fine recovery, and, totalling 173 at their second venture, left Trinity 99 to win, with only one and a-half hours for play. Trinity, thanks chiefly to A. D. Barber and G. T. Kenay, accomplished the task.

Manchester owed their recovery to three players, A. K. Davenport, G. M. Moore and J. Muschamp. The former, going in first, was fifth out, having put together an excellent 45. He played the bowling with the utmost confidence, and his hits included six boundaries. Moore showed much enterprise in a contribution of 34, and had four boundaries; while Muschamp, who made 22, assisted Davenport to add 47 for the fourth wicket.

G. K. Donald bowled with most success.

Trinity made a bad start, losing E. S. Barber with the score at 4. A. D. Barber and G. T. Kenay made a fine stand for the second wicket, and put on runs at a steady rate. The bowling and fielding were very keen, however, and neither batsmen took liberties. As both got set, however, they hit freely, and the score reached 73 before they were separated, Kenay being then bowled by Crossley for an invaluable 33. Barber left a little later. After V. Mooney had left cheaply, the brothers Dixon hit off the runs. Score:—

THE SENIOR SCHOOLS' CUP FINAL.

The Leinster Senior Schools' Cup final commenced yesterday at the Leinster ground, Rathmines, on a slow wicket, between Sandford Park School (holders) and Belvedere College, who won the trophy the three previous years. Sandford Park batted first, and their opening pair, C. W. Mellon and E. Campbell, put on 14. When Pilkington joined Campbell runs came more freely, and they added 51. Pilkington hit up 46 (6 fours) in less than an hour, the third wicket falling at 82. The innings lasted two hours and a half. In three-quarters of an hour, and before rain caused stumps to be drawn, Belvedere scored 26 for one wicket. The ground being engaged to-day, the match will be continued to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

A THRILLING FINISH.

SURREY WIN ON TIME BY 12 RUNS.

Immense credit is due to the Sussex eleven for their fine struggle at Horsham when facing the task of scoring 338 to beat Surrey yesterday. Such a strong bid was made for victory that all but 13 of the runs were obtained, Surrey winning five minutes before the expiration of the extra half-hour by 12 runs. When the fourth innings was entered upon, fortunately for Sussex, the pitch proved more favourable to run-getting than at any time previously. Sussex did well practically to a man, chief honours resting with Duleepsinhji and Tate. Duleepsinhji showed fine judgment and skill in scoring on the on side during his hundred minutes at the wicket. When he left half the side was out for 145, but John Langridge and Harry Parks both tackled the situation with courage, the latter staying seventy-five minutes. Cricket became of absorbing interest when the eighth wicket fell, with Sussex requiring 95 runs with only seventy-five minutes left.

Tate attacked the bowling with zest, and, in partnership with Pearce, scored 57 out of 65, added in forty minutes. Pulling and driving splendidly, he hit ten 4's and a 3. Sussex were always in front of the clock, but Pearce, a recruit full of confidence, eventually lifted a ball, and the innings closed for 325.

BOXING

TRINITY WEEK.

UNIVERSITY BOXERS' NARROW DEFEAT.

ONE of the most attractive events on the Trinity Week programme was the Boxing Tournament which was held last night, when the Dublin University Club opposed a team selected from the Royal Ulster Rifles and the Gordon Highlanders in the Gymnasium, College Park.

Midway through the contest it looked as though the visitors were about to make a clean sweep of the honours, as, with four of the nine bouts decided, Trinity were without a win. Then came C. W. McNamara's victory over Lance-Corporal Wolfenden, and the home club also won the last three fights, but they lost the contest by five bouts to four.

It was a night of hectic fighting, but there was no better contest than the bantam-weight affair between Lance-Corporal Graham and B. A. Doyle. The latter started off splendidly against a much tougher opponent. Using his right effectively, he had the better of the first round, and at one point almost had his man out. Graham recovered well, and there was little between them in the second round. In the final session they tore into each other with a cheerful disregard for defence, and Doyle looked to have just about gained the verdict, which, however, went to Graham by two votes to one.

Rifleman French was much too experienced for J. C. McNeilly, and never looked like losing the lead which he gained in the first round.

There was a lot of wild punching in the other light-weight bout between J. J. Blake and Lance-Corporal Davidson. The latter's footwork was good, but he failed to get anything like the full amount of power behind his punches. He was the stronger, however, and won well, despite a fine rally by Blake in the last round.

C. Gore-Grimes was also at a disadvantage in weight in his bout with Corporal McLean, who rained punches to his opponent's head to gain a quick win early in the second round.

Much credit was due to C. W. McNamara in gaining the decision over Lance-Corporal Wolfenden. He was almost out in the earlier stages, but he effected a magnificent recovery in the final round. One of the most improved members of the Trinity Club is F. F. E. Smith. He lost a fine chance of a knock-out in the first round, but he eventually outfought Sergeant Walsh to win on points.

D. L. Graham, who was unexpectedly beaten by F. P. Merriman, of Queen's, in the recent universities' championships, showed a return to something approaching his best form by defeating Sergeant Elwood. Graham went for his man from the bell, and was a winner almost from the beginning.

THE COLLEGE RACES.

For some time the ground staff has been working hard on the preparation of the track in the College Park, in view of the College Races, which will be held to-day, and while it must have been affected by the rainfall, it will be in good condition for to-day's events, provided there is not another heavy downpour. All the best men in college will compete, and as the training has revealed a marked all-round improvement on the form displayed in the championships, the competition should be exceptionally keen. The first event is timed for 3 o'clock.

WIN FOR MAXIE ROSENBLOOM.

TORONTO, Tuesday.

Maxie Rosenbloom, the former world's light-heavy-weight champion, beat Charlie Belanger, the Canadian champion, on points over ten rounds here last night. The bout was evenly contested, but Rosenbloom had a more finished style.

SWIMMING

IRISH 220 "RECORD" BROKEN.

FINE PERFORMANCE BY R. N. CASE.

A noteworthy event in Irish swimming took place at the Tara street Baths last evening, when R. N. Case, Clontarf S.C., the Irish 220 yards champion, made a successful attempt on the Irish record of 2 minutes 44 seconds at that distance set up by the late Major G. S. Dockrell as far back as 1908.

In his attempt on the "record" Case swam with B. J. McKeown, Belvedere College and Pembroke S.C.'s, the Leinster schoolboy champion of 1929 and 1930, to whom he conceded a start of one length. Swimming with a fine easy action, Case covered the first forty yards in 23 seconds, 80 yards in 49 seconds, and 100 yards in 64 seconds. At 160 yards, although he had bad luck in turning, he was inside the time required for success, having 55 seconds in which to cover the remaining three lengths. He got a poorish turn at the ninth length, but finished his last two lengths in brilliant style to clock 2 mins. 39 3-10 seconds for the furlong, thus reducing the "record" by 4 7-10 seconds. The attempt was under the control of the Leinster Branch, I.A.S.A., and was officially timed by Messrs. A. J. Cullen and H. F. Brennan.

The feat of Case should have an excellent effect on Irish swimming. It is the first time since 1911 that an Irish "record" between 100 yards and 880 yards, inclusive, has been lowered.

The attempt took place at a gala, mostly of club events, organised by the Republican S.C.

LAWN TENNIS.

AN ACROBATIC PLAYER.

LONDON GRASS COURTS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

A. Zappa, a member of the Argentinian Davis Cup team, played a remarkable game in defeating H. Satoh, a Japanese international, in the men's singles of the London Grass Courts Championships at Queen's Club yesterday. Zappa won by 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, and in doing so gave a display of acrobatics seldom seen in a lawn tennis match, even between internationals. He flung himself across the court to retrieve seemingly impossible balls, and on several occasions almost turned a somersault in his efforts to return balls.

R. Boyd, another Argentinian, entered the third round with N. G. Farquharson, of South Africa; S. W. Harris, the former Rugby football international; the Scottish brothers, I. G. and W. A. R. Collins; and G. Lyttleton Rogers, the Irish Davis Cup player. Mrs. J. Van Ryn and Miss M. Sachs (the covered courts champion of the United States) won their way to the third stage of the women's singles; while Fraulein Krahwinkel, of Germany, conceded only four games in her two matches.

Mrs. L. A. Godfree and her sister, Mrs. A. D. Stocks, won their first round match in the doubles, beating Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Lyon by 6-3, 6-0. Fraulein Aussem and Fraulein Krahwinkel and Mrs. Fearnley Whittingstall and Miss Betty Nuthall received walks-over into the second round. Mrs. Van Ryn and Mrs. Harper, in the first round, defeated Mrs. W. A. R. Collins and the Hon. Mrs. Corbett by 6-3, 6-4. Fraulein Aussem, partnered by G. Von Cram, lost only two games to F. Paulos and Miss J. Wynn-Weston in the first round of the mixed doubles. In the men's doubles, G. Lyttleton Rogers and H. Satoh beat Captain R. G. de Quetteville and Captain C. F. Bright 6-4, 6-3; and V. G. Kirby and Farquharson, the South Africans, beat J. H. Ho and J. Tlozynski, of Poland, 6-1, 6-3. Van Ryn and G. M. Lott, the Americans, scratched from the doubles.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT

DUBLIN QUIET.

PRICE CHANGES SMALL.

Dublin Stock market yesterday was extremely idle, and changes in prices were small, but the majority of movements was upwards. Free State Funds, except a small loss on the Third Loan, were unchanged, and the Five per cent. War Loan was unaltered. Both the Dublin Corporation Five per cent. issues rose half to 106½. Banks were neglected and Rails unchanged. Dublin Tram Pref. rose a shilling to 151s. Alliance Gas lost 1/16 at 10⅝. Guinness Units were steady and slightly better at 100s., and the Prefs. rose 1/16 to 12 11/32. Cables Pref. lost ¾ of Monday's rise.

The Industrial market was stagnant, with small changes each way. Imperial Tobaccos rose a shilling, the largest movement in the list. All the other changes were insignificant. Burke Prefs. repeated 59s. 6d. and Matterson Prefs. 53s.

LONDON IRREGULAR.

BRAZILIAN BONDS ADVANCE.

Irregular conditions ruled in London Stock markets yesterday, business showing little expansion. Gilt-edged issues opened dull and rose afterwards, but best prices were not held and some stocks were lower on the day. New Zealand and Queensland stocks improved, but West Australian 6 p.c. 1930-40 fell 3 points. Among Foreign Bonds, Brazilians were supported, the 6½ p.c. Sterling Bonds of 1927 showing an appreciation of 3½. German Bonds continued firm, and the fact of the increase in the German Bank rate was regarded as satisfactory so far as can be judged in the short time it has been operative. There was not much activity among Home Rails, but with less selling and a few inquiries by purchasers prices showed a general rise. In the Oil market, Anglo-Persians were weak on the statement by Sir John Cadman at yesterday's meeting that the outlook for the future was still obscure. Lord Bearsted, it is said, is likely to join the Anglo-Persian Board shortly. Randfonteins received support in the Mining market on reports of another good strike at the mine. Among Industrials, Swedish Match and Kreuger and Toll reacted. Reports from New York state that the International Telephone and Telegraph Company is to purchase a controlling interest in the Ericsson Telephone Co. of Sweden. It is likely that 600,000 "B" shares, carrying no voting right, will be taken at a cost of about £1,660,000. The controlling interest in the latter concern was acquired by Kreuger and Toll last year. Dunlops attracted attention, and after some fluctuation closed below the best.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

FURTHER ADVANCE IN TILLINGS.

Irregularity again characterised most sections of the Industrial market yesterday. The tone was fairly firm at the opening, but it subsequently became easier.

With New York moving in uncertain fashion, the trans-Atlantic favourites developed an easier tendency. Brazilian Traction Common reacted to 15⅞, and Radio Corp. finished nearly a dollar down at 15⅝. Columbia Graphophones slipped back to 1 15/32 and H.M.V.'s to 1½.

Cables and Wireless Stocks received a little support at first, but prices gave way later, the Pref. closing at 53½, after 54; the "A" Ord. at 13⅜, after 14½, and the "B" Ord. at 8. Globe Telegraph Trust issues were little affected by the reduction in the dividend, which was generally anticipated. Marconi Marine lost the turn at 1 11/32.

Thomas Tillings continued to attract most attention in the Motor section on merger talk, the price further advancing 1/16 to 3⅝. Leylands hardened to 35s. and Austin Ord. to 34s. 9d., but Fords sagged to 2 3/16, and Humbers were offered at 12s. 6d.

Apart from B.S.A. Ord. at 6s. and Consett Iron at 3s. 6d., the Iron and Steel section tended towards higher levels.

Electricals generally presented a firm front. Of the Equipments, General Electric advanced 9d. to 37s. 6d. in anticipation of the annual report.

There was less doing among Breweries, but prices generally were fairly well maintained. Barclay Perkins were inquired for at 26s. 6d. Watney Def., however, reacted 6d. to 48s. 6d.

Tobaccos moved within narrow limits.

Textiles made an uneven showing. J. and P. Coats had buyers at 46s. 3d., Fine Spinners at 11s. 9d., "Slubbers" at 2s. 6d., and Sewing Cotton Pref. at 17s., but Bleachers receded to 6s. 4½d., Calico Printers to 4s. 9d., and the Pref. to 7s.

In the Rayon section, Courtaulds opened steadily around 27s. 6d., but in the absence of further supporting orders, the price gradually weakened, and finished no better than 25s. 7½d. Selling from the provinces was reported in the late dealings. The Celanese issues were maintained, while Snia Viscosa had buyers at 7s.

Among Provision Shares, Schweppes Deferred recovered 1/16 to £1, while Spiers and Ponds put on 3d. to 13s. Unilever and Unilever N.V. slipped back 1/16 to 1½ and 1 1/16 respectively.

There was very little business in Banks, and prices kept steady. Insurance Shares were also quiet.

Shipping issues were featureless.

The sharp improvement which occurred in Dunlops after hours on Monday was nullified yesterday. Sellers predominated, and after opening at 17s. they drooped to 16s. 1½d., thus showing a net loss of 1s. Imperial Chemicals held their ground fairly well until the late afternoon, when they came on offer, and fell 6d. to 13s. 1½d. The Preference remained at 20s., but the Deferred eased 1½d. to 2s. 9d. Swedish Match "B" closed ⅛ lower at 9 7/16, after touching 9¾, and Kreuger and Toll ⅛ down at 18¾, after 18½. Unofficial dealings in Woolworths Ordinary Shares were reported down to 1s. premium offered, but they rallied to around 1s. 9d. premium at the finish. Allotment letters are expected to be posted to-night.

OIL SHARES EASY.

Quiet conditions again prevailed in Oil Shares yesterday, and small declines were recorded by leading issues. The quiet investment demand for preference shares was not so apparent, but advances were well maintained. Among the leaders Anglo-Persians provided the weakest spot following the meeting. Although few of the shares actually came on offer, a loss of 1/16 was recorded at 1 13/16. Burmahs eased in sympathy to 2⅜, a fall of 1/32. Paris was again neglecting its usual favourites, little busines being done in the Eagle issues, and small declines were again registered. Trinidad issues failed to continue the upward movement which started on Monday, although Apex gained a small amount at 8s. 4½d. Leaseholds held most of the preceding day's rise, a loss of only 1/32 being shown at 1 3/32.

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

Despite the reduction of the stocks of rubber in London announced on Monday, and the firmer tendency of the price for the commodity yesterday, there was no increase of business in the Rubber Share market. Highlands rose 7½d. to 10s. 7½d., but Kuala Selangors eased 1½d., and other shares were stagnant.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

Business after hours last evening was negligible, and prices generally showed no alteration from their close of the "House" levels. Hydros, however, were fractionally easier at 17¼, and both International Holdings and H.M.V. were fractionally lower. U.S. Steels, on the other hand, hardened to 91, and Canadian Pacifics were a shade firmer at 26.

CLIFTON COFFEE COMPANY.

CLAIM FOR COMMISSION.

Mr. C. H. Clendinning, Managing Director of the British Trade Propaganda Corporation, Ltd., brought an action against Mr. Arthur Kitson, the famous economist, which was heard in the King's Bench Division, London, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Rowlatt.

It involved a claim for commission for arranging the finance of the Clifton Coffee Co., Ltd., which Mr. Kitson formed, and of which he is a director.

Judgment was given in favour of Mr. Clendinning, with costs.

Counsel for the plaintiff was Mr. F. O. Langley, and the solicitors were Messrs. Goodbody, of Dublin.

It was stated at the house of Princess Marie Louise in Pall Mall last night that there was a further slight improvement in her condition.

LONDON MINING MARKET STEADY.

SHARP RISE IN ASHANTI GOLDFIELDS.

Though trading was small the tone generally in the Mining market was firm. Some interest was taken in Randfontein and Daggafontein, both of which left off something to the good. Rumours of good developments in the mines were received privately from Johannesburg, but no official information was forthcoming during business hours. Johnnies were without alteration. Rhodesians were idle, and there was little life in the Diamond section, where, however, De Beers Defd. moved up the turn. In the West African department, Ashanti Goldfields were in request, and floating supplies being limited the quotation rose sharply. The price of copper eased to £34 8s. 9d. per ton, and Rio Tinto again receded. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET

SWISS PAY HIGH PRICE FOR CAPE GOLD.

Very easy conditions prevailed in Lombard Street yesterday in the absence of any calling-in by the banks. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 1½ per cent., and fresh advances over the night were offering at 1½ down to 1 per cent.

Bill rates were easier in sympathy with money, fine three months maturities being taken at 2 1/16 to 2 1/16 per cent. There were buyers of June Treasuries at 1½ per cent., while, for other dates, 2 1/16 per cent. was the general rate.

About £807,000 in gold from South Africa and the United States was in the market today, and, of this, £650,000 was bought on Swiss account, and £15,000 taken for the trade. The price was raised ½d. to 85s. 0½d. per ounce fine, which is the highest it has been since January last. Silver was 1/16d. better at 12⅝d. per ounce, because of the small amount offering.

At the Bank, £727,800 in bar gold was bought, £83,814 in bar gold sold, £300,000 in sovereigns released, £59,000 in sovereigns exported, and £20,834 in sovereigns set aside.

With the exception of the German rate, movements in the Foreign Exchange market yesterday were favourable to sterling. The New York rate was practically unchanged on balance at nearly 4.86 7/16, but the Canadian rate rose by 1/16c. to 4.88⅜. Among the Continental currencies, francs opened at 124.15¼, and steadily cheapened, the final quotation being 124.20½, as compared with Monday's finish of 124.17. The German rate fell by ½ pf. to 20.49½. Argentine dollars were 1/16d. dearer at 34¼d., but the Brazilian milreis was unchanged at 3 11/32d.

COMPANY MEETING.

ANGLO-PERSIAN OIL

A VERY STRONG POSITION.

SUCCESS OF "B.P. PLUS."

SIR JOHN CADMAN'S STATEMENT.

The twenty-second ordinary general meeting of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, Ltd., was held yesterday at River Plate House, Finsbury Circus, London, E.C.

Sir John Cadman, G.C.M.G., D.Sc. (chairman of the company), said in the course of his speech:—You will agree that the balance sheet discloses a very strong position. The net profit is £4,648,579, as against £5,206,762, a reduction of about £560,000. Out of this profit we have written off £500,000 for extra depreciation and discount on debentures, and have allocated £1,050,000 to various reserve funds. If the dividend recommendation is accepted by you the carry forward will be increased by £200,000. In these circumstances the Board has felt justified in recommending to you a final dividend of 10 per cent. on the Ordinary shares, making 15 per cent. for the year. I have also been asked to state the figure of depreciation provided. We have provided in 1930 in respect of the company and its 100 per cent. subsidiaries £2,950,000, as against £3,300,000 in 1929, while we have provided out of the year's profits in respect of depreciation and reserves £6,000,000 in 1930, as compared with £5,500,000 in 1929. I have also been asked for an explanation of the reference to Scottish oils in the statement appended to the profit and loss account. The shares in question are the Ordinary shares of the companies engaged in the shale oil industry in Scotland. These are all held by Scottish Oils, Ltd., and are valued at cost, less sums written off by way of depreciation. There is now no quoted market price for these shares, and the auditors of that company have, therefore, no outside comparison to guide them.

PRODUCTION—PERSIA AND IRAQ.

Production in 1930 amounted to approximately 6,000,000 tons, of which slightly over 1,000,000 tons was drawn from Haft Kel merely for balancing purposes, since the whole could with ease have been provided by Masjid-I-Sulaiman. Drilling operations have now been reduced to the small proportions necessary to maintain a regulated production over both structures. The work which has now been done in the development of the Persian oilfields places us in a very healthy position, since we have definite and easily accessible reserves on which we can count for many years to come. With respect to the Iraq Petroleum Company you will, doubtless, have been interested to read recent Press announcements regarding a remodelling of the company's concession. Under the revised agreement the company has secured a very large and undivided area of land, permitting it to pursue its developments under the best technical conditions, since all risk of off-setting has now been eliminated. The matter is of great importance to us owing to our large interest in the Iraq company.

"B.P." AND "B.P. PLUS."

As you are aware, the sale of our products is carried on by means of subsidiary and affiliated interests in various parts of the world. In many countries our products, and notably our motor spirit, are sold under the familiar "B.P." brand which, so far as Great Britain is concerned, has recently been supplemented by a new petrol under the brand name of "B.P. Plus," designed to meet the exacting demands made by the modern motor car. It has, I am pleased to say, been accorded an excellent reception, and we have every confidence that it will further enhance the prestige of our "B.P." products.

The petroleum industry can obviously not hope to dissociate its own progress from the effects of what I might call the industrial anæmia with which the world is afflicted to-day. In solving the problems of our own industry, however, we may hope to contribute to the solution of the world problem.

PROSPECTS.

It has been customary in past years to dwell briefly on this subject with such precision as the prevailing circumstances might admit. These, however, are cloudy days, and, as will be realised from what I have already said, the outlook is obscure. Results for some months past are by no means what we could have wished them, and I am unable at the present moment to give any assurances that an early improvement can be counted upon. Price reductions are on too severe a level to admit of their being offset by any possible curtailment in operating expenses, although all that is possible along these lines is being, and will continue to be, done. Fortunately the company is well qualified, both financially and technically, to maintain its producing and marketing positions and when the tide turns, as, sooner or later, it must, we shall be found capable of taking full advantage of it, and determined to do so.

The report and accounts were adopted.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

"JOHNNIES" DIVIDENDS LIST.

The Johannesburg Consolidated Investment Company announces a dividend of 7½ per cent., less British tax, for the year. The directors state that the gross profits have been well maintained. In view of the abnormal depreciation in market value of certain of the company's shareholdings, the directors have decided to provide such part of this depreciation as has not been met out of profits by an allocation of approximately £400,000 from the company's reserve fund. The dividends of the subsidiaries are also set forth elsewhere in our issue to-day, and they are quite satisfactory. Government Areas and Langlaagte repeat their former declarations, and New State Areas is paying 2s., against 1s. 6d. in June last and 2s. in December. As anticipated, Van Ryn Deep is paying 2s. 6d., as compared with 3s. in June and December last, and the old Witwatersrand (Knight's) is paying 6d. per share, as compared with 1s. in June and December last. This mine, which, during its career, has paid £3,045,000 in dividends, is now showing smaller monthly profits, but it squeezes out a return, while its neighbour, the "Deep," has paid nothing since 1927. Langlaagte, on a dividend basis of 20 per cent. per annum, is the star success of "Johnnies" management, when the narrowness of the reef and other conditions are taken into consideration.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The following extracts are from the Bank of London and South America's monthly telegraphic summary of news:—From Buenos Aires branch, dated 13th June, 1931—"The volume of exports in general, and of maize especially, continues to be heavy. For the first five months of 1931 export figures show an increase of 2,635,000 tons, as compared with the corresponding period of 1930, but the aggregate value is less by $30,383,000 gold; import figures are not yet available. The weather is dry and seasonably cold." From Bogota branch, dated 10th June, 1931—"It is anticipated that the coffee crop, while less in quantity than that of last year, will be of a better quality. Prices are declining slightly in sympathy with the seasonal decreased consumption in the United States. Abundant rains have fallen and have favoured the growing crops and pasture lands, and there has been a slight revival in the demand for cattle. Trading on the Bolsa is limited, and the lack of movement tends to lower quotations."

CONSOLIDATED BANK NOTES.

Bank.	Quota. £	Daily average. £

The above figures do not include notes deemed to be Consolidated Bank Notes in accordance with Section 60 (4) of the Currency Act, 1927. On the 30th May, 1931, these amounted in the aggregate to £1,785,350. (The amount outstanding on May 2 was £1,812,445.)

INTERNATIONAL ARTIFICIAL SILK.

In a report which covers the two years to 31st March last, the directors of the International Artificial Silk Company state that the hopes entertained at the last annual meeting of 31st December, 1929, have not been fulfilled. The appointment of a receiver made it impossible for the directors to raise money, and the accounts which are submitted have been prepared by the directors. The directors considered it better to send out accounts which, while not audited in accordance with the Companies Act, will inform shareholders of the present position, and can be submitted for audit in due course when the financial position permits, rather than to prejudice by a premature liquidation the possibility of dealing with the assets to advantage. The directors' efforts to avoid liquidation had been successful in the case of La Soie de Clairoix, but compulsory liquidation was forced by a creditor of Aubenton. The accounts show a loss for the period of £35,799, compared with a loss of £1,684 for the initial period to 31st March, 1929. Balance-sheet total stands at £768,250. Of the assets, £415,000 is on account of shares in subsidiaries, while advances to subsidaries amount to £228,479. As regards sundry investments, the directors are unable to form an opinion of the 100,000 shares in Alliance Artificial Silk, and the 100,000 shares in Atlas Artificial Silk Processes lodged as part security for bank overdraft and £5,500 advanced in reduction of overdraft.

DIVIDEND DEDUCTIONS.

Discussion is taking place in London regarding the rules for marking shares "ex div." It is said that the Stock Exchange Committee propose in future to treat all shares alike, and to quote prices ex div. on the contango day, following the closing of the books, or after the annual meeting. For a number of years prices of shares in the Mining, Rubber and Tea sections have been marked x. d. on the account day after the dividend is paid. It has been the custom to mark Industrial prices x. d. on the account day after the books are closed for an interim dividend, or after the annual meeting for a final dividend. It is believed that the Committee have also under consideration a standard rule for marking American shares x. d. A statement on the subject is expected within the next few days.

WOOLWORTH ISSUE.

In London yesterday the unofficial quotation for Woolworth Ordinary shares was 9d. to 1s. 3d. premium, as compared with about 3s. 6d. premium on Monday. Allotment letters have not yet been posted, but it is believed that the small applicants have been ruled out. Cheques below £20, we understand, have not been cleared.

LEGAL TENDER NOTE FUND.

The amount of legal tender notes outstanding on June 13th was £7,310,144, as compared with £7,397,382 10s. on June 6th. The amount issued during the week was £87,377 10s., and the amount redeemed £174,616.

SUPPORT FOR PESETA.

It is understood that the negotiations for the granting of an immediate credit by a group of French banks to the Bank of Spain have been successfully concluded. The amount to be advanced, in the form of an advance on securities, is equivalent to £2,000,000 sterling. The credit was sought for the purpose of supporting the Spanish exchange. It was then reported that an advance of £4,000,000 would be requested.

U.S. GOLD FOR GERMANY.

A New York correspondent cables that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has announced the release from earmark of $41,000,000 gold (£8,000,000). German gold holdings in New York are understood to have been exhausted, and the release is believed to be entirely on French account. There is some uncertainty as to the arrangement made under which this release has been accomplished. Some believe it to be a triangular transaction, involving a similar shipment to Paris from Germany, but the release is also held as an indication of a possible credit. The deal is one of the greatest on record. It was announced on Monday afternoon by the New York Federal Reserve Bank in its daily statement regarding the movement in gold. It has reduced the total amount of gold earmarked to about $60,000,000 (£12,000,000). Although the amount of the release is more than the amount supposed to be earmarked for German account, it is supposed that Germany has entered into an agreement with France, whereby French gold in New York has been released and credited to the account of Germany.

RIVER PLATE MEAT.

We are informed that the offer for the Debentures and shares of the River Plate British and Continental Meat Company has been accepted by the holders of 90 per cent. of each class, which makes the offer valid.

GOLD MOVEMENTS.

Those who contend that the major cause of the economic depression from which the world has suffered so long is a maldistribution of gold may consider that their standpoint is strengthened by recent developments. At least the latter suggests that, if conditions were normal, excessive movements of gold might be avoided. It is reported that the total stock of gold in the United States has now reached the new high record of £1,000,000,000. This report is accompanied by a suggestion that part of the gold held there on French account may be placed to the credit of Germany, presumably in order to support the market and, perhaps, check the outflow of foreign capital. In a period of little more than a week the Bank of England has received a total of £7,200,000 of gold from Germany; yet for this week's arrival of bar gold from the mines, etc., there was so keen a demand on Swiss account as to absorb practically the whole and at an unusually high price. Switzerland, indeed, paid ½d. per oz. above what is regarded as the figure at which the Bank of England is bound by law to sell gold for export. The explanation appears to l that for about a year the Bank of England has not sold gold of fine quality, only what are known as bars of standard fineness. In order to obtain the former, and thus avoid the delay and charges involved in refining gold withdrawn from the Bank of England, it paid Switzerland to give the high price mentioned. The figure is not a record; for in December last the open market price touched 85s. 2d. per oz., the highest since the return to the gold standard in 1925.

GAMAGES' (WEST END) MEETING.

The creditors of Gamages (West End), Ltd., met yesterday, under the winding-up order made last May on a creditor's petition. Mr. H. P. Naunton, Assistant Official Receiver, reported that the building in Oxford street was to cost £500,000, but because the original plans were rejected by the London County Council new plans had to be prepared. The total expenditure in connection with the formation of the company and the erection of the buildings was approximately £1,162,124, and the total amount of share and mortgage capital was £975,000, so there was nothing available for working capital. Mr. Naunton said that, according to an approximate statement of affairs prepared on April 17, there was a surplus of assets over liabilities amounting to £340,287, but the assets were subject to realisation. The managing directors attributed the failure of the company to lack of capital and delay in the completion of the premises, due to the first plans being rejected and to severe depression in trade. Answering a creditor, Mr. Naunton said that Messrs. Selfridges, who purchased the stock, paid for it approximately £85,000. The meeting appointed Mr. S. H. Gillett as liquidator, with a committee of inspection.

CORNBROOK BREWERY.—Interim dividend at rate of 10 per cent. per annum, less tax, on Ordinary. (Same.)

CAM AND MOTOR GOLD MINING CO. (1919).—Dividend of 10 per cent., less tax (against 10 per cent. in June and 7½ per cent. in December last).

FOSTER CLARK.—Interim dividend of 12½ per cent., less tax. This compares with 15 per cent. at this time last year.

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY.—Profit for the year ended March 31, 1931, £1,122,007. It was decided to recommend a dividend of 10 per cent. per annum, less income tax, on the Ordinary Shares of the company. The profits of the company in the previous year amounted to £1,179,007, and the dividend on the Ordinary Shares was 10 per cent., with a bonus of 4 per cent.

IMPERIAL BANK OF PERSIA.—The net profit for the year ended March 20th last declined from £124,279 to £93,013, and £44,880 was brought in. The directors recommend a final dividend of 2/- per share, plus a bonus of 2/- per share, making a total for the year of 13/- per share, free of tax (unchanged). It is also proposed to carry £20,000 against £40,000 to reserve, and again to write £10,000 off bank premises, leaving £42,893 to carry over. In last year's report reference was made to the sum of £200,000 payable to the bank on March 20th, 1931, by the Persian Government in consideration of the surrender of the bank's right of note issue. This amount, the report states, has duly received, and has been incorporated in the balance sheet.

KADUNA PROSPECTORS.—Dividend of 10 per cent. (Last year 10 per cent., making 20 per cent., leaving to be carried forward £3,674.

KADUNA SYNDICATE.—Final dividend of 7½ per cent., less tax, making 10 per cent. for year.

MANCHESTER ICE RINK.—Profit, £6,048. Ordinary dividend, 15 per cent. (same). Forward, £4,593.

NATAL NAVITATION COLLIERIES AND ESTATE CO.—Dividend of 2½ per cent. for half-year, compares with 3½ per cent. for last three half-years.

PORTSMOUTH AND BRIGHTON UNITED BREWERIES.—Final dividend on Ordinary Shares of 5 per cent., less tax, making 7½ per cent., compared with 5 per cent. last year.

ROYAL EXCHANGE, GLASGOW, LIMITED.—It has been decided to pay on July 15th an interim dividend of 1½ per cent. actual, less income tax. The interim payment at this time last year was 2½ per cent., actual, less tax.

RAJAMAI TEA.—Final dividend of 17½ per cent., less tax, making 55 per cent. for year, against 30 per cent., making 67½ per cent.

SHERWOOD STARR GOLD MINING.—A dividend of 15 per cent. has been declared, making 30 per cent. for the year ending June 30th next, against 25 per cent. for 1929-30.

SCOTTISH GENERAL TRANSPORT.—Report for 1930 of Scottish General Transport, in which British Electric Traction holds a large interest, states that the revenue at £76,094 was 102.5 per cent. larger than that of 1929, when the revenue totalled £37,576. The company's revenue is derived from dividends and interest on investments and net receipts from the company's omnibus business. After charging expenses and placing £27,500 (against £17,500 in 1929) to depreciation reserve, £5,103 remained, and with £254 brought in, £5,357 is carried forward. Report states that Glasgow-Gourock 'bus service, operated by the company jointly with the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, proved unremunerative owing to severe competition and adverse weather conditions during summer season. Amount transferred to reserve is more than sufficient to liquidate loss incurred during year.

UNITED KINGDOM TOBACCO (1929).—Trading for 1930 resulted in adverse balance upon profit and loss account of £23,128. Previous period net profit, before depreciation and tax, was £40,920, out of which Preference dividend to December 31, 1929, was paid. Report states that adverse result for 1930 is due primarily to loss of export trade to India, China and Australia on account of general boycott and tariffs, and to acute competition that has prevailed throughout the year in every direction.

DUBLIN POTATO.—Few factors are now handling old crop potatoes, which are practically finished. Prices generally are unchanged, although some sellers are asking more money. General run of prices are 7/6 per cwt. Fair offerings of new crop, which proved ample for demand at the easier prices of 18/- per cwt.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG.—Last week-end there was a better cross-Channel enquiry for creamery butter. Local trade is also somewhat improved, and values show a slightly firmer turn. Butter is now very plentiful, and is being handled at a very slender margin of profit, which makes credit business very difficult. Fair supplies of farmers' parcels on offer, and a good clearance was made of the better qualities, but coarse lots continue hard to cash. No enquiry for factory butter, prices being beyond the market. Finest creams—56lbs., 1/- to 1/0¼ per lb.; 28lbs., 1/0¼ to 1/0½; farmers' good grades, 9d. to 9½d.; extra, 10d.; poorer classes, 7½d. to 8½d. It is coming to season when production of eggs begins to show some decrease, and with a better shipping demand prices are firmer for reliable, well-handled parcels, particularly 17lb. grades, which are now scarce. Otherwise supplies are ample for all requirements at the following:—Extra 16lb. and 17lb. grades, 9/3 to 9/10; ordinary and selected, 8/- to 8/8; medium, 7/3 to 7/8; smalls, etc., 6/- to 6/6, and duck eggs 8/4 to 8/6 per 120.

CORK BUTTER.—The market has undergone no noteworthy change. Creameries 112/- per cwt.

DUBLIN FISH.—Supply generally good, with very heavy arrivals of salmon and grilse. On offer 193 boxes of mixed catch from one steam trawler, 60 packages salmon, 18 chests lobster, 10 packages herrings, 20 boxes mackerel, and a fair amount from country and local senders. Demand fair, except for grilse, which were slow to clear at poor prices. Salmon 1/7 to 1/9 lb., grilse 1/4 to 1/6 lb., lobsters 20/- to 25/- per 13 large, medium 10/- to 15/-, small 2/6 to 5/-; Soles 20/- to 25/- per 9 pairs large, medium 12/6 to 15/-; slips 2/6 to 5/-, turbot 6d. to 8/- each, brill 6d. to 3/- each, herrings 12/6 to 20/- box, mackerel 10/- to 15/-, plaice, small and large, 15/- to 60/- per half-box, cod and codling 25/- to 60/-, whiting, small and large, 15/- to 50/-, ling 12/6 to 15/-, hake, small and large, 20/- to 80/-, conger eels 12/6 to 15/-, pollock 12/6 to 14/-, gurnard 7/6 to 10/- and white soles 30/- to 40/-.

BILLINGSGATE FISH.—Soles, also slips, 16d. to 20d.; lobsters, 16d. to 24d.; salmon, English, 23d. to 25d.; Scottish, 24d. to 26d.; Irish, 22d. to 24d. per lb.; live eels, 14/- to 34/-; dead, 12/- to 29/- per draught; turbot, 8/- to 9/-; plaice, 5/- to 12/-; halibut, 12/- to 15/-; lemon soles, 8/- to 12/-; cod, 3/- to 5/-; hake, 8/- to 10/-; skate wings, 3/- to 4/-; haddocks, 2/- to 8/- per stone.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW—There was an improved demand for hay, but only for the better classes, which were in very small supply, and for this reason alone prices were 3d. per cwt. dearer. Other classes were slow to move, as in most cases arrivals were in damp condition, and, with buyers confined to retailers, who were slow to bid, sales dragged into a late hour, when fully a dozen loads of useful class were unbid for. Sales—Choice 1st crop 5/- to 5/3, 2nd and 3rd crop 4/3 to 4/6, extra 4/9; old meadow strong, 3/9 to 4/-, medium 3/3 to 3/6, and inferior 2/6 to 3/- per cwt. Rather small supply of straw, which generally was of middling class. Choice arrivals were cashed easily at last day's prices, but market finished weak at the following:—Best oaten 3/9 to 4/-, extra 4/3 per cwt; wheaten 3/9 to 4/-, inferior 5/-, both classes 3/3 to 3/6 per cwt.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

CORNISH POISON MYSTERY.

TRIAL OF MRS. HEARN.

Mr. William Henry Thomas, husband of Mrs. Thomas, was a witness at Cornwall Assizes Bodmin, yesterday, in the case in Assizes, Bodmin, yesterday, in the case in with murdering her sister, Lydia Maria Everard (52), and her friend, Mrs. Alice Maud Thomas (47). The Crown alleged that both women died from arsenical poisoning.

Mrs. Hearn pleaded not guilty to both indictments.

Prosecuting counsel stated on Monday that he would proceed on the indictment of the alleged murder of Mrs. Thomas.

The case was adjourned until to-day.

Mr. Thomas stated yesterday that after the party at Bude he asked Mrs. Hearn what sort of fish was in the sandwiches. She replied: "Tinned salmon," and that she herself felt funny afterwards.

After his wife's death he remembered saying to Mrs. Hearn: "Whatever is the matter, they will find out."

Cross-examined by Mr. Norman Birkett, he said it was quite ordinary for sandwiches to be taken. Mrs. Hearn had done everything a kindly neighbour could do for his wife. He might have said to Mrs. Hearn: "The blame will come heavier on you than me," but he did not remember. He added that he did not know there was any blame on Mrs. Hearn.

Mr. Justice Roche—Did you from first to last ever yourself give your wife any arsenic?

Mr. Thomas—No, sir; never in all my life

Judge—Are you sure?

Witness—I never had arsenic in my possession, except sheep dip and tablets, which are things any farmer might have.

U.S. MARKETS.

FIRM CLOSE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

There were no indications of the market breaking away from its recent narrow trading range, but the action of the Bond market was regarded as encouraging. Following a weak opening trading became very dull and prices declined slowly, with the losses in market favourites confined to about a point.

Banking circles were surprised by the release yesterday of 41,680,000 dollars in the gold earmarked for foreign account, and which was believed to be for account of the Reichsbank. It has been suggested that easier money rates here may follow.

The market rallied in the late dealings, with Rails leading the movement, and closed steady.

WINNIPEG GRAINS.

WHEAT at the opening was about steady, although ⅛c. to ⅛c. lower, due to the absence of foreign interest. The market continued to decline on news of scattered rains, a forecast for thunder showers over Alberta and Saskatchewan, and favourable foreign crop advices. Private reports indicate that the recent rains in Alberta and Manitoba were sufficient for those places to withstand one or two rainless weeks. Later partial rallies were influenced by bullish private reports of poor crop condition, and consequent covering operations. The close, however, was barely steady at 1c. to ⅞c. loss. Opening options—July, 60⅞; October, 61⅞; December, 63. Closing options—July, 60⅛; October, 61½; December, 62⅛. Rye barely steady at ⅛c. to ⅛c. loss. Closing options—July, 32⅞; October, 33⅞; December, 34. Flaxseed easy, 1c. to 2c. cheaper. Closing options—July, 105; October, 106⅞; December, 108.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

Commission house selling, light rains in the Pacific North West and a forecast of rains in the spring wheat area caused wheat prices to decline in early trading. Mr. Chairman Stone made a statement to the effect that the Farm Board will sell abroad as long as the world's markets are undisturbed. Local selling and favourable winter wheat crop advices were further factors for the decline. Later, the market rallied partially due to good buying by shorts, and continued bullish spring wheat crop news. Corn prices advanced on professional buying and commission house absorption, which disclosed limited selling pressure. Rye moved in sympathy with wheat, while oats declined owing to scattered liquidation.

WHEAT at the opening was steady, ⅛c. lower to ¼c. higher. The close was barely steady, ¼c. down to unaltered.

EXCHEQUER BALANCE.

The "other receipts" were £60,000 from coinage and £37,000 from Savings Certificates. There were no "other issues," and £471,438 went to raise the Exchequer balance to £1,861,885, compared with £5,388,500 in the same week last year. It should be explained that at this time last year the proceeds of the Third Loan began to come in, and from this date onward comparisons will be with the big balance from this source.

REUNION AND SPORTS AT MOUNT ST. JOSEPH.

The annual reunion and College sports were held on Sunday at the Cistercian College, Roscrea. The weather was by no means favourable, but it did not damp the spirits of the large number of visitors from the city and the provinces.

Winners of the College of Science Cup in 1927 and runners-up in recent years, the College plays an active part in athletics.

The visitors were entertained to some fine tableaux and drill display by the students, which, in the beautiful settings of the picturesque surroundings, made a charming picture. Luncheon was provided for the guests by the Rev. President in the College, and the College orchestra entertained.

The Right Rev. the Lord Abbot presented the prizes, and gave a short lecture to the students on leaving College and going out in the world.

The Union Gold Medal for academic distinction was awarded to M. O'Meara, and J. Sweeney was awarded the Perpetual Challenge Cup for best all-round athlete, presented by the students to commemorate the Silver Jubilee of the College.
